CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, May 30, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 423 entitled: "An act to add Article 2.5 (comprising Sections 90 to 90.6, inclusive) to Chapter 1, Division 1 of the Streets and Highways Code, relating to the budgeting of State highway funds, specifying the powers and duties of the California Highway Commission and the State Highway Engineer in connection therewith, and providing for the making and distribution of reports thereof."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill adds a new article to the Streets and Highways Code relating to the budgeting of State highway funds and the filing and distribution of reports in connection therewith. The bill substantially will require in the future what is now the existing practice, with two major exceptions. Under Section 90.4 of the Streets and Highways Code, as added by the bill, rigid limitations, to which I will hereafter refer, would be placed upon the authority of the Highway Commission to make changes in the budget following its adoption.

Secondly, the bill will require reports to be rendered showing a comparison of actual expenditures made with those proposed in each Biennial Budget. To this last provision I have no objection.

Section 90.4 of the Streets and Highways Code as added by the bill fails to take into account that conditions following the adoption of the Budget, in addition to those mentioned in the section, might not only justify but require changes to be made therein.

One of the best examples of such changed conditions is now demonstrated by the tremendous increase in traffic that has recently taken place in certain areas of our State following the establishment of Military cantonments and huge defense industries. In these locations traffic has increased many fold almost over night and to such an extent that National defense activities themselves are seriously hampered by the lack of adequate highway facilities. There is nothing in Section 90.4 that would authorize any change in the Budget to meet conditions such as are above described.

It should be remembered that the Budget referred to in the bill must be presented prior to January 1st of each odd numbered year for a two-year period beginning six months later. At best such a Budget can only be an estimate. Occurrences during the past two and one-half years conclusively show that it would have been impossible to anticipate what has occurred with sufficient certainty to budget funds as rigidly as is required under this bill. Such conditions have arisen during the past two years by reason of the Defense Program, but similar highway congestion could arise from any number of causes.

Another example which might be mentioned is one which has been most forcibly called to the attention of the Highway Commission since this bill reached my desk. California highway funds are budgeted on the supposition that regular Federal aid will be available for expenditure on those portions of the Federal Aid Highway System of the State, leaving the choice of those particular projects upon which Federal funds will be expended largely to the discretion of the State authorities. It has been hoped that the Federal Government would appropriate funds to take care of the requirements for construction of Military and access roads and the so-called strategic network so that the regular program, including the use of regular Federal aid funds, could go on as contemplated. Since this bill has been delivered to me, the State Highway Engineer has been advised that the Federal officials will not approve the expenditure of appropriations for Military roads on any highway except those where the improvement is necessary for the adequate service of a Military Reservation or defense manufacturing plant and then only when such usage is a predominant reason for any improvement being made. The result may be, and there is reason to believe that it will be, that regular Federal aid funds will be limited for expenditure upon those highways which are portions of the strategic network of Military roads. Regular Federal aid must be matched almost 50 per cent with State funds and if such is the ruling of the Federal Government, it may be necessary to readjust the Highway Budget not only to permit the expenditure of Federal funds in the only places which the Federal Government will approve, but to provide State funds for matching those Federal funds to avoid losing them entirely. As I read Section 90.4, as added by this bill, a situation of this kind would find the Highway Commission helpless.

A third matter that might be mentioned is that no provision is made in the bill for adjustments by reason of additions to or changes in the Highway System that may be made by the Legislature at any session, it being remembered that there is a legislative session between the adoption of the Budget and the beginning of the biennium to which it relates. As an example, your attention is called to the inclusion within the State Highway System two years ago of the road to the Shasta Dam. Had this bill been in effect at that time, it would have been impossible, for more than two years, to expend any funds which had been budgeted prior to the 1939 Session of the Legislature to improve the highway added.

There may be other situations which would render it necessary for changes in the Highway Budget. It is because of this limitation in the bill which I believe is far too rigid that I find it necessary to return it to you.

Respectfully submitted,

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, May 30, 1941

To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 1016 entitled: "An act to amend Section 45 of the Vehicle Code, relating to implements of husbandry."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

The bill amends Section 45 of the Vehicle Code which defines for the purposes of the code the term "implements of husbandry." All vehicles included within such definition are exempt from the registration fees required by the Vehicle Code and also are exempt from certain other provisions relating to size and equipment.

I am informed that the purpose of the bill was to extend the definition so that certain vehicles which are not now exempted from the registration fees would thereby be exempted. However, I am also informed, and I believe correctly so, that many of those who are in favor of extending the exemptions are of the opinion that the bill will have the opposite effect. The least that can be said is that the bill would undoubtedly make for uncertainty.

Because of the numerous types of vehicles or implements similar to vehicles that are used in agricultural operations and in the movement of agricultural supplies and products, it is difficult to draft in a few lines a definition that will clearly and fairly designate those vehicles which are to be accorded the exemption and distinguish those which are not.

Because of the possibility that this bill might have the opposite effect than was intended by many of those who supported it and because any such exemptions as are to be made should be clearly defined, I recommend that this matter be given further study.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, May 31, 1941

Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 838, entitled: "An act to amend Section 695 of the Political Code, relating to services furnished State agencies other than those supported by the General Fund."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill amends Section 695 of the Political Code, relating to the reimbursement of the General Fund from special funds of a portion of the cost of maintaining the Department of Finance, the State Controller, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General.

Under the existing law the amount charged against the special funds for the support of these agencies is determined by a comparison of the total amount spent from special funds as against the total amount spent by all State agencies. The percentage that is obtained by a comparison of those two figures is then applied to the proratable expenses of the agencies above mentioned to determine the total amount of proratable expense to be charged against the special funds. Each special fund must pay its share of the proratable expense.

This bill will change the method of computing the prorated amounts by using the number of Controller's warrants issued, instead of the total amounts of expenditures from the various funds.

While under the present law it is possible that the charges made against a special fund for the services rendered by the Department of Finance, the State Controller, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General do not total exactly the amount that should be charged for such services, the method of computation set up by this bill is no more accurate than the method used under the present law. The number of warrants issued might in some instances accurately indicate the amount of work performed by the State Controller and State Treasurer, but the number of warrants issued has no direct relation to many services performed by the other agencies mentioned. It may be seen that under this bill the General Fund would be heavily charged because of the extremely large number of warrants issued for unemployment relief, whereas the services performed for the State Relief Administration by the agencies mentioned do not bear a like ratio to the number of warrants issued.

I respectfully suggest that your Honorable Body consider the feasibility of amending the present law by empowering the State Board of Control to equalize the charges as fixed by the present law, if it should appear that they are not in proper proportion to the services rendered.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, May 31, 1941

To the Honorable Members of the Senate

Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 26, entitled: "An act to amend Section 995 of the Penal Code, relating to causes for which indictment or information must be set aside."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

In 1939, Section 995 of the Penal Code was amended to provide that an information must be set aside upon motion of a defendant by the court in which he is arraigned in case "the defendant had been committed without reasonable or probable cause."

This bill provides that an indictment shall be set aside for the same cause.

I had no objection to the 1939 Enactment since for a great many years Subdivision 7 of Section 1487 of the Penal Code has provided that a person committed on a criminal charge without reasonable or probable cause is entitled to discharge by habeas corpus. The 1939 Bill simply provided a new procedure whereby, by motion to set aside the information, the same result could be secured as by habeas corpus.

This bill, however, changes the general rule of law which has been in effect since there have been grand juries, which is that the sufficiency of the evidence upon which a prisoner was indicted can not be reviewed by habeas corpus, (29 C. J. 46; In re Kennedy, 144 Cal. 634; 25 Am. Jur. 172) or otherwise. (People vs. Hatch, 13 Cal. App. 521, 528; Brobeck vs. Superior Court, 152 Cal. 289.)

The courts for the most part have not stated the underlying reasons for this long standing rule of law. Our Supreme Court in the Kennedy case denied the reason given by a few other courts, namely, preservation of secrecy of grand jury proceedings, and stated its reason for the rule to be that any such inquiry into the sufficiency of the evidence on which the grand jury acted would turn the writ of habeas corpus into "a writ of review for the purpose of inquiring whether the grand jury committed an error reversible on appeal" and that "an entirely new field of litigation in criminal cases would be opened up and few indictments would come to trial without this preliminary contest."

The Supreme Court of Iowa gave its reason for the rule as follows: "The judge would become an appellate tribunal to reverse or affirm the decisions of grand juries and may thwart the action of that body altogether if he sees proper." (Hight vs. U. S., 43 Am. Dec. 111, Morris 407.)

I am not implying that any of our courts would intentionally act to thwart the actions of grand juries. My objection is based upon the legal and practical effect of this bill. In my opinion the court, regardless of its feelings about the case, would be compelled by this law to set aside an indictment if any insufficiency in the proceedings of the grand jury were shown by the reporter's transcript. This follows, since the identical words "without reasonable or probable cause" as used in Section 1487, Subdivision (7) of the Penal Code, relating to habeas corpus, have been construed by our courts to have that effect in the cases of commitments on preliminary hearings.

It has been held that the evidence at the preliminary hearing must establish each and every essential element of the crime charged. (In re Jang, 25 Cal. App. (2d) 529.)

If a showing as to venue is neglected, reasonable and probable cause for the commitment is not shown. (In re Huber, 103 Cal. App. 315.)

It does not follow that because a defendant will be released on account of such defects in the evidence on which he was committed after a preliminary hearing before a magistrate, that the same should be true in the case of an indictment by the grand jury. There is a practical and real distinction between the two proceedings.

The district attorney is in charge of preliminary examinations, presents the evidence, and cross-examines on behalf of the people. He is able, and it is his duty to see to it that evidence showing reasonable cause for commitment is presented to the magistrate.

His position before the grand jury is entirely different. The grand jury is an independent body provided for by our Constitution, Section 1, Article VIII. Under Section 925 of the Penal Code, the grand jury may ask the district attorney's advice, but there is nothing requiring the grand jury to do so. While the district attorney may be present and examine witnesses, the courts have said that it is his duty to refrain from advising the grand jury as to the sufficiency of the evidence unless they request such advice. (People vs. Hatch, 13 Cal. App. 521, 528; 13 Cal. Jur. 78.)

While, as a practical matter, the district attorney should be present at all of the proceedings of the grand jury, there is nothing to prevent the grand jury from meeting when the district attorney is not in attendance. In some of the smaller counties where the district attorneys do not have large staffs of assistants, the district attorney is not always able to be present at all sessions of the grand jury. If for any reason the grand jury brings in an indictment in a case in which the transcript of the testimony taken will show that the evidence is insufficient as to venue, corpus delicti or any other essential element of the crime, this bill would require such indictment to be set aside. The district attorney, on looking over the transcript, will see that the essential element was not proved before the grand jury. If the district attorney has the proof at hand to prove that element at the trial, he is in position to proceed. If he does not have such proof and knows that it can not be secured, he has authority to request a dismissal of the indictment and the court has power to dismiss. (Penal Code, Section 1385.) An illustrative case wherein such procedure was followed is Brobeck vs. Superior Court, 152 Cal. 289.

It may be that a grand jury has acted in part on hearsay or incompetent evidence. Under the present law this would not be cause for setting aside the indictment. (Poole vs. Fealy, 33 Cal. App. 605.) Under this bill an indictment would have to be set aside, notwithstanding that the district attorney had competent and first hand evidence to offer on the trial. If he did not have such evidence, it would be his duty to go to the court and ask that the indictment be dismissed.

California has relaxed the common law rule which originally prevailed as to secrecy of grand jury proceedings. The defendant is now furnished with a complete transcript of the proceedings before the grand jury to enable him to prepare his defense. (Penal Code, 925.) This bill provides, in effect, that this must be a legally perfect transcript proving all the essential elements of the crime charged and that otherwise the court must set the indictment aside. This will result in delay in the trial of persons accused of crime.

The grand jury is a lay body provided for by the Constitution, legally entitled but not required to ask advice of the district attorney. It is this independence of the grand jury which gives it its value. To provide that the grand jury should hear only such evidence as is presented by the district attorney and should return only such indictments as are approved by him would destroy its value as a part of our Judicial System. It would be better to abolish the grand jury and to base all prosecutions on information. Yet the only way to insure against technical imperfections in the proceedings of grand juries is to restrict their independence of action.

It would appear to me that should an indictment be set aside, after the statute of limitations had run, for some technical defect in the proceedings of the grand jury, the person charged would escape prosecution.

I think that we should assume that the district attorneys will perform their sworn duties in good faith and will not needlessly prosecute.

The grand jury has always been a part of our System of Jurisprudence. No particular abuses of the rights of individuals have been called to my attention. Such search of the authorities as time permits indicates that the present California law prohibiting going behind the indictment is the general rule in this country.

For the reasons stated above, I am returning the bill without my signature.

Respectfully submitted.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 3, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: Pursuant to the provisions of Section 312 of the Political Code of California, you are hereby notified that on the second day of June, 1941, at 11.45 p.m., Senate Bill No. 889 was returned without my signature and, together with a statement of my objections thereto, was delivered to Honorable W. P. Rich, Member of the Senate.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 3, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I am transmitting to you herewith a copy of a message with reference to Senate Bill No. 1338, which was delivered to Senator W. P. Rich at 11:45 p.m. on June 2, 1941, at which time your Honorable Body had adjourned for the day but not for the session.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 2, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 889, entitled: "An act to repeal Sections 1060 and 1061 of, and to add Sections 1060, 1060.1, 1060.2, 1060.3, 1060.4, 1060.5, 1060.6, 1060.7, 1060.8, 1060.9, 1060.10, 1060.11, 1060.12, 1060.13, 1060.14 and 1062b to, and to amend Section 1062a of, the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to declaratory relief."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill repeals Sections 1060 and 1061 of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to declaratory relief, and adds various new sections comprising the Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act. The theory of the act is based upon the premise that protracted litigation may be avoided if the rights of parties can be declared before serious disputes and differences of opinion have arisen. In my opinion this theory is sound.

However, the proposed section of the Code of Civil Procedure 1060 as it reads in the new act provides that "Courts of record within their respective jurisdictions shall have power, etc." Section 12 of Article VI of the Constitution of California declares that municipal courts are courts of record. The present law confines declaratory relief to the superior court.

I doubt the wisdom of this change. The purpose of the act is to have the rights of the parties declared with the minimum amount of legal difficulty. This change allowing municipal courts as well as the superior court to handle matters of declaratory relief would seem to inject into a number of cases puzzling questions of jurisdiction which would have to be threshed out with resulting expense and delay in the declaratory proceedings.

For instance, in the ordinary case of an action on a contract, the jurisdiction is determined as between the municipal court and the superior court by the amount of the prayer for damages. In a declaratory relief action, however, no prayer for damages would be included, and the question would arise as to what would determine the jurisdiction as between the superior and the municipal courts.

Would it be the ultimate and total amount of the contract or would it be the amount of damages which might possibly result from the breach of the contract?

Questions of this sort should be avoided by leaving the matter in the hands of the superior court as at present. This is especially true because there is no appeal in this State from municipal courts to the district courts of appeal or to the supreme court. This limitation might cause considerable injustice and confusion, especially in view of the fact that under this bill the scope of actions for declaratory relief would be broadened to include actions to determine any question of construction or validity arising under a statute, ordinance, or franchise.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 2, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I have this day delivered to the Secretary of State Senate Bill No. 1338. I objected to the appropriation made by such bill, and reduced the amount of such appropriation by appending to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which I objected and the reasons therefor.

In accordance with the provisions of Section 16 of Article IV of the Constitution, I am transmitting herewith a copy of such statement.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

I object to the appropriation of $62,500, and hereby reduce the sum to $10,000. With this reduction I approve the bill.

My reasons for reducing the amount of said appropriation are as follows:

There has previously been appropriated for the contingent expenses of the Senate for this session of the Legislature the sum of $45,000, of which amount there is an unexpended balance of $19,395.63, as of May 29th, according to the records in the office of the State Controller. The appropriation of $62,500 made by this bill, together with the previous appropriation, total $107,500, which sum far exceeds any amount previously appropriated for similar purposes at prior sessions of the Legislature, even exceeding the total of the appropriations covering the last regular session and the five special sessions of the Legislature, which created a large number of Special Investigating Committees.

In my statement on May 3d concerning Senate Bill No. 1292 I said:

This additional amount of $25,000 which I have approved I know is ample to cover all necessary expenditures from the Senate Contingent Fund. It is inconceivable that the normal contingent expenses that could be incurred by the Senate during the remainder of this regular session could possibly exceed the sum of $10,000, even though the session were to last another 60 days. If at a later date a still further appropriation to this fund should become necessary, I will willingly approve the same.

The nineteen odd thousand dollars still remaining for Senate contingent expenses, together with the $10,000 made available by this bill, is ample to cover any expenditures that should be made by this Legislature for such purposes.

Dated June 2, 1941.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, June 2, 1941

*To the Members of the Senate and Assembly of the California Legislature
Sacramento, California*

GRIETINGS: I consider it my duty to again call your attention to the need for immediate revision of the Horse Racing Act increasing the State's portion of the total "take" from contributions to the pari-mutuel betting pools when they are in excess of ten million dollars ($10,000,000). In view of the extraordinary profits of the large track licensees under the present law, and in view of the position taken by the present Racing Board and sustained by an opinion of the Attorney General that the race tracks have not heretofore complied with the statute in calculating the "breakage" retained by them on redistributions, there should be enacted at this session amendments of the provisions of the law with reference to license fees and redistributions so as to return to the State a greater portion of the total amount taken from the pools of the pari-mutuel betting, and at the same time provide for the retention by the licensees of a sufficient part thereof to meet their operating requirements and provide for a reasonable return. This may be done without increasing the total "take" from the contributions to the betting pools, with the resulting additional return to the State of a million and one-half dollars or more per annum.

Bills are pending which may be used to effect such legislation.

You have passed Senate Bill No. 386 which would permit race track licensees to continue to deduct as a part of their commissions from the gross amount of money handled in the pari-mutuel pools, in addition to eight per cent (8%) thereof, the odd cents by which the amount payable on each dollar wagered exceeds the next lowest multiple of ten cents ($.10); this act to be effective only until December 25, 1941, but not subsequent thereto. If no other legislation is enacted at this session making revisions of the Race Track Act as above suggested, the State will be deprived of revenues available from this source, of one and one half million dollars or more per year, and from and after December 25, 1941, redistributions must be made with odd cents taken only on the mutual contributions instead of on each dollar wagered, which has heretofore been the illegal practice and with which the State and county fairs and the smaller tracks are vitally concerned. Senate Bill No. 386 may not be regarded as an urgency measure within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California which is invoked, even though it was passed as an urgency measure and states that "It is necessary that this act take effect immediately in order that injury may be averted while the permanent solution is being worked out."

There will be no call of a special session of the Legislature for working out a permanent solution. Therefore, a permanent solution should be worked out and legislation to that end enacted before the adjournment of this regular session.

My recommendations are that the act be revised to provide that the commission deducted by a licensee on any amount not exceeding $10,000,000 of the total amount of the pari-mutuel pool shall not exceed 8 per cent and the odd cents by which the amount payable on each dollar wagered exceeds the next lowest multiple of 10 cents; that the commission deducted by a licensee on any amount in excess of $10,000,000, but not in excess of $20,000,000, handled in a pari-mutuel pool shall not exceed 6 per cent and one-half of the odd cents by which the amount payable on each dollar wagered exceeds the next lowest multiple of 10 cents; that the commission deducted by a licensee on any amount of a pari-mutuel pool exceeding $20,000,000 shall not exceed 5 per cent and one-half of the odd cents by which the amount payable on each dollar wagered exceeds the next lowest multiple of 10 cents; and that the license fee deducted by the State on any amount of a pari-mutuel pool of not exceeding $10,000,000 shall be 4 per cent thereof; that the license fee deducted by the State on any amount of a pari-mutuel pool in excess of $10,000,000, but not in excess of $20,000,000, shall be 6 per cent and one-half of the odd cents by which the amount payable on each dollar wagered exceeds the next lowest multiple of 10 cents; and that the license fee deducted by the State on any amount of a pari-mutuel pool in excess of $20,000,000 shall be 7 per cent and one-half of the odd cents by which the amount payable on each dollar wagered exceeds the next lowest multiple of 10 cents.

I further recommend that all additional revenue to the State derived from such amendments be for the General Fund.

I also respectfully urge that you consider and act favorably upon other recommendations made by the Horse Racing Board, including provisions for proper rewards to California breeders of winning race horses and for increasing the amount annually appropriated to the board in order to defray the expenses of the officers and employees provided for in the act.

Respectfully submitted,

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

Referred to Committee on Rules.

MOTION TO SET SPECIAL ORDER

SEC. 17. Representatives, for the purposes of this act, shall be designated by the respective parties without interference, influence, or coercion by either party over the designation of representatives by the other; and neither party shall in any way interfere with, influence, or coerce the other in its choice of representatives.

SEC. 18. Representatives of employees for the purposes of this act, whether temporarily or permanently organized, need not be persons in the employ of the employer and no employer shall by interference, influence, or coercion seek in any manner to prevent the free choice by its employees of their representatives for the purposes of collective bargaining. It is unlawful for any employer to dominate or interfere with the formation, existence, or administration of any labor organization, committee, association, or plan which exists in whole or in part for the purpose of dealing with employers concerning terms or conditions of employment, labor disputes or grievances, or to contribute financial or other support thereto, or by any act to deprive any employee or any labor organization, committee, association, or plan of any of the rights guaranteed in Sections 16 and 17.

SEC. 19. "Labor dispute" or "dispute" includes, but is not restricted to, any controversy between:

In any case where the majority of employees of a particular craft shall so decide the board shall designate such craft within any plant, industry or other form of employing group as a unit appropriate for the purpose of collective bargaining.

Whenever it is alleged by an employee or his representative or by an employer or his representative that there is a question or controversy concerning the representation of employees, the board shall investigate such question or controversy. In any such investigation the board shall provide for an appropriate hearing upon due notice, and may conduct an election by secret ballot of employees or use any other suitable method to ascertain such representatives either before or after the aforesaid hearing. The board shall not have authority to investigate any question or controversy concerning the representation of employees between individuals or groups within the same labor organization or between labor organizations affiliated with the same parent labor organizations, unless it results or threatens to result in a strike, boycott, picketing or other action disturbing or affecting the business of an employer.

SEC. 23. The board shall have power to determine who may participate in the election and to establish the rules governing any such elections. No election shall be directed by the board solely because of the request of employees prompted thereto by their employer, nor shall any individuals employed only for the duration of a strike or lockout be eligible to vote in such election. No such election shall be conducted under the supervision of the employer.

SEC. 24. A labor organization nominated as the representative of employees shall be listed by name on the ballots authorized by Section 22. In any investigation conducted by the board, the board may make a finding as to whether any committee, employee representation plan, or association of employees involved is a company union, and if any such committee, employee representation plan, or association of employees be found to be a company union, it shall not be listed on the ballots, certified or otherwise recognized as eligible to be the representative of employees under this article.

SEC. 25. "Company union" means a labor organization, committee, association, or plan which exists in whole or in part for the purpose of dealing with employers concerning terms or conditions of employment, labor disputes or grievances, and the formation, existence, or administration of which is initiated, suggested, or interfered with by any employer, or which is dominated by an employer, or which receives financial or other support from an employer, or the formulation of the governing rules and policies of which is participated in or supervised by an employer.

SEC. 26. A hearing held in conformity with the provisions of Section 22 shall be commenced within 15 days after the filing of an application therefor and shall not be postponed for a period exceeding 10 additional days. The board shall render its decision within 10 days after the conclusion of such hearing. In the event an election is ordered by the board, such election shall be held not later than 20 days after the rendition by the board of its said decision. A certification of an exclusive representative for the purposes of collective bargaining based upon such election shall be made not later than 10 days after the holding of such election. Failure by the board to act in the manner provided for in this act shall constitute a denial of certification.

The employer shall recognize the certified representative and bargain collectively therewith.

SEC. 27. No person shall picket, or cause or participate in a strike or lockout of, a place of employment or institute a boycott of the products or services thereof until 10 days after notice of an intention to do so and of the reasons therefor has been served upon the board by the person or his representative intending to picket, strike, lockout or boycott.

SEC. 28. Immediately upon such service, the board shall give not less than five days notice to all parties involved in the dispute that it will hold a hearing and investigation.

SEC. 29. The board or its authorized representative shall, upon receiving a written complaint stating the facts of a labor dispute or a notice of intention to picket, strike, lockout, or boycott from any employee or a representative of any group of employees, or from any employer involved in the dispute, forthwith proceed to hold a hearing and investigation of all the facts pertaining to or affecting the dispute. For such purpose the board or its authorized representative shall, by such procedure as it shall deem proper and necessary, determine the proper unit, group or class of employees whose representatives shall attend and participate in the hearing and shall notify the parties involved of the determination. Any party objecting to the determination by a representative of the board shall be entitled to have the determination made by the board prior to the calling of the hearing.

SEC. 30. The board shall cause a copy of the complaint or of the notice of intention to be served upon all the parties to the dispute or their representatives and each of said parties may within five days of the service file an answer with the board.

The board shall cause a copy of each answer to be served upon all the parties to the dispute or their representatives.

SEC. 31. If a hearing is commenced by a complaint and one of the parties thereafter desires to picket, or cause or participate in a strike or lockout, or institute a boycott of any other party, he shall serve notice thereof upon the board and the parties to the dispute.

SEC. 32. The hearing shall be held at such place as may be mutually agreed upon by the parties to the labor dispute, or, in the event they do not agree within a reasonable time, the board or its representative may designate the place of the hearing.

SEC. 33. The board shall cause reasonable notice, not exceeding five days, of the time and place of the hearing to be given to the parties involved in the labor dispute.

SEC. 34. The complainant shall, or if he is unable so to do, any other party involved shall, upon demand of the board, furnish to the board a list of the names and addresses of the employees involved in the labor dispute. Notice of the hearing may be given by the board to such employees either at their last known place of residence or at the place where they are employed at the time such notice is given.

SEC. 35. During the continuance of a hearing before the board or its representative, but not exceeding 30 days from the receipt by the board of a notice of intention to picket, strike, lockout, or boycott, no person shall institute or participate in a strike, lockout, or picketing of the place of employment, or institute a boycott of the products or services thereof.

SEC. 36. Unless otherwise agreed to by the parties and approved by the board, no one shall be present at the hearing except the board or its representative or representatives, such other persons as the board may require to hold and conduct the hearing, the employees and their accredited representatives, and the employer and his accredited representatives. The board, or its representative may exclude all persons not entitled to be present at the hearing.

SEC. 37. At the hearing the board or its representative shall permit the parties to the dispute, or their authorized representatives, to present testimony and to make such statements, offers or arguments, oral or written, as they may elect, and the board may present such testimony as it deems necessary and proper in order to afford the parties an equal and fair opportunity to make their presentation and to disclose all the facts of the dispute to the board for its consideration and guidance. The board or its representative may impose reasonable limitations upon the length and scope of such testimony, statements, offers or arguments.

SEC. 38. The board or its representative in conducting the hearing shall proceed with due diligence to complete its investigation into the dispute and shall make in writing its findings and recommendations. The findings and recommendations shall clearly recite the nature of the controversy and the points of dispute. The recommendations shall be just and equitable in the premises, and such as will contribute to the settlement of the dispute on a basis fair to all concerned.

Immediately upon the completion of the findings and recommendations, one copy thereof shall be furnished to each of the parties to the dispute.

SEC. 39. The vote of a majority of the employees at any meeting or balloting at which a majority of the employees in the group, unit or class of employees involved in such labor dispute shall be present or ballot shall be final, conclusive and binding upon all of such employees.

SEC. 40. If the parties to the dispute shall notify the board that they refuse to accept its recommendations, or if, after the lapse of a time deemed reasonable by the board, it shall appear to the board that the dispute can not be amicably settled by the parties, then the board shall file one copy of its findings and recommendations with the Secretary of State and one copy with the county clerk of the county where the dispute exists, or is threatened, which copies shall be public records.

SEC. 41. Whenever a dispute is not settled in conference or through mediation, the board may suggest arbitration.

SEC. 42. No strike shall take place until after a secret ballot participated in by a majority of the employees involved in the dispute.

If there are more than two employers involved in the dispute, no lockout shall take place until after a secret ballot participated in by a majority of such employers.

SEC. 43. Any recommendations made by the board after a hearing may specify that any portion thereof shall be retroactive to a date not earlier than the receipt by the board of the written complaint or notice of intention.

SEC. 44. In any investigation, proceedings, or hearing which under the provisions of this act the board is empowered to institute, conduct, or hold, the board, each member thereof, its secretary, or any person authorized by the board to conduct such investigation, proceeding or hearing, shall have the power to administer oaths, certify to official acts, issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of such evidence as the board deems pertinent to the hearing.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were received and read, and on motion of Senator Rich, ordered printed in the Journal:

 SAN FRANCISCO, March 26, 1941

*Honorable Frank W. Mixer, Senator, Thirty-second Senatorial District
 State Capitol Sacramento, California*

DEAR SENATOR MIXER: This is in reply to your letter dated March 14, 1941, reading as follows:

"Senate Bill No. 568 proposes free transportation to pupils of private schools in California. It will be greatly appreciated if your office will kindly advise me as to the probable constitutionality of this measure. One of the principal points involved might be the question as to whether furnishing this service would be construed as a gift of the public fund."

Senate Bill No. 568, referred to in your letter, would add Section 1.92 to the School Code, and reads as follows:

"The governing board of any elementary or secondary school district shall allow pupils entitled to attend the school of the district, but in attendance at a school other than a public school, transportation upon the same terms and in the same manner and over the same routes of travel as is permitted pupils attending the district school."

In Section 5 of Article IX of the Constitution of this State it is provided that "the Legislature shall provide for a system of common schools, by which a free school shall be kept up and supported in each district at least six months in every year, after the first year in which a school has been established."

In Section 6 of Article IX of the Constitution it is provided that the Legislature shall provide for the support of the schools in "the Public School System."

The following restriction is found in Section 8 of Article IX of the Constitution, which reads in part as follows:

"No public money shall ever be appropriated for the support * * * of any school not under the exclusive control of the officers of the public schools."

In addition, Section 31 of Article IV of the Constitution provides in part as follows:

"The Legislature shall have no power to give or to lend, or to authorize the giving or lending, of the credit of the State or of any county, city and county, city, township or other political corporation or subdivision of the State now existing, or that may be hereafter established in aid of or to any person, association, or corporation, whether municipal or otherwise, or to pledge the credit thereof, in any manner whatever, for the payment of the liabilities of any individual, association, municipal or other corporation whatever; nor shall it have power to make any gift or authorize the making of any gift, of any public money or thing of value to any association, municipal or other corporation whatever."

The authority of governing boards of school districts to provide transportation for pupils is contained in Sections 1.70 to 1.91, inclusive, of the School Code. The Supreme Court of this State in Pasadena City High School District vs. Upshaw, 206 Cal. 775, upheld the power of a governing board of a school district to provide transportation for pupils attending the public schools of the district adding, "the contention of the respondents, that the furnishing of transportation as authorized by the statute is a gift of public money, or a thing of value, is untenable." Section 31 of Article IV of the Constitution can not be sustained." Again, in Veterans Welfare Board vs. Ewing, 189 Cal. 401, the Court said, in referring to the pupils attending public schools:

"The plan of transporting pupils to and from their homes, particularly in large union high schools, is quite common in this State and is expressly authorized by statute * * *. The validity of these sections has never been questioned."

A review of the decisions of the courts of this State reveals no case in which the question is discussed as to the constitutionality of a statute purporting to authorize a school district to furnish transportation for pupils to a private school. This question has been the subject of court decisions in other States, however. Particularly the recent case of Board of Education of Manhattan N. Y. vs. N. Y. State, 576, decided in 1938, is noted. In 1936 the Legislature of the State of New York adopted a statute authorizing the inhabitants of a school district to provide for transportation of pupils to private schools. An appropriation was made for this purpose and a tax levied to meet the appropriation. The court pointed out that the New York Constitution made it mandatory for the Legislature to provide for the maintenance of a system of free common schools, wherein all children of this State may be educated."

This section is similar to Section 5 of Article IX of the Connecticut Constitution. The court then held that private schools "are no part of and are not within that system".

The court, in holding the school board without authority to provide the proposed transportation to private schools, held that the argument there advanced that such transportation was not in aid of the support of the schools but rather in aid of the pupils attending the private schools, was without substance and had been decided in the prior cases of State vs. Rimes (107 Atl. 845), and Smith vs. Donahue, 195 N. Y. S. 715. The court ruled specifically that furnishing transportation for pupils to a private school was grafting and from public funds to the private school.

However, in Board of Education of Baltimore County vs. Wheat (Md. C., 199 Atl. 628), a statute was upheld which provided that pupils attending a school not receiving State aid and who resided along a highway where a public school district operates a school bus shall be entitled to transportation in the bus to a point near the school of his attendance. Another statute appropriated money to cover for the increased cost of transportation. The statutes were held not to violate the "prohibition against the use of funds for private purposes." Maryland, however, does not contain a Constitutional provision similar to Section 5 of Article IX of the California Constitution. See also, Board vs. Louisiana St. Bd. of Education (La.), 123 So. 655.

The prohibitions in our State Constitution against the use of public moneys generally and of school moneys in particular for other than public purposes are both broad and inclusive and have been strictly construed by the courts of our State. The precise question presented by you has never engaged the attention of our Supreme or appellate courts, and the decisions from other States, because of their lack of uniformity and the dissents expressed therein, are not entirely satisfactory. However, I am of the opinion that the weight of authority throughout the country is against the validity of statutes such as Senate Bill No. 568, under constitutional provisions similar to our own. (Sees. 5, 6 and 8, Art. IX; Sec. 31, Art. IV.)

The same conclusion was reached by my predecessor in Opinion NS 200, dated March 15, 1937.

Very truly yours,

EARL WARREN, Attorney General
By A. T. WESTPHAL, JR., Deputy

MEMORANDUM

IN RE: Constitutionality of Senate Bill No. 568, Free Transportation of Pupils to Private Schools

This bill adds Section 152 to the School Code, to read as follows:

"The governing board of any elementary or secondary school district shall allow pupils entitled to attend the school of the district, but in attendance at a school other than a district school, transportation upon the same terms and in the same manner and over the same routes of travel as is permitted pupils attending the district school."

The question is whether or not the Legislature has power to provide, at the cost of the State or of the school district, for the transportation of pupils to and from private schools.

Opinion

While the question has never been determined in this State, we believe that if the question is presented to the California courts, they will hold the bill unconstitutional.

Analysis

The Legislature has power to authorize such transportation if it is a public purpose and if not prohibited by the State or Federal Constitution expressly or by necessary implication. The question involves the same principles as the furnishing of free textbooks to students in private schools.

The Federal Constitution does not prevent such furnishing of textbooks is established by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Cochran vs. Board of Education, 261, U. S. 370, holding valid a Louisiana statute for use of State textbooks by pupils in private schools.

The contention was that taxation for the purchase of such school books constituted a taking of private property for a private purpose, and, as such, contrary to the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. The test was: Is it a public purpose?

The court considered it a public purpose. The books were not for the use of any private school. They were for the use of the school children of the State, free of cost to them. It was for their benefit and the resulting benefit to the State that the appropriations were made. The pupils of the private schools derived no greater benefit than those of the public schools. It was in the interest of education, broadly. Individual interests were aided only as the common interest was aided. Hence, the court concluded:

"Viewing the statute as having the effect thus attributed to it, we can not doubt that the taxing power of the State is exerted for a public purpose." (Page 375.)

We have next to consider applicable limitations, if any, expressed in the Constitution of California.

The first that occurs to one is that clause of Section 31 of Article IV which declares that the Legislature shall not "have power to make any gift or authorize the making of any gift, of any public money or thing of value to any individual * * *."

It has already been held that the furnishing of free texts to pupils in the public high schools is not such a gift, despite the presence in the State Constitution of express provision for the furnishing of such books to elementary public school pupils and the absence of any such provision for high school pupils. The express authority for the one was not construed as negating the other. (MacMillan vs. Clarke, 184 Cal. 491.) Said the Court:

(1) "The Legislature is vested with the whole of the legislative power of the State and may deal with any subject within the scope of civil government unless it is restrained by the provisions of the Constitution.

And the presumption that the Legislature is acting within the Constitution holds good until it is made to appear in what particular it is violating constitutional limitations." (Pages 496 and 497.)

(2) "The people have seen fit to safeguard certain features of a Free School System by mandatory provisions of the Constitution, relating particularly to elementary schools, but beyond this, in the matter of secondary and high schools, the Legislature seems to be left with plenary power to act in its discretion for the public welfare."

(3) "Under the comprehensive direction of our Constitution (Art. IX, Sec. 1), which requires that the Legislature shall encourage by all suitable means the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral and agricultural improvement, through the agency of a Free Public School System (Art. IX, Sec. 5), "the right to extend the free use of textbooks can only be questioned under some express constitutional limitation." (Page 199.)

(4) Such furnishing of textbooks being prohibited in Section 31 of Article IV, because

"The Free School System with all its equipment is not primarily a service to the individual pupils, but to the community. Just as free and public instruction, public libraries, hospitals, playgrounds, and one numerous other public service utilities which are provided by taxation, and minister to individual needs, are for the benefit of the general public.

It is so interpreted by the introductory declaration of our constitutional provisions for a Free School System that "A general diffusion of knowledge and intelligence" is "essential to the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people" (Art. IX, Sec. 1.)

The books remain the property of the district, and the pupils have the use of them only in substantially the same manner that they have the use of other school appliances." (Page 200.)

The public policy thus invoked, by reference to Section 1 of Article IX, found expression as early as 1787 in an ordinance of the Congress of the Old Confederation, in these words:

"Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

It now finds expression in the following form:

"A general diffusion of knowledge and intelligence being essential to the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people, the Legislature shall encourage by all suitable means of promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral and agricultural improvement." (Const., Art. IX, Sec. 1.)

This same clause, as well as Section 5 of Article IX, was invoked by the court in Piper vs. Rio Pina School District, 193 Cal. 664, maintaining the right of the child to attend the public schools of the State. In that case, it is interesting to note that the court made the observation that our Compulsory Education Law

"Permits children to attend privately conducted schools provided the tutors or instructors of such schools are capable of teaching; and provided further, that such institutions shall offer instruction in the several branches of study required to be taught in the public schools of this State."

indicating, clearly, that the State is interested in the educational development of private school pupils no less than in that of public school pupils.

This clause (Art. IX, Sec. 1) was invoked also in Esberg vs. Babaracco, 202 Cal. 110, holding that education is a State, not a mere municipal or local affair.

This clause was in part relied upon in Veterans' Welfare Board vs. Riley, 189, Cal. 159, which applied the principle enunciated in MacMillan vs. Clarke, 184 Cal. 491, to a statute which authorized the Veterans' Welfare Board to furnish textbooks to veterans, saying:

"The decision in the case of MacMillan vs. Clarke * * * clearly authorizes the purchase of textbooks for the use of students, if they remain the property of the State or public agency furnishing them * * *. The legislative action, so far as it authorizes the purchase of textbooks in furtherance of education, is sufficiently clear." (Page 163.)

The Veterans' Welfare Board case is of the greater significance in that the statute involved did not indicate any distinction between public and private schools, except as to provide in Section 3, that private tuition schools shall not be chosen if suitable opportunity is available in public or semi-public schools. In that manner recognizing private schools, did not in terms confine its benefits to veterans who attended public schools and colleges.

We believe, therefore, that if and when such a question is presented to them for decision, our courts will hold that the furnishing of textbooks for the use of pupils attending private elementary and secondary schools upon the same basis as to those attending public schools) is a "public purpose" and, as such, does not constitute a gift inhibited by Section 31 of Article IV of the Constitution.

The matter of furnishing free transportation to pupils in public schools is so similar in principle, that we also believe that the courts will hold that it, too, is a "public purpose."

It is in order, next, to consider certain other provisions of the Constitution. They are:

(1) Section 8 of Article IX, which declares that:

"No public money shall ever be appropriated for the support of any sectarian or denominational school, or any school not under the exclusive control of the officers of the public schools * * *."

(2) Section 30 of Article IV, which declares that:

"Neither the Legislature, nor any county, * * * school district, or other municipal corporation, shall ever make an appropriation, or pay from any public fund whatever, or grant anything to or in aid of any religious sect, church, creed, or sectarian purpose, or help to support or sustain any school, college, university, hospital, or other institution controlled by any religious creed, church, or sectarian denomination whatever;

Nor shall any grant or donation of personal property or real estate ever be made by the State, or any city, city and county, town, or other municipal corporation for any religious creed, church, or sectarian purpose whatever;

Provided, that nothing in this section shall prevent the Legislature granting aid pursuant to Section 22 of this article."

These sections deprive the Legislature of any authority it might otherwise have to appropriate for the support; or to make an appropriation, pay from a public fund, or grant anything to or in aid of; or to help to support or sustain; or to donate personal property or real estate to any of the several designated types of private institutions.

This bill makes no direct grant to the private schools. It would receive an indirect benefit, probably quite substantial, in that its pupils and prospective pupils would be on a parity with public school pupils as regards transportation to and from the school.

The problem then becomes whether the furnishing of transportation is tantamount to the "support of" or a grant "to or in aid of" the private school.

It is in contrast to the facts presented in Freiliger vs. Richardson, 63 Cal. App. 209, holding invalid under Sections 30, 31 and 22 of Article IV, a State appropriation for restoration of the San Diego Mission, the court observing:

"The title to the property is in the Archbishop of San Francisco, a corporation sole. The Roman Catholic Church is a sectarian institution." (Page 214.)

This incident of such ownership of the land proposed to be improved was "in itself sufficient to raise the bar of Section 30 of Article IV of the Constitution. (Page 217.)

Quite different, also, is this from the cases which hold that payment of money to a sectarian institution for tuition, for care or for hospitalization (under limitations comparable to said Sections 8, 30 and 31, above; cases cited in 5 A. L. R. 879, 22 A. L. R. 1319, 55 A. L. R. 320) is proscribed.

The Louisiana Constitution contains limitations * * * similar to those in our Sections 8, 30 and 31 above quoted. Yet her highest court deems such furnishing of textbooks a public purpose, not prohibited by her Constitution. (Borden vs. La. Bd. Education, 168 La. 1005, 67 A. L. R. 1183.) The purpose was "that of reducing, and if possible of obliterating, illiteracy in this State," a purpose in which the State was "vitaly interested." No money was appropriated for the use of any private institution. It was for the benefit of the children and the resulting benefits to the State. Title to the books did not pass; only their "use" was granted. Such was deemed not inhibited by the provisions of the Louisiana Constitution, provisions comparable to our own.

In contrast are two decisions of the New York courts: Smith vs. Donahue, 195 N. Y. S. 719, and Judd vs. Board of Education, 278 N. Y. 200 15 N. E. (2d) 576.

In the Smith case, the court held that a statute requiring the school authorities to "furnish * * * apparatus, maps, globes, books, furniture and other equipment" and to "provide textbooks or other supplies to all the children attending the schools in such cities" (without any express mention of private schools) had reference to public schools only. To determine otherwise would be to give the statute an interpretation contrary to the constitutional provisions of Section 4, Article IX. This section provides:

"Neither the State nor any subdivision thereof shall use its property or credit or any public money, or authorize or permit either to be used, directly or indirectly, in aid or maintenance, other than for examination or inspection, of any school or institution of learning wholly or in part under the control or direction of any religious denomination, or in part under the control or direction of any religious denomination, or in which any denominational tenet or doctrine is taught."

The Judd case is squarely in point on the question of furnishing free transportation. In its decision the court says:

"The argument is advanced that furnishing transportation to the pupils of private or parochial schools is not in aid or support of the schools within the spirit of meaning of our organic law but, rather, is in aid of their pupils. That argument is utterly without substance. It not only ignores the spirit, purpose and intent of the constitutional provisions but, as well, their wording. The object of construction as applied to a written constitution is to give effect to the intent of the people in adopting it, and this intent is to be found in the instrument itself in case the words are ambiguous. (Cooley's Constitutional Limitations, 8th Ed., pp. 194-125.) The meaning of the mandate is broad. Aid or support to the school, although indirectly, is prohibited. The two words must have been used with some definite intent and purpose, otherwise they were thus used at all. And, however, "indirectly" merely embraces all contributions to the school, direct, circuitously, collaterally, disguised, or otherwise not in a straight, open and direct course for the school and around any of the school, the way is on the benefit of the institution or practically of its education and purpose. How could the people have expressed their purpose in the fundamental law in more apt, simple and all-embracing language? Free transportation of pupils induces attendance at the school. The purpose of the transportation is to promote the interests of the private school or religious or sectarian institution that controls and direct it. "It helps build up, strengthen and make successful the schools and organizations." State ex rel. Traub vs. Brown, 6 W. W. Harr. 36 Del., 181, 172, A. 855, 837, writ of error dismissed Feb. 15, 1938, Del. Sup. 107 A. 478. Without pupils there could be no school. It is illogical to say that the furnishing of transportation is not an aid to the institution while the employment of teachers and furnishing of books, accommodations and other facilities are such an aid.

A Delaware case, following the reasoning of the Smith case, held invalid a statute which sought to furnish free transportation to pupils attending sectarian schools. (State vs. Brown, 1-2 Atlantic States.)

Similarly, a Wisconsin case, State vs. Milquet, 192 N. W. 392, interpreted a statute of that State providing for free transportation in certain cases, as applying exclusively to public schools, holding that to decide otherwise would be to give the statute a meaning in conflict with similar constitutional provisions.

The only case, beside Borden vs. Louisiana Board of Education, supra, holding otherwise is Board of Education vs. White (Maryland) 190 A. 628. This case holds that furnishing free tuition for one of its pupils is not support of private or sectarian schools. However, there appears to be no provision in the Maryland Constitution prohibiting such aid, except that the State cannot grant aid for public purposes.

The question becomes closer when it appears that both the Borden and Judd cases were decided by a divided court, four to three in each instance, and a strong minority opinion was filed in each case.

It is also worthy of note that California courts have on several occasions held that when there is a clear "public purpose" the fact that a private individual or agency may receive an incidental benefit does not constitute the doing or furnishing or something "in aid of" such person or agency within the meaning of the term as used in our Constitution. This thought is expressed in several of the California cases, including Patrick vs. Riley, 209 Cal. 230, holding that as a public health measure a provision for payment of compensation to the owner of cattle condemned and destroyed for the suppression of disease) in which the principle was expressed in the following terms:

"Where the question arises as to whether or not a proposed application of public funds is to be deemed a gift within the meaning of that term as used in the Constitution, the primary and fundamental subject of inquiry is as to whether the money is to be used for a public or private purpose. If it is for a public purpose within the jurisdiction of the appropriating board or body, it is not, generally speaking, to be regarded as a gift * * *." (Page 356.)

Similarly, in San Francisco vs. Collins, _____, 216 Cal. 187, the court in holding valid a San Francisco bond issue for the relief of indigent sick and dependent poor, stated this principle as follows:

"It must, however, be considered as settled by the recent decision of this court in the case of Patrick vs. Riley, 209 Cal. 350 * * *, that the expenditure of public money in pursuance of a public purpose is not within the scope of the prohibition." (Page 193, citing numerous decisions.)

However, the rule in the majority of the cases is, that where aid to private or sectarian schools is prohibited by constitutional provisions similar to ours, the furnishing of transportation to the pupils of such schools is violative of these provisions.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, June 3, 1941

Honorable John D. Foley, Senate Chambers
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of Senate Bill No. 568, Public Transportation of Private School Pupils

DEAR SENATOR FOLEY: You request the opinion of this office in response to the question: Is this bill constitutional?

We do not think this question can be answered by a mere "Yes" or "No."

The question has not yet come before our Supreme Court for consideration and decision. In such a case one turns to court decisions of other States, weighs them in the light of California's constitutional provisions and the trend of decisions here, and then endeavors to predict what our Supreme Court may hold.

Under date of March 25, 1941, we said that the weight of judicial opinion in other States was against the constitutionality of such a bill and that we believed our court would hold in accord with the majority view. A copy of that opinion is attached.

Since then the opinion of the Supreme Court of an additional State has come to attention. In a decision rendered February 24, 1941, but not published until April 3, 1941, Mississippi holds that the public furnishing of textbooks to private school pupils, free of cost, is legal and effective, under constitutional restrictions comparable to those of California. (Chance vs. Miss. State Textbook Rating and Purchasing Board, 200 So. 706.)

We are thus confronted with the following array of authorities:

For Constitutionality:

- Louisiana* (1929), free textbooks, a four to three decision;
- Maryland* (1938), free textbooks, a four to three decision; Maryland's constitutional restrictions not as explicit as California;
- Mississippi* (1941), free textbooks, a six to one decision.

Against Constitutionality:

- New York* (1938), free transportation, a four to three decision;
- Delaware* (1934), free transportation;
- Wisconsin* (1923), free transportation, a unanimous decision; a somewhat ambiguous statute narrowly construed, upon the theory that to construe it otherwise would render it unconstitutional.

The foregoing are decisions of the highest courts of those States except Delaware, which was a lower court decision, two Supreme Court Justices sitting.

So now the weight of authority in other States is about even.

One view is that the "pupil" is the prime consideration and that if the private school receives no direct grant the benefit to it is but incidental and that such does not prevent the furnishing of textbooks or of transportation to the pupil.

The other view is that such an interpretation ignores both the spirit and the wording of the Constitution, that such indirect or incidental benefit does operate "in aid of" and by way of "help to support" the private school.

Either view seems equally available to our courts.

Under these circumstances, we do not see a basis for predicting either a "Yes" or a "No" answer by our courts. We think the most that any attorney can do is to indicate the factors pro and con. This we have endeavored to do.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

Out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of thirty-six million dollars ($36,000,000) is hereby appropriated to the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission for the relief of hardship and destitution and the administration thereof during the Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth Fiscal Years, as provided in this act and the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935, including not to exceed nine hundred seventy thousand dollars ($970,000) for the administrative expenses of the Controller.

SEC. 2. Out of the money appropriated by this act, except the money available for the administrative expenses of the Controller, no expenditures shall be made for any particular period until the total amount of a budget for that period, not to exceed six months, has been approved by a unanimous vote of the State Board of Control.

Out of the money available for his administrative expenditures, the Controller may employ any firm of certified public accountants to audit the records of the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission.

SEC. 3. For the purposes of Sections 108 and 109 of the State Employees' Retirement Act, the appropriations made by this act and hereafter made for this act and the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935 shall be construed as appropriations from the General Fund.

SEC. 4. Out of the money appropriated by this act, the Relief Administrator or his duly authorized agent may, without at the time furnishing vouchers and itemized statements, draw one sum not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) for use as a revolving fund for payment of compensation earned, traveling expenses advanced, or where other cash payments are necessary. At the close of the Ninety-fourth Fiscal Year or at any other time, upon demand of the Department of Finance, these expenses must be accounted for and substantiated by vouchers and itemized statements submitted to and audited by the Controller.

SEC. 5. Within each fiscal year, the money appropriated by this act, exclusive of the money available for the administrative expenses of the Controller, shall be available, for the purposes authorized as follows:

(a) Not less than 85 per cent for the payment of cash, wages, personal property and services to persons receiving relief from this appropriation. All sums so and when expended for the following may be charged in this classification: (i) distribution of surplus commodities, (ii) construction, maintenance and operation of relief camps, (iii) maintenance, support and operation of medical, hospital and dental clinics, (iv) sponsorship contributions to the Work Progress Administration and National Youth Administration, expenditures for Civilian Conservation Corps recruiting and enrollment as required by the Federal Government, (v) work relief projects and the administration thereof (including housing, utilities and other public projects, the products of which are granted to persons receiving any form of public assistance) and (vi) the operating expenses of the Federal Stamp Program and of the School Lunch Program and any other Federal program administered by the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission.

(b) Not more than 1 per cent for self-help cooperatives, for production for use projects, consumer cooperatives or direct producer co-operatives. No such cooperative or project shall produce, manufacture, process or sell commodities grown for consumption or use by any person, firm, association or corporation, other than a person directly participating in the work of such cooperative or project and other than any person receiving some form of public assistance.

(c) Not more than 14 per cent for administration.

For purposes of this section, the percentage limitations for expenditure under subdivisions (b) and (c) shall be determined by computing the percentage that the total amount expended within each classification during each fiscal year bears to the total amount made available for such fiscal year by Section 2 of this act.

SEC. 6. Of the sum appropriated by this act, any amounts expended by the Relief Administrator in accordance with the provisions of subdivisions (b) and (c), or either, of Section 3 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935 for work relief projects sponsored by the Federal Government and by any political subdivision, district or municipality of the State, either alone or in cooperation with the Relief Administrator, shall be exempt from Section 669 of the Penal Code and limitations, if any, of the Budget Act of 1941.

SEC. 7. In order to safeguard the money for the purposes for which it is appropriated, the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission, in with money available for his administrative expenses, the Contractor may contract with one or more credit associations, credit organizations, or financial investigating agencies to ascertain the financial condition and credit rating of applicants for, and recipients of, relief from the money appropriated by this act. Expenditures made by the Administrator under this section shall be chargeable to the classification provided in subdivision (a) of Section 5.

SEC. 8. With money from this appropriation, not to exceed 2 per cent of the total sum appropriated, chargeable to the classification provided in subdivision (a) of Section 5, the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission may contract with any nonprofit medical or health service organization organized under the laws of this State for the rendition of medical and health services to any person or his family eligible for assistance from this appropriation.

SEC. 9. The appropriation made by this act shall be expended to and for the relief of all persons who are capable of and willing to perform gainful employment and to and for the relief of all dependants of such persons provided such persons and their dependants are, as to need, otherwise eligible for relief under rules and regulations established by the Relief Commission under Section 8 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935.

SEC. 10. The total relief allowance, whether in cash or kind, from the appropriation made by this act shall not be more than fifty eight dollars ($58) per month per family.

Relief, in addition to the maximum of fifty eight dollars ($58) per month allowance, may, however, be granted, but only in extraordinary cases, which term "extraordinary cases" shall include within its scope families of five or more persons. However, in no case shall the total relief granted to extraordinary cases exceed seventy five dollars ($75) per month, except that needed medical or dental services may be granted in excess of any maximum relief allowance provided in this act.

SEC. 11. In determining any relief allowance, all income from any source of any member of the family shall be deducted except the following which shall not be considered, if used only for educational or other purposes for which the relief allowance may be used:

(a) All income of minors for educational scholarships and National Youth Administration student aid received by any person under the National Youth Administration In-School Programs.

(b) Three-fourths of the income earned by National Youth Administration project workers under the National Youth Administration Out-of-School Programs.

(c) That portion of the income from the Civilian Conservation Corps which that agency permits the enrollee to expend for his own use.

(d) One-third of the earned income of any adult member of the family.

(c) All income received by any relief recipient or member of his family as pay for attending drill or for any other duty as a member of the National Guard or State Home Guard.

In addition, all other income of any minor under 18 years of age, not mentioned above, need not, but may, be deducted either in whole or in part.

In order to be entitled to the exclusion of any income, all income of all members of the family shall be reported, and for failure to report, the Relief Administrator may permanently disqualify or temporarily suspend any family from receiving further relief under this act.

SEC. 12. Any surplus commodities distributed by the Federal Government or any agency thereof shall not be deducted in determining any relief allowance or budget of any family.

SEC. 13. (a) None of the appropriation made by this act shall be expended for the relief of any person who:

(1) Has not either (i) lived continuously in this State for five years, if he began to live in the State of California after June 1, 1940, or (ii) lived continuously in the State of California for three years, if he began to live in the State of California on or before June 1, 1940; or

(2) Has lost his residence by remaining away from this State for an uninterrupted period of one year.

Within the meaning of this subdivision (a), time spent in a public institution or on parole therefrom is to be disregarded in determining the period of residence in this State. Absence from the State for labor or other special or temporary purposes does not occasion loss of residence.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a), the appropriation made by this act may be expended for the relief of any person who:

(1) On February 18, 1940 (i) was receiving or had received relief from the Relief Administrator and Relief Commission or (ii) was certified or had been certified to the Work Projects Administration or its predecessor by the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission, and

(2) Has not left the State with intent to reside elsewhere, and

(3) Has not remained away from the State for a period of one year.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a), the appropriation shall be available for relief pending transportation, but not to exceed 30 days, and for the costs of transportation, including subsistence en route, of a nonresident to any State in which he resides. Every nonresident, who has once received assistance under this subdivision (c), or relief from the Relief Administrator and Relief Commission in the form of transportation out of the State shall not be granted further assistance from the appropriation made by this act.

SEC. 14. None of the appropriation shall be expended for the relief of any alien who entered the United States illegally subsequent to July 1, 1924. In order to be eligible for relief from the appropriation, every alien shall show an alien registration card issued by the Federal Government. Any alien who can not show an alien registration card shall be reported to the United States Immigration Authorities.

If relief from the appropriation is barred to any alien by the terms of this section, the members of his family shall not be affected thereby and the family, exclusive of the aliens, shall remain entitled to relief from the appropriation made by this act notwithstanding this section and shall receive the same relief it would have received if the aliens were not members thereof. No ineligible alien shall be included in determining the family budget, except that his resources, not necessary for his maintenance and the maintenance of those who are ineligible for relief under this section, shall be considered in determining the whole budget of the case.

The appropriation is available for costs of transportation, including subsistence en route, to any foreign country for the aliens, citizens or subjects of such countries and for the dependents of such aliens.

SEC. 15. If any county, city, district or political subdivision or other governmental agency takes any recipients of relief from the State Relief Administration, furnishes materials, equipment, tools, supervision, and transportation, and sponsors and finances useful but nonessential work projects, it shall also reimburse the State Relief Administration for the additional costs to the State Relief Administration incident to making such services available in accordance with regulations of the Relief Commission and the Relief Administrator.

SEC. 16. To secure relief from the appropriation made by this act, an applicant for such relief shall prove, to the satisfaction of the State Relief Administration, his eligibility therefor, including his eligibility as to need, residence, employability and citizenship. Each applicant shall be required (a) to prove (i) that he and his family's need is due to unemployment, (ii) that he is employable, available and willing to accept employment and (b) to furnish any information requested by the Relief Administration to establish eligibility or need.

For the purpose of this section employment is defined as meaning employment for salary or wages or other compensation, in an amount exceeding by 15 per cent the amount of relief granted that size of family in accordance with the standards of relief as established by the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission.

All statements made by an applicant for relief furnished to himself or any member of his family shall be sworn to by the oath of the applicant. Every employee of the Relief Administration receiving compensation for services in the course of his official duties, not acting in accordance with the provisions of this act, every person who applies or receives relief after July 1, 1941, shall take the oath required by this section before any relief is granted to him.

If the applicant for relief wilfully makes any false statement affecting his eligibility or the eligibility of any member of his family, or the amount of relief obtainable from the appropriation, he shall be guilty of a crime.

In order to carry out the provisions of this section the Relief Administrator shall investigate the financial condition of each person on the relief rolls as at July 1, 1941, within a period of not later than 90 days from the effective date of this act. Cases closed within the 90-day period before such investigation had been made shall not be investigated.

Sec. 17. No relief shall be given to any person who is the owner of any real estate or member of whose family is a person who is the owner of any real estate, or who is the owner of any conditional sales contract for personal property, or who has purchased for himself or his family or for any member of his family, or who has secured by the chattel mortgage or conditional sales contract, was incurred subsequent to his application for relief from the appropriation made by this act, or while receiving relief under Chapter 12 of the Statutes of 1940 or the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1940.

Sec. 18. All money received by any relief recipient from the appropriation for himself or his dependents shall be used exclusively for food, rent, utilities and any other necessities. The Relief Administrator shall establish rules and regulations, in accordance with this section, relating to the purposes for which relief recipients may not expend money received from the appropriation.

Any relief recipient who once the money received from the appropriation for himself or his dependents is used for any purpose other than those permitted by the rules and regulations established by the Relief Administrator may be permanently disqualified or temporarily suspended from receiving relief from this appropriation. The Relief Administrator may require recipients to report the amount of food or other expenditures.

Sec. 19. In determining the amount to be expended from the appropriation for the relief of any person and his family, consideration shall be given (i) to the amounts of public assistance of any such person and his family and to any other provision of law and (ii) to the standards of living, wage rates and living conditions in the locality in which such person and his family reside.

Sec. 20. None of the appropriation made by this act may be expended for the relief of any person who possesses a motor vehicle, or who is the owner of a motor vehicle, unless such person or person who is the owner of the motor vehicle is not one of the automobiles to the State Relief Administration.

Sec. 21. The Legislature states that it is their intent that all dealings or negotiations with relief applicants or recipients shall be carried on individually and personally between the applicant or applicants and the Relief Administrator or his representatives, and that it is contrary to the intent of the Legislature that any of this appropriation be used by relief recipients as dues or assessments to intermediaries or associations acting for such applicants or recipients on their behalf in dealing with the Relief Administration or its representatives.

Sec. 22. (a) It is unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to promise any compensation, employment, relief or other benefit provided for or made possible in whole or in part by the appropriation, to any individual as consideration, favor or reward for any political activity or for the support of or opposition to any candidate or any political party in any election.

(b) It is unlawful for any person to deprive, attempt to deprive or threaten to deprive by any means any person of any relief or other public assistance provided for or made possible in whole or in part by the appropriation on account of any political activity, support of or opposition to any candidate or to any political party in any election.

(c) It is unlawful for any person knowingly to solicit or receive, or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving, any assessment, subscription or contribution of money for any political purpose, whether from any person receiving compensation, employment, relief or other benefit made available from the appropriation.

(d) It is unlawful for any person to furnish or disclose or to aid or assist in furnishing or disclosing any names of persons receiving compensation, employment, relief or other benefits provided or made possible by the appropriation to any political candidate, committee, campaign manager or to any person for delivery to a political candidate, committee or campaign manager, and it is unlawful for any person to receive any such names for political purposes.

(e) No part of the appropriation shall be used for the purpose of directly or indirectly influencing or attempting to influence or interfering with or restraining or coercing any person in the exercise of his right to vote at any election.

(f) Except for elective officials, it is unlawful for any person employed in any capacity in connection with the administration or disbursement of the appropriation to take an active part in political management, or be an active member of political organizations or take an active part in political campaigns which have as their purpose the election or nomination of any person to any office or employment, or to be a candidate for nomination or election to any office, whether partisan or nonpartisan.

(g) It is unlawful for any person employed in any capacity in connection with the administration or disbursement of the appropriation to influence or attempt to influence any individual known to be receiving compensation, employment, relief or other benefits provided by the appropriation to support or oppose any candidate or any political party in any election.

(h) Every person violating any provision of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and in addition to the penalty imposed therefor shall not be entitled to any further compensation or employment provided for or made possible in whole or in part by the appropriation.

(i) As used in this section "appropriation" refers to the sum appropriated in Section 1 of this act.

(j) The Relief Administrator is charged with the duty of enforcing the provisions of this section.

SEC. 23. The Legislature hereby declares that the use of the money appropriated by this act for the support of a publicity department and the making of expenditures for press releases, publicity statements, propaganda and other forms of appeals to the public is contrary to its policy in providing this appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment except necessary publicity and services in connection with the Civilian Conservation Corps recruiting and enrollment as required by the Federal Government.

SEC. 24. The Relief Administrator shall refuse any further employment in the administration of this appropriation and shall pay no further compensation from this appropriation to any officer or employee of the State Relief Administration, (i) who refuses to appear, to testify or to answer the questions of any Legislative Committee, or (ii) who has heretofore refused to appear, to testify or to answer the questions of any Legislative Committee. The refusal shall be certified to the Relief Administrator by the Legislative Committee before which he refused to appear, to testify or to answer.

SEC. 25. The Legislature hereby directs, but does not require, the State Relief Administration to provide all relief and assistance for single men and unattached men through relief camps or by relief-in-kind whenever or wherever possible in lieu of direct cash payments.

Family men, if they so request, may be assigned to camps, if in the discretion of the Relief Administrator it appears that such assignment may result in obtaining Work Projects Administration, National defense or other employment.

SEC. 26. The Relief Commission and the Relief Administrator may promulgate any additional rules and regulations necessary for the administration of this act but not in conflict with the intent of this act or the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935.

SEC. 27. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

SEC. 28. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and as such shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

The appropriation for unemployment relief is about to be totally expended and it is necessary that additional funds be made available immediately. Unless this act providing immediate funds and the means for the expenditure thereof and safeguards upon their use takes effect immediately relief operations will have to be suspended at a time when the need continues to be great, which will result in untold hardship and suffering to a great number of persons receiving relief in this State at this time, and will cause serious unrest throughout the State.

SEC. 29. This act shall be known and may be cited as the Unemployment Relief Appropriation Act of 1941."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Welfare and Institutions.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Garrison, ordered printed in the Journal:

S. F. No. 16519

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
In Bank

W. B. PARKER, as member and chairman, of the CALIFORNIA COMMISSION ON INTER-STATE COOPERATION, JOHN PHILLIPS, as member of said commission, and W. C. JACOB
SEN, as executive secretary of said commission, Petitioners,

VS.

HARRY B. RILEY, as Controller of the State of California,
Respondent.

This original petition for a writ of habeas corpus and certiorari is signed by the respondent Harry B. Riley, as Controller of the State of California, to nullify certain warrants in favor of petitioners who are members of the California Commission on Interstate Cooperation, created by Senate Bill, Ch. 576, p. 1710, (Sess. Pub. Code Secs. 332-332.6). They seek reimbursement for some expenses incurred in carrying out the duties of the commission. The petition alleges that certain expenditures were made in conducting the official business of the commission, that the expenditures were properly entitled to the reimbursement, that certain taxes were appropriated for the use of the commission, but that respondent refused to draw warrants covering these expenditures. In his answer and motion respondent denies that he is under any duty to draw warrants for the expenditures in question, and bases his denial solely upon the contention that the statute creating the commission is unconstitutional and wholly void.

The commission is charged with the duty of furthering the participation of the State as a member of the Council of State Governments, and is required to confer with officials of other States and of the Federal Government to formulate proposals for cooperation between these States and such other governments. It is instructed to organize and maintain governmental machinery for the purposes set forth, to establish committees and advisory boards, and to employ such persons as are necessary to carry out its duties. The commission is instructed to report its proposals to the Legislature and to the Governor within 15 days after the convening of each regular legislative session, and at such other times as it deems appropriate. The members of the commission and of all committees which it may establish serve without compensation, but may receive reimbursement for necessary expenses.

The statute also creates a Senate Committee on Interstate Cooperation and an Assembly Committee on Interstate Cooperation, which are to be chosen as are other committees of each branch of the Legislature, and which are to function during the interim between sessions as well as during the regular sessions. The membership of the Commission on Interstate Cooperation is made up of the five members of the Senate Committee, the five members of the Assembly Committee, and five officials of the State who are to be appointed by the Governor. The members appointed by the Governor hold office as members of the commission at his pleasure, and the Members of the Legislature hold office so long as they remain members of the committees of each house.

The commission thus created is designed to further the cooperation between the various States and between the States and the Federal Government. The statute creating the commission is patterned after a statute enacted in New Jersey (Laws of New Jersey 1936, Ch. 21, p. 32) and similar statutes have been adopted in a majority of the States of the United States. The clear purpose of such legislation is to create machinery of government through which the various States can exchange information and formulate proposals for mutual action to be submitted to their individual State Governments. It is contended on behalf of the respondent, however, that the particular commission here created is in violation of express provisions of the California Constitution, and that the entire plan must therefore fail.

In so far as the statute deals with the creation of Interim Committees in each of the houses of the Legislature, no successful attack can be made upon it. Indeed, the Legislative Committees created under this statute appear to satisfy fully the requirements enunciated in the opinions of this court in Special Assembly Interim Committee vs. Southard, 13 Cal. (2d) 497, and Swing vs. Riden, 13 Cal. (2d) 513.

The most serious challenge to the constitutionality of this legislation is advanced under Section 19 of Article IV of the California Constitution. That section since 1916 has provided: "No Senator or Member of Assembly shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, hold or accept any office, trust, or employment under this State; provided, that this provision shall not apply to any office filled by election by the people." Respondent contends that membership upon the California Commission on Inter-State Cooperation constitutes an "office, trust, or employment" under the constitutional provision, and that members of the Legislature can not lawfully be made members of such a commission. Prior to 1916 the comparable provision was far less stringent and only prohibited the acceptance by a Legislator of "any civil office of profit" which was created or the emoluments of which had been increased during his term of office as a Legislator. Constitutional provisions in many other States have retained the less stringent form prohibiting a "civil appointment" (Illinois Const., Art. IV, Sec. 15; New York Const., Art. III, Sec. 7) or a "civil office" (Colorado Const., Art. V, Sec. 8; Montana Const., Art. 5, Sec. 7; Nevada Const., Art. 4, Sec. 8). Such constitutional provisions have been interpreted to permit the acceptance by a Legislator during his term of office of positions which do not amount to an "office" but are mere "employment." (Hudson vs. Aneur, 101 Colo. 551; State Tax Comm. vs. Harrington, 126 Md. 157; State ex rel Barney vs. Hawkins, 79 Mont. 506, 53 A. L. R. 583; State ex rel Kendall vs. Cole, 38 Nev. 215.) A similar conclusion was reached in California under the older constitutional provision. (Curtin vs. State, 61 Cal. App. 377, 390.) After the amendment of this provision in 1916, however, it was held that such positions as that of a deputy district attorney or that of auditor of the State Board of Prison Directors constitute the kind of "office, trust, or employment" to which a Legislator may not be appointed. (Satterwhite vs. Garrison, 34 Cal. App. 734; Chenoweth vs. Chambers, 33 Cal. App. 104.) The amended provision has been said to be far more sweeping than its predecessor and to have been designed to prevent the acquiring by members of the Legislature of positions on the State pay roll which might prevent their maintaining a desirable independence of mind. (Chenoweth vs. Chambers, supra, p. 106.) It has been indicated, however, that compensation or emolument may not be a necessary element where the position involved falls within the more important classification of an "office." (See, Patton vs. Board of Health, 127 Cal. 388, 395.) It is clear, therefore, that the purpose of the constitutional provision here involved is to prevent the acceptance by a Legislator of any position under the State, whether an office or merely employment, which creates the opportunity for private aggrandizement, pecuniary in nature or otherwise. (See, State ex rel Barney vs. Hawkins, 79 Mont. 506, 526; Gillespie vs. Barrett, 368 Ill. 612, 617.)

The sweeping terms of the California constitutional provision thus prevent the appointment of a Member of the Legislature to any other position of trust or responsibility under the State. It may be noted, however, that the positions created by the statute here attacked lack certain elements usually associated with an "office" or "trust." Thus, it is generally said that an office trust requires the vesting in an individual of a portion of the sovereign powers of the State. (Patton vs. Board of Health, supra, pp. 394, 398; Curtin vs. State, supra, p. 390; Leymel vs. Johnson, 105 Cal. App. 694, 699; Couts vs. County of San Diego, 139 Cal. App. 706, 712; State ex rel Barney vs. Hawkins, supra, p. 520; State ex rel Kendall vs. Cole, 38 Nev. 215, 224; (1928) 53 A. L. R. 595, 602.) The positions here created do not measure up to so high a standard. They involve merely the interchange of information, the assembling of data, and the formulation of proposals to be placed before the Legislature. Such tasks do not require the exercise of a part of the sovereign power of the State. It may also be doubted whether the positions here conferred constitute an "employment" by the State since no compensation is provided for the members of the commission. Yet, while distinctions might thus be drawn to show that membership on the commission is not within the scope of the constitutional prohibition, we prefer to place our decision on other more fundamental grounds.

Assuming, but not deciding, that the positions created under this statute amount to an "office, trust, or employment" under the State, we do not think the trust thus imposed upon selected Members of the Legislature is in violation of the constitutional prohibition. The constitutional provision clearly implies that the prohibition is directed at the conferring of any other office, trust, or employment upon a Member of the Legislature. A Member of the Legislature is already an officer holding a position of trust under the State Government. Where a statute merely makes available new machinery and new methods by which particular Legislators may keep themselves informed upon specific problems, it can not be said to have imposed upon them any new office or trust. The additional duties which rest upon the legislative members of the commission are identical in purpose and kind with those which they already perform. As was said in People vs. Tremaine, 252 N. Y. 27, 41, "The duties of Members of the Legislature may be enlarged without making a civil appointment or creating a new office, so long as the duties are such as may be properly attached to the legislative office. * * * We hold, therefore, that the statute here attacked did not contravene the controlling principle of office, trust, or employment upon the legislative members of the assembly. Speckel Assembly Interim Comm. vs. Southard, supra, p. 429; Wichura vs. Frost, 62 Cal. 46; Terrell vs. King, 118 Tex. 237, 248.)

It must not be assumed, however, that legislative powers may be expanded indefinitely through the creation of separate agencies responsible directly to the Legislature. This sort of expansion would amount to a legislative usurpation of power incompatible with the proper exercise of its lawmaking function. The Constitution forbids any such usurpation of duties by the Legislative Branch of Government, and a statute conferring a lawmaking function upon the Members of the Legislature would be clearly unconstitutional. But under the particular facts set forth, where the respondents engaged in no sort of lawmaking information and making recommendations, so that the entire thing is considered incidental to the lawmaking function. The creation of a separate commission in this instance involved merely the use of new machinery in carrying out a trust already reposed in the Members of the Legislature. Under such circumstances the statute does not fall within the prohibition of the constitutional provision relied upon, and the contentions of respondent in this regard can not be sustained.

The further contention is made by respondent that the statute creating the California Commission on Interstate Cooperation is unconstitutional upon the ground that it violates Section 1, Article III of the California Constitution which provides: "The powers of the Government of the State of California shall be divided into three separate departments—the legislative, executive and judicial; and no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments shall exercise any functions pertaining to those of another except as in this Constitution expressly directed or permitted." The duties reposed upon the commission, as we have stated, are those of investigation and consultation. The statutory plan culminates in the recommendations or proposals made by the commission from time to time. Such proposals are to be referred to the Legislature, may properly be described as the performance of duties which are incidental and ancillary to the ultimate performance of lawmaking functions by the Legislature itself. It is difficult to see how the general doctrine of political theory designed to apply to the basic and fundamental powers of Government is used to prohibit the exercise of such subsidiary and ancillary duties. Respondent insists, however, that all the functions of Government, whatever their importance, must be clearly allocated and classified as legislative, executive, or judicial. In the present instance, it is urged that certain of the duties performed by the commission are executive in nature and it is therefore argued that the doctrine of separation of powers prevents the exercise of such functions by Members of the Legislative Branch of the Government. If the duties were classified as legislative in nature, it is apparent that the same doctrine would prevent the exercise of such functions by the executive members of the commission. Whichever category is selected, under the theory thus advanced, the same result must be reached, that is, the statute must be held unconstitutional as violating the doctrine of separation of powers.

That doctrine, however, can not be carried to such lengths. The courts have long recognized that its primary purpose is to prevent the combination in the hands of a single person or group of the basic or fundamental powers of Government. (See, People vs. Province, 34 Cal. 520, 539; Hampton & Co. vs. United States, 276 U. S. 394, 406; State vs. Bates, 96 Me. 110, 117-18; State ex rel Wisconsin Inspection Bureau vs. Whitcomb, 196 Ws. 472; Story, Constitution (5th ed.) p. 393; Green, Separation of Governmental Powers (1920), 29 Yale L. J. 369; (1938) 24 Cornell L. Q. 43, 15-56.) The doctrine has not been interpreted as requiring the rigid classification of all the incidental activities of Government, with the result that once a technique or method of procedure is associated with a particular branch of the Government, it can never be used thereafter by another. Thus, although the ascertainment of facts based upon evidence taken in the course of a formal hearing is normally associated with an exercise of the judicial power, it may be entirely proper in the exercise of legislative or executive power (Louisville & N. R. R. Co. vs. Garrett, 231 U. S. 298, 307; see, Brown, Administrative Commissions and the Judicial Power (1935), 19 Minn. L. Rev. 261, 275), and may be accompanied by the power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the power to punish for contempt. (De la Battelle, 207 Cal. 227.) Similarly, although it is normally the duty of the Legislature to make the determinations of fact upon the basis of which legislation is to become effective, that duty may properly be devolved upon members of the Executive Branch of the Government. (Brook vs. Superior Court, 9 Cal. (2d) 291; Olive Pomaton etc. Comm. vs. Agricultural Pro-rate Commission, 17 A. C. 219.)

The separation of powers doctrine does not require that we classify these incidental governmental duties, and that we thereafter limit such activity to the particular branch of the Government first selected. Such subsidiary duties may properly be performed by a variety of governmental agencies. In the instant case, the duty of correlating information and making recommendations is the kind of subsidiary activity which the Legislature could perform through its own members, or which it could delegate to others to perform. Intelligent legislation upon the complicated problems of modern society is impossible in the absence of accurate information on the part of the Legislators, and any reasonable procedure for securing such information is proper. (In re Battelle, supra; Phillips vs. Riley, 6 Cal. (2d) 414; Special Assembly Interim Comm. vs. Southard, supra.) Nor does the Constitution prohibit the delegation of such incidental and subordinate tasks. As the court said in Attorney General vs. Brissenden, 271 Mass. 172, 180, where such duties were imposed upon the Attorney General, "The ascertainment of facts in its essence is not a legislative function. It is simply ancillary to legislation. It may be accomplished in divers ways. While it may be done by the Legislature itself, it is a responsibility not infrequently placed upon committees and individuals * * *." Frequent illustrations of this practice also are found respecting permanent boards or commissions * * *. The ascertainment of pertinent facts for legislation is within the power of the Lawmaking Department of Government. When a legislative body has a right to do an act it must be allowed to select the means within reasonable bounds. It is not precluded from delegating incidental powers which it may exercise itself in aid of its primary functions * * *. Familiar methods are by appropriating the results of studies already made by itself or by others, by conducting an inquiry through a committee of its members, or by utilizing an existing commission or board to make and report the results of a research." Courts have approved the creation of legislative agencies such as the commission created by this statute. (Attorney General vs. Brissenden, supra; Annenberg vs. Roberts, 333 Pa. 203, 211; People vs. Charles Schweinler Press, 214 N. Y. 395, 412; Terrell vs. King, 118 Tex. 237; Mulniz vs. Elliott, supra.) The statute creating the California Commission on Interstate Cooperation does not, therefore, violate either of the constitutional provisions relied upon by respondent.

Let the writ issue as prayed.

Bill read.

Motion to Amend

Senator Swan moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In line 2 of the title of the printed bill, after "duties", insert " , declaring the urgency hereof, to take effect immediately".

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of the printed bill, after line 26, insert

"Sec. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting the necessity:

An emergency exists in the United States and the State of California in providing adequate armies and facilities for defense. The War Department is endeavoring to make use of the facilities, information, and experience of State and National highway officials to improve the methods of cooperation between such officials and the Army in the movement of motor transports and troops on highways with the least possible dislocation to normal civilian traffic. It also desires to make use of information at the disposal of the States relative to the records of drivers and the availability of commercial trucks and passenger buses. As a result of this effort, a National Committee consisting of representatives of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the American Association of State Highway Officials, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and the Public Road Administration, and called the "Highway Traffic Advisory Committee to the War Department," has been appointed. To cooperate with this movement, it is therefore necessary that this act take effect immediately."

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON SECOND CONFERENCE REPORT ON ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 1800

June 3, 1941

In my judgment the cuts in the Budget for free textbooks and for the State colleges are excessive. Reductions in other items of the Budget are far below the funds needed. The work of the Senate members of the Free Conference Committee deserves high praise, and my negative vote implies no censure of their splendid service.

In the event the board of supervisors of Riverside County shall fail, within six months from and after the date of enactment of this act, to appoint a member of the authority as herein provided, the city council of Palm Springs shall make such appointment, and if the city council of Palm Springs fails to make such appointment within ninety (90) days thereafter, the Governor of the State of California shall make such appointment. In the event the city council shall fail to fill any vacancy in the authority within sixty (60) days after such vacancy is created, the same shall be filled by appointment by the Governor of the State of California. In the event the board of supervisors of Riverside County shall fail to fill any vacancy in the authority within sixty (60) days after such vacancy is created, the same shall be filled by appointment by the city council of Palm Springs, and if the city council of Palm Springs fails to make such appointment within thirty (30) days thereafter, the Governor of the State of California shall make such appointment.

The territorial limits of the authority shall not be diminished or decreased so long as any bonds issued under this act are outstanding and unpaid.

SEC. 3.4. The members of the authority shall be entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered to the authority together with their reasonable necessary traveling expenses incurred while on business of the authority, payable exclusively out of the funds of the authority available therefor.

SEC. 3.5. Any executed instrument bearing the seal of the authority shall be prima facie evidence of its execution by the authority and that its execution was duly, regularly and legally authorized by the authority.

CHAPTER 4. GENERAL POWERS

SEC. 4.1. The authority has perpetual succession.

SEC. 4.2. The authority may sue and be sued in all courts of competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 4.3. The authority may acquire by grant, purchase, condemnation, gift, devise or lease, and may hold, use, sell, lease or dispose of any real and personal property necessary for the full exercise, enjoyment or useful for the carrying on of, any of its powers pursuant to the provisions of this act.

SEC. 4.4. The authority may acquire, construct or complete roads, highways, trams, tramways, actual cableways, smoking, bathing, parking areas, ski areas, areas for tobogganing, coasting, snowshoeing, sledding, ice skating, ski huts, hotels, pensions, lodges, restaurants, homes, bathhouses and all other works, properties and structures necessary, convenient or useful for the development of winter sports, and any other recreational facilities within the territorial limits of the authority as defined in Section 3.3. It may also acquire or construct and operate and maintain water supplies, and power and drainage systems, necessary, convenient, or useful to the proper purposes of the authority, but only where water supply, power or drainage facilities are not then available from established private utilities operating under the jurisdiction of the California Railroad Commission, provided, that such facilities for auxiliary or standby service may be required, constructed, operated and maintained to supplement service from such established private utilities. It may operate and maintain said improvements and also all cars, engines, machinery, cables, tramways, buses, and other transportation facilities necessary or convenient to make accessible to the public the winter snow area of Mount San Jacinto, and may exercise all rights and privileges necessary or incidental thereto; provided, that no hotels, pensions, lodges, or restaurants shall be acquired or constructed in Secs. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, T. 4 S., R. 4 E., S. B. B. & M.

SEC. 4.5. The authority, subject to the approval of the State Park Commission, may fix rates, tolls, charges, rents or other charges for the use of any facilities acquired, constructed, operated or maintained by the authority and may alter, change or modify the same, subject also to any contractual obligation which may be entered into by the authority with respect to the fixing of such rates, charges, rentals or tolls.

SEC. 4.6. The authority, subject to the approval of the State Park Commission, may enter into covenants to maintain minimum rates or charges, or rates or charges sufficient to service the outstanding obligations of the authority, if any. It may also, subject to the approval of the State Park Commission, enter into covenants to increase rates or charges from time to time as may be necessary pursuant to any such contract or agreement with the holders of any obligations of the authority.

SEC. 4.7. The authority may enter into contracts with the State Park Commission covering the care, maintenance and control of any of its properties in Mount San Jacinto State Park, the construction, operation, maintenance of recreational facilities thereon, and particularly with reference to the construction, operation, maintenance and repair of tramways, upshis, ski tows and all other recreational facilities, including ski houses, ski huts, hotels, restaurants and other accommodations for the public making use of the facilities acquired, constructed or completed by the authority in Mount San Jacinto State Park. Such contract may further provide for the care, maintenance and control of all winter recreational facilities, including transportation facilities acquired, constructed or completed by the authority and the payment of the expenses thereof from any fund available to the authority or to the State Park Commission and may further provide for the granting to said authority of easements across State park property for such rights of way as may be necessary for the construction, operation, and maintenance of the transportation facilities acquired, constructed, or completed under this act. Nothing herein or in said contract shall obligate the State to appropriate any moneys for the payment of any expenses of the authority, but nothing herein shall prevent the State from making appropriations for the purposes hereof, as the Legislature may deem proper.

SEC. 4.8. The authority may exercise the right of eminent domain for the condemnation of private property or any right or interest therein for its use. It may take any property necessary for the purposes set forth in this act, but lands belonging to the State of California, and private property already appropriated to public use, which use is available to the authority from an established private utility under the Rules and Regulations of the California Railroad Commission shall not be subject to condemnation hereunder. The use of any property, or rights or interests therein, necessary or useful for the purposes of the authority, within the territorial jurisdiction of the authority as defined in Section 3.3 is hereby declared to be a superior and permanent right and necessity, and a more necessary use and purpose than the use or purpose to which such property has already been appropriated or dedicated, except a public use or purpose already served by an established private utility or utilities operating under the jurisdiction of the California Railroad Commission, but lands belonging to the State of California shall not be subject to condemnation hereunder.

SEC. 4.9. Whenever the authority shall determine to exercise the right of eminent domain, it shall first adopt a resolution declaring that the public interest and necessity require the acquisition, construction or completion of any property, real, personal or mixed, rights, franchises or easements. Such resolution shall be conclusive evidence:

(a) Of the public necessity of such acquisition, construction or completion;

(b) That such property, franchises, rights, privileges or easements are, and that the acquisition of the fee or other interest therein is, necessary therefor; and

(c) That such proposed acquisition, construction or completion is planned or located in a manner which will be most compatible for the greatest public good and the least private injury.

It shall not be necessary in any eminent domain proceeding under this act to plead or prove any acts or proceedings preliminary or prior to the adoption of the resolution of public interest and necessity describing the property sought to be taken and directing such eminent domain proceeding.

SEC. 4.10. The authority has, and is hereby granted all rights of way deemed by the authority necessary or advisable upon which to construct, locate and maintain the transportation facilities, tramways, up skis or other transportation facilities which may be acquired, constructed or completed under this act through, over, under, on or across any property of this State, including all highways now or hereafter owned, opened or dedicated to or for public use and howsoever acquired, and through, over, under, on or across streets, lanes, alleys and roads now or hereafter opened or dedicated to or for public use and howsoever acquired which are now or may be within the County of Riverside or any incorporated city or town, public or municipal corporation, district or political subdivision of this State within the County of Riverside; provided, however, that no existing public highway shall be closed nor shall tolls be collected for the use thereof unless appropriate proceedings are first taken for the vacation or abandonment of such highway by the authorities in charge thereof; and provided further, that this grant shall not apply to property of the State of California located within the territorial limits of Mount San Jacinto State Park, excepting upon the express consent of the State Park Commission. In the event the use by the authority of any existing public highway necessitates changes therein or expenditures thereon, the cost thereof shall be borne by the authority. The authority is entitled to the benefit of any reservation or grant, in all cases, where any right has been reserved or granted to the State or any agency or political subdivision thereof to construct or maintain roads, highways or other crossings over any public or private lands.

SEC. 4.11. The authority may contract with any department or agency of the United States of America or of the State of California upon such terms and conditions as the authority finds is for the authority's best interests.

SEC. 4.12. The authority may make contracts, leases and agreements with any person or public corporation and may generally perform all acts necessary for the full exercise of the powers vested in it.

SEC. 4.13. The authority may sell, lease, convey or otherwise dispose of any of its rights, interests or properties after the purposes for which they were acquired have been fully satisfied. It may sell, lease or otherwise dispose of, at any time, any surplus materials or other property not needed for its requirements or for the purpose of carrying out this act.

SEC. 4.14. The authority is authorized to give publicity to and to advertise the winter recreational facilities of Mount San Jacinto State Park, and to promote the use thereof and the development of the project constructed by the authority.

SEC. 4.15. The authority may adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to enable it to exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred or imposed upon it by this act.

CHAPTER 5. REVENUE BONDS

SEC. 5.1. The authority may issue revenue bonds for the acquisition, construction or completion of any works, property or infrastructure necessary or convenient to carry out the objects and purposes of this act; provided, that the total amount of bonds outstanding shall not be in excess of three million dollars ($3,000,000) at any one time.

SEC. 5.2. Each separate improvement shall be designated as a "project" and the purpose, nature and extent thereof shall be described in general terms prior to the issuance of any bonds.

SEC. 5.3. The validity of the authorization and issuance of any revenue bonds by the authority is not dependent on any approval by any state or local body.

(a) Proceedings taken by the authority for the acquisition, construction or completion of any improvement or any part thereof.

(b) Any contracts made by the authority in connection with the acquisition, construction or completion of any improvement.

(c) The failure to complete any improvements for which bonds are authorized to be issued.

SEC. 5.4. The authority shall issue revenue bonds in its name. These bonds shall constitute obligations of the authority only, and neither the payment of the principal or interest of any such bond constitutes a debt, liability or obligation of the State of California, or of the City of Palm Springs. Any bonds issued by the authority shall contain a recital on their face that neither the payment of the principal or any part thereof nor any interest thereon constitutes a debt, liability or obligation of the State.

SEC. 5.5. The authority shall determine the name, form and number of the issuance of revenue bonds.

SEC. 5.6. The authority may enter into indentures providing for the aggregate principal amount, date or dates, maturities, interest rate, conversions, terms, registration transfer and interchange of such bonds and coupons and the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be created, issued, secured, sold, paid, redeemed, funded and refunded. Reference to the face of the bonds to such indenture by its date of adoption, or the printed date on the face thereof, is sufficient to incorporate all of the provisions thereof and of this act into the face of the bonds and their appurtenant coupons. Each holder or assignee holder of the bonds or coupons, whether the coupons are detached or detached from the bonds, has recourse to all of the provisions of the indenture and of this act, and is bound thereby.

SEC. 5.7. An indenture pursuant to which bonds are issued may include such covenants and agreements on the part of the authority as the authority deems necessary or advisable for the better security of the bonds issued thereunder.

SEC. 5.8. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to pay or cause to be paid periodically the principal of all such bonds and the interest thereon on the date or dates of the place or places, and in the manner mentioned in such bonds and in the coupons appurtenant thereto in accordance with such indenture.

SEC. 5.9. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to continuously operate all improvements acquired, constructed, or completed, in whole or in part, from the proceeds of the bonds in an efficient and economical manner.

SEC. 5.10. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to make all needed and necessary repairs, renewals and replacements to any improvements and to keep them at all times in good repair, working order and condition.

SEC. 5.11. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to preserve and protect the security of the bonds and the rights of the holders thereof and to warrant and defend such rights.

SEC. 5.12. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to pay and discharge or cause to be paid and discharged all lawful claims for labor, materials and supplies or other charges which, if unpaid, might become a lien or charge upon the revenues, or any part thereof, of any improvements acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, or upon any physical properties, or which might impair the security of the bonds.

SEC. 5.13. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder which limits, restricts or prohibits any right, power or privilege of the authority to mortgage or otherwise encumber, sell, lease or dispose of any improvements constructed from the proceeds of the bonds, or to enter into any lease or agreement which impairs or impedes the operation of such improvement, or any part thereof, necessary to secure adequate revenues or which otherwise impairs or impedes the rights of the holders of the bonds with respect to such revenues.

SEC. 5.14. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to fix, prescribe and collect rates, tolls, rentals or other charges in connection with the services and facilities furnished from the improvements acquired, constructed or purchased from part or all of the proceeds of the bonds, sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as they become due and payable, together with all expenses of operation, maintenance and repair of the improvements, and with such additional sums as may be required for any sinking fund, reserve fund or other special fund provided for the further security of such bonds or as a depreciation charge or other charge in connection with such improvement.

SEC. 5.15. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to hold in trust the revenues pledged to the payment of such bonds and the interest thereon, or to any reserve or other fund created for the further protection of the bonds, and to apply such revenues or cause them to be applied only as provided in the indenture.

SEC. 5.16. An indenture may include a clause limiting the power of the authority to apply the proceeds of the sale of any issue of bonds for the acquiring, constructing, or completing of any improvement or any part thereof, or more than one of such improvements.

SEC. 5.17. An indenture may include a clause limiting the power of the authority to issue additional bonds for the purpose of acquiring, constructing or completing any improvement or any part thereof.

SEC. 5.18. An indenture may include a clause requiring, specifying or limiting the kind, amount and character of insurance to be maintained by the authority on any improvement, or any part thereof, and the use and disposition of the proceeds of any such insurance thereafter collected.

SEC. 5.19. An indenture may include a clause providing the events of default and the terms and conditions upon which any or all of the bonds of the authority then or thereafter issued may become or be declared due and payable prior to maturity, and the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived.

SEC. 5.20. An indenture may include a clause designating the rights, limitations, powers and duties arising upon breach by the authority of any of the covenants, conditions, or obligations contained in any indenture.

SEC. 5.21. An indenture may include a clause prescribing a procedure by which the terms and conditions of the indenture may be subsequently amended or modified with the consent of the authority and the vote or written assent of the holders of a specified principal amount of the bonds issued and outstanding. Such clause may provide for meetings of bondholders and for the manner in which the consent of the bondholders may be given. The clause shall specifically state the effect of such amendment or modification upon the rights of the holders of all of the bonds and interest coupons appertaining thereto, whether attached thereto or detached therefrom.

With respect to any clause providing for the modification or amendment of an indenture, the authority may agree that bonds held by the authority, by any department, political subdivision or agency of the State of California, or by any public corporation, municipality, district or political subdivision shall not be counted as outstanding bonds, or be entitled to vote or assent, but shall, nevertheless, be subject to any such modification or amendment.

SEC. 5.22. The indenture may include a clause providing for such other acts and matters as may be necessary or convenient or desirable in order to secure the bonds or to make the bonds more marketable.

SEC. 5.23. The authority may designate a bank or trust company, qualified to do business in this State, as a trustee for the authority and the holders of bonds issued hereunder, and may authorize the trustee to act on behalf of the holders of the bonds, or any stated percentage thereof, and to exercise and prosecute on behalf of the holders of the bonds such rights and remedies as may be available to the holders.

SEC. 5.24. The authority shall fix and determine the conditions upon which any trustee shall receive, hold or disburse any or all revenues collected for or on account of the authority. The authority shall prescribe the duties and powers of such trustee with respect to the issuance, authentication, sale and delivery of the bonds and the payment of principal and interest thereof, the redemption of the bonds, the registration and discharge from registration of the bonds, and the management of any sinking fund or other funds provided as security for the bonds.

SEC. 5.25. The authority may issue bonds in series or may divide any issue into one or more divisions and fix different maturities or dates of such bonds, different rates of interest, or prescribe different terms and conditions for the bonds of the several series or divisions. It is not necessary that all bonds of the same authorized issue be of the same kind or character, have the same security, or be of the same interest rate, but the terms thereof shall in each case be provided for by the authority, at or prior to the issue thereof. The authority may provide for successive issues or may provide for one maximum issue.

Sec. 5.26. Bonds may be issued as coupon bonds or as registered bonds. The authority may provide for the interchange of coupon bonds for registered bonds and registered bonds for coupon bonds, and may provide that the bonds shall be registered as to principal only, or as to both principal and interest, or otherwise as the authority may determine.

Sec. 5.27. Bonds shall bear interest at a rate of not to exceed six (6) per cent per annum, payable annually or semiannually or in part annually and in part semiannually. Prior to the issuance of bonds the authority may fix limitations or restrictions on the payment of interest.

Sec. 5.28. Bonds may be callable upon such terms, conditions and upon such notice as the authority may determine, and upon the payment of the premium fixed by the authority in the proceedings for the issuance of the bonds. No bond is subject to call or redemption prior to its fixed maturity date unless the right to exercise such call is expressly stated on the face of the bond.

Sec. 5.29. The authority may provide for the payment of the principal and interest of bonds at any place within or without the State of California, and in specified coin or currency of the United States.

Sec. 5.30. The authority may provide for the execution and authentication of bonds by the manual, lithographed or printed facsimile signatures of officers of the authority, and by additional authentication by a trustee or fiscal agent appointed by the authority. If any of the officers whose signatures or authentications appear upon the bonds or coupons come to be officers before the delivery of the bonds or coupons, their signatures or authentications are nevertheless valid and of the same force and effect as if the officers had remained in office until the delivery of the bonds and coupons.

Sec. 5.31. Bonds shall bear dates prescribed by the authority. Bonds may be serial bonds or sinking fund bonds with such maturities as the authority may determine. No bond by its terms shall mature in more than 50 years from its own date and in the event any authorized issue is divided into two or more series or divisions, the maximum maturity date bonds authorized shall be determined from the date on the face of each bond separately, irrespective of the fact that different dates may be prescribed for the bonds of each separate series or division of any authorized issue.

Sec. 5.32. The authority may fix terms and conditions for the sale, or other disposition of any authorized issue of bonds. The authority may sell bonds at less than their par or face value but no bond may be sold at a price below the par or face value thereof which would result in a sale price yielding to the purchaser an average of more than six (6) per cent per annum, payable semiannually, according to standard tables of bond values.

Sec. 5.33. The authority may provide for the security of bonds. The authority may also provide for the payment of bonds out of any appropriations or other funds contributed to the authority by the State of California, the United States of America, or by any department or agency of either thereof. However, nothing in this act shall obligate the State of California to make any appropriation for that purpose.

Sec. 5.34. Interest on bonds may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds during the actual construction of any project for the acquisition, construction or completion of which the bonds have been issued, and for a period of not to exceed two (2) years thereafter as provided for in the indenture.

Sec. 5.35. The authority may provide in the proceedings for the issuance of bonds that the bonds and the interest thereon constitute such lien upon the revenues of any project acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds thereof as may be provided for in the indenture.

Sec. 5.36. Pending the actual issuance or delivery of revenue bonds, the authority may issue temporary or interim bonds, certificates or receipts of any denomination whatsoever, and with or without coupons, to be exchanged for definitive bonds when ready for delivery.

Sec. 5.37. All bonds, and the interest or income therefrom, are exempt from all taxation in this State other than gift, inheritance and estate taxes.

Sec. 5.38. The bonds issued under this act are subject to investigation and certification by the California Districts Securities Commission under the California Districts Securities Commission Act as such act reads or is hereafter amended to read. If the commission determines that the bonds are adequately secured and the revenues of the authority applicable to the payment thereof are or will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds, and if the commission certifies to that effect, the bonds shall be eligible as legal investments for both public and private funds and as security for the deposit of public funds in banks in the State of California in the same manner as is provided in the California Districts Securities Commission Act.

Sec. 5.39. The authority may provide for the issuance, sale, or exchange of refunding bonds for the purpose of redeeming or retiring any revenue bonds issued by the authority. All provisions of this act applicable to the issuance of revenue bonds are applicable to the funding or refunding bonds and to the issuance, sale or exchange thereof.

SEC. 5.40. Funding or refunding bonds may be issued in a principal amount sufficient to provide funds for the payment of all bonds to be funded or refunded thereby, and in addition for the payment of all expenses incident to the calling, retiring or paying of such outstanding bonds, and the issuance of such funding or refunding bonds. These expenses include the difference in amount between the par value of the funding or refunding bonds and any amount less than par for which the funding or refunding bonds are sold, any amount necessary to be made available for the payment of interest upon such funding or refunding bonds from the date of sale thereof to the date of payment of the bonds to be funded or refunded or to the date upon which the bonds to be funded or refunded will be paid pursuant to the call thereof or agreement with the holders thereof, and the premium, if any, necessary to be paid in order to call or retire the outstanding bonds and the interest accruing thereon to the date of the call or retirement.

SEC. 5.41. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act are negotiable instruments, except when registered in the name of a registered owner.

SEC. 5.42. Prior to the issuance of any bonds, the authority may commence in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Riverside, a special proceeding to determine the right to issue the bonds and their validity. Such proceeding shall be instituted and prosecuted in the same manner as provided by Sections 68 to 71, inclusive, of the California Irrigation District Act, as those sections now read or may hereafter be amended to read, and these sections apply to and govern all such proceedings instituted under this act. Such proceeding is a proceeding in rem and the judgment rendered therein is conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against the State of California.

CHAPTER 6. ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION AND COMPLETION OF PROJECT

SEC. 6.1. Whenever in the judgment of the authority it is advisable that any project be acquired, constructed or completed, in whole or in part, it shall cause a report thereon to be made which shall include:

(a) An estimate of the probable cost of the acquisition, construction and completion, including all incidental expenses, engineering, legal and administrative, during construction;

(b) An estimate of the probable sources of income and the amount thereof;

(c) An estimate of the cost of maintenance and future operation upon completion, including the cost of all repairs, administrative and overhead charges.

The expense of the preparation of such report shall be paid by the authority out of any funds available, including the proceeds of revenue bonds thereafter issued.

SEC. 6.2. If the report is approved by the authority, the authority may adopt a resolution declaring that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition, construction or completion of the project, authorizing such acquisition, construction or completion, and may thereupon authorize the issuance of revenue bonds for the purpose of obtaining funds in an amount estimated by the authority to be sufficient for such purpose.

SEC. 6.3. The authority has full charge of the acquisition, construction and completion of all projects authorized by it and may proceed with such work forthwith.

SEC. 6.4. The authority may construct any project and acquire all property necessary therefor on such terms and conditions as it deems advisable. The authority, without awarding a contract for the construction of any project, may do the work directly and may purchase materials, hire labor and do all other things necessary for the doing of the work. When any part of the work is to be done or performed by any public body or by the United States jointly or in conjunction with the authority, the portion of the cost thereof to be borne by the authority may be turned over to the Government of the United States or to any other public body to be expended by it in the acquisition, construction or completion of the project. Construction contracts entered into by the authority shall not be subject to the provisions of the State Contract Act and shall be governed solely by the provisions of this act, except that the provisions of an act entitled "An act to secure the payment of claims of persons employed by contractors upon public works, and the claims of persons who furnish materials, supplies, teams, implements or machinery used or consumed by such contractors in the performance of such works and prescribing the duties of certain public officers with respect thereto," approved May 10, 1919, as now or hereafter amended, are hereby expressly made applicable to any project under this act. Any such contracts may be entered into in such manner and upon such terms as the authority deems advisable.

SEC. 6.5. Title to all property acquired by the authority, and the revenues and income therefrom, is in the name of the City of Palm Springs. The title to any moneys, revenues, sinking funds, reserve funds and other funds of the authority and the income thereof pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on any bonds issued hereunder is subject to the trusts hereby created in favor of the bondholders. All such property, and the income therefrom, are exempt from all taxation by the State or by any county, city and county, city, municipality, district, political subdivision or public corporation thereof. Notwithstanding the vesting of title as herein provided, the management, operation and control of all improvements required, constructed or completed by the authority shall continue to be vested in the authority and the power, right, franchises and duties of the authority with respect thereto shall not be interrupted, except that with respect to any property or improvement in Mount San Jacinto State Park the right of possession, control, maintenance and operation thereof by the authority shall be subject to reversion on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the authority and the State Park Commission pursuant to any agreement hereunder. The authority and the State Park Commission under which such improvements within said State park were acquired, constructed or completed.

SEC. 6.6. So long as any, but not more than one, of the following are outstanding and unpaid, the operation, maintenance, control, custody, possession, use, enjoyment and improvement of any project acquired, constructed or completed under the provisions of this act are vested in the authority, to-wit: (1) the provisions of Sections 4.5 and 4.6 hereof and to the provisions of any contract between the authority and the State Park Commission entered into under the provisions of Section 4.7 hereof; provided, that the authority may enter into any agreement with the State Park Commission pursuant to which the State Park Commission shall be issued in whole or in part, with such duties as may be agreed upon hereunder, the authority, and the State Park Commission, shall incur such expenses and relieve the authority from any obligation assumed to the holders of its revenue bonds and its liability on proceedings for the issuance of such bonds.

SEC. 6.7. The authority may use for the payment of the acquisition and construction or completion of any project and funds made available to the authority to be expended for the accomplishing of the purposes set forth in this act or the proceeds of revenue bonds issued and sold by the authority. If the authority shall request the Department of Public Works to construct or complete any project, the authority shall pay, from funds available to it hereunder, the actual expenses of the Department of Public Works incurred in connection therewith.

SEC. 6.8. The authority may insure against any accident to or destruction of any project or any part thereof. Any money collected on such insurance shall be used for the purpose of repairing or rebuilding the property damaged, destroyed or destroyed, or for the retirement of any revenue bonds issued in connection therewith which may be outstanding undepended, as may be agreed upon by the authority and the indenture authorizing the issuance of the bonds.

SEC. 6.9. The authority may insure against loss of revenues from any cause whatsoever and the proceeds of any such insurance shall be used solely for the payment of bonds and the interest thereon.

SEC. 6.10. The authority may insure against public liability or property damage. It may provide in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of any revenue bonds for the carrying of such or any other insurance, or other protection of such character as may be specified, and for the payment of the premiums thereon.

CHAPTER 7. RATES, TOLLS, CHARGES AND FEES

SEC. 7.1. The authority, subject to the approval of the State Park Commission as provided in Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of this act, shall fix the rates of toll and other charges for all transportation facilities furnished and Winter sport and other recreational facilities acquired, constructed or completed under the terms of this act, for the use thereof by any persons utilizing such facilities. Subject to such contractual obligations as may be entered into by the authority and the holders of the revenue bonds issued under this act, the authority, subject to the approval of the State Park Commission, is authorized to change rates of toll, charges and fees from time to time as conditions warrant. All tolls, rates and charges shall be at all times fixed to yield annual revenue equal to annual operating and maintenance expenses, including insurance costs and all redemption payments and interest charges on the revenue bonds at any time issued and outstanding hereunder, as the same become due. The bond redemption and interest payments shall constitute a first, direct and exclusive charge and lien on all such tolls, rates and charges and other revenues and interest thereon, and sinking funds created therefrom, received from the use and operation of the project for the acquisition, construction or completion of which such revenue bonds were issued, and all such tolls, rates, charges and other revenues, together with interest thereon, shall constitute a trust fund for the security and payment of such bonds and shall not be used or pledged for any other purpose so long as such bonds, or any of them, are outstanding and unpaid. Such rates, tolls, charges and fees as minimum rates, tolls, charges and fees subject to increase or decrease only in accordance with the terms of the indenture under which the revenue bonds are issued.

SEC. 7.2. The authority may lease concessions for such period of time, not exceeding twenty five (25) years, as may be agreed upon by the contracting parties, but no such lease of concessions within the territorial limits of Mount San Jacinto State Park shall be entered into without the approval of the State Park Commission.

SEC. 7.3. Every contract entered into by the authority for the use of any project or part thereof acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds of the sale of revenue bonds shall incorporate by reference the provisions of any indenture pursuant to which the bonds have issued. Every such contract or lease shall also refer to the provisions of this act with respect to the obligation of the authority to fix rates, tolls, charges and fees to meet the payments provided for in this act and in the proceedings for the issuance of revenue bonds, and all payments required to be made to the authority under such contract shall be subject to increase if and when the authority is required to increase rates to meet its obligations hereunder and under any indenture providing for the issuance of bonds.

CHAPTER 8. COMPETITIVE PROJECTS

SEC. 8.1. The authority may include, in an indenture for the issuance of revenue bonds, a clause that no competitive projects will be acquired or constructed by the authority in, near or adjacent to Mount San Jacinto State Park so long as any of the bonds of the authority are issued under any such indenture and then outstanding. Such limitation shall be valid and binding upon the authority, the State Park Commission and the State of California.

SEC. 8.2. The authority may also include in the indenture for the issuance of bonds a clause that no project acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds of revenue bonds issued by the authority shall be used without charge therefor or be furnished free of charge to any person, including the State of California or any political subdivision thereof, or any public corporation or individual, other than employees of the authority or of the State of California or other public body actually engaged in rendering service to the authority in connection with the project.

SEC. 8.3. The State of California hereby agrees that, as long as any of the bonds issued hereunder for the acquisition, construction or completion of any tramway, cableway, or other means of transportation up and along the slopes of Mount San Jacinto are outstanding and unpaid, it will not directly or indirectly construct or permit the construction of any tramway, cableway or railroad whatsoever, or any road or highway or other means of transportation to Mount San Jacinto State Park which can reasonably be shown to be in competition with the facilities of the authority. The provisions of this section shall be binding upon the County of Riverside, the State of California Highway Commission, and upon all agencies, departments or instrumentalities of this State, and the prohibition of this section shall restrict and limit the powers of the Legislature of the State of California in respect of the matters herein mentioned as long as any of such bonds are outstanding and unpaid, and shall be deemed to constitute a contract to that effect for the benefit of the holders of all such bonds; provided, however, that nothing contained in this section is in any way limiting the authority of the State of California or any of its agencies, departments, or instrumentalities from constructing necessary fire trails, fire breaks, truck trails and the like, which shall not be open to public travel.

CHAPTER 9. RIGHTS OF BONDHOLDERS

SEC. 9.1. The holder of any bond issued pursuant to this act may by mandamus or other appropriate proceeding require and compel the performance of any of the duties imposed upon the authority or upon any State department, official or employee, or assumed by any thereof, their officers, agents or employees, in connection with the acquisition, construction, operation, maintenance, repair, reconstruction or insurance of any project, or the collection, deposit, investment, application and disbursement of tolls, rates, charges, fees and all other revenues derived from the operation and use of any project, or in connection with the deposit, investment and disbursement of the proceeds received from the sale of bonds under this act. The enumeration of such rights and remedies does not, however, exclude the exercise or prosecution of any other rights or remedies available to the holders of bonds issued pursuant to this act.

SEC. 9.2. While any revenue bonds issued by the authority remain outstanding, the powers, duties and existence of the authority, of the Department of Natural Resources, and of any other agency or official of the State having powers or duties under this act shall not be diminished or impaired in any manner that will adversely affect the interests and rights of the holders of the bonds.

CHAPTER 10. CONTRIBUTIONS AND COOPERATION

SEC. 10.1. The authority may accept contributions or appropriations from the United States of America, the State of California, or any department or agency of either thereof, or from any county, city and county, city, political subdivision, agency, district or other public corporation of this State.

SEC. 10.2. The authority may enter into any contract, arrangement or agreement with any other public agency and may cooperate with any other public agency for the development of the recreational facilities of Mount San Jacinto State Park.

SEC. 10.3. Any public corporation of this State may cooperate and enter into contracts with the authority for the acquisition, construction, completion, maintenance, operation, repair, joint or otherwise, and in whole or in part, of any project for the improvement of the Winter recreational facilities of Mount San Jacinto State Park. In connection with any such cooperation or contract, any such public corporation may make public contributions to the authority as in the judgment of the governing board of the public corporation, or necessary or proper for its undertaking, and the authority may reimburse such public corporation for any such advance or contribution from the proceeds of the sale of revenue bonds or any other funds available to the authority. Any agreement made by the authority for such reimbursement of advances or contributions made by it shall be valid and enforceable against the authority. Any such public corporation shall also authorize, aid and assist the authority to carry out any activity which such public corporation is by law authorized to perform and carry out on its own behalf, in respect to the recreational facilities afforded to its own inhabitants by the action of the authority.

CHAPTER 11. FINES.

SEC. 11.1. The proceeds from the sale of all bonds authorized under the provisions of this act may be paid upon the demand of the authority either to the Treasurer of the State of California to the credit of the construction fund or a special trust fund for the account of the authority, or may be paid over to the bank or trust company designated as the fiscal agent and depository of the authority, as in this act provided.

SEC. 11.2. There is hereby created in the State Treasury a fund to be known as the "Palm Springs Winter Park Authority Construction Fund," in the event the proceeds of the sale of bonds authorized under this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of the State of California. Such construction fund shall at all times be kept separate and apart from all other funds and shall be held by the State Treasurer as a special fund for the account of the authority. The moneys in the construction fund are hereby made available and appropriated for, and shall be paid out and disbursed solely for the construction of projects pursuant to the provisions of this act, including surveys, preparation of plans and specifications, and for the payment of all other costs and expenses, prior to and during construction, including the acquisition of necessary rights of way, easements, lands and other property of every kind and description and appurtenances thereto, and the payment of all expenses, engineering, legal and administrative costs as provided by the authority in the proceedings for the issuance of such bonds. The Controller of the State of California is hereby authorized and directed to draw warrants upon the moneys in the construction fund upon the demand of the authority, and such demand shall be conclusive upon the Controller and shall not require further audit, nor shall the Controller be liable for drawing any warrant upon the construction fund upon the demand of the authority.

SEC. 11.3. In the event the proceeds of the sale of bonds are deposited in a special construction fund in the State Treasury, such moneys may be deposited as demand deposits in such depository or depositories as may be authorized by law to receive deposits of State funds.

SEC. 11.4. If any surplus shall exist in the construction fund after the payment in full of all costs of acquisition, construction and completion of the project for which the revenue bonds were issued, the same shall, upon the demand of the authority, be paid to or for the account of the authority subject to any agreement which may be made by the authority in any indenture for the issuance of the revenue bonds with respect to the application of such surplus.

SEC. 11.5. In lieu of depositing the proceeds of sale of said bonds with the State Treasurer, the authority may, in any indenture or proceedings for the issuance of bonds, designate a trustee or fiscal agent, which shall be a bank or trust company, or banks or trust companies, duly qualified to do business in this State, to receive the proceeds of such revenue bonds and to hold the same to the credit of a fund to be designated as the "Palm Springs Winter Park Authority Construction Fund," which fund shall be kept segregated and set apart from all other funds and shall be paid out and disbursed solely upon the application and demand of the authority.

SEC. 11.6. The authority may provide for the payment of interest becoming due and payable on the revenue bonds prior to and during the period of actual construction of the project for which the bonds are issued, and for the period specified in the indenture for the issuance of the bonds, which period shall not exceed two (2) years after the completion of the construction, and for the payment of all costs and expenses of administration during a period of one year after the completion of construction of the project shall be made out of the construction fund as the need therefor shall arise, and any moneys in the construction fund are hereby made available for such purposes.

SEC. 11.7. Moneys in the construction fund, whether held in the State Treasury or in any fiscal agency or depository of the authority, not required to meet acquisition or construction costs or expenses payable from the construction fund, or interest on the bonds, may be invested in bonds and other obligations eligible for investment of surplus State moneys; subject to such limitations as may be provided in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of the bonds. Any income or interest thereon shall be added to and become a part of the construction fund for the benefit of the authority.

SEC. 11.8. All revenues received from the operation of the project acquired or constructed or completed by the authority may be paid over by the authority either to the State Treasurer or to any fiscal agent or depository appointed by the authority.

SEC. 11.9. If the revenues are paid over by the authority to the State Treasurer, the same shall be held by the State Treasurer in a special fund and applied exclusively for the account of the authority. Said special fund is hereby designated "Palm Springs Winter Park Authority Revenue Fund." The moneys in the revenue fund shall be deposited by the State Treasurer in time or demand deposits in such depository or depositories as may be authorized by law to receive deposit of State funds, to the credit of the revenue fund, or may be invested in such bonds or obligations as are by law legal investments for State moneys, subject to such limitations and restrictions as may be provided in the indenture under which bonds of the authority are issued and outstanding. Any income or interest received upon such deposits or investments shall be added to the revenue fund and accrue to the benefit of the authority. The moneys in the revenue fund held by the State Treasurer are hereby appropriated and made available for the payment of the principal of and interest on all bonds issued by the authority under the provisions of this act, as and when such principal and interest shall become due, and for the creation of any reserve fund or other special fund provided by the authority in the proceedings for the issuance of said bonds, and also for the payment of all costs and expenses for the maintenance and operation of the project, engineering, legal and administrative costs and for all repairs and replacements and other costs and expenses of the authority. Moneys in the revenue fund held by the State Treasurer shall be withdrawn upon demand of the authority and the Controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw warrants against such revenue bonds upon the demand of the authority. The Controller shall not be liable for the auditing of such warrants or the withdrawal of any moneys from the revenue fund on the demand of the authority.

SEC. 11.10. In lieu of deposit of the revenues received from the project with the State Treasurer, the authority may deposit all such revenues at any bank or trust company appointed depository or fiscal agent of the authority in the proceedings for the issuance of the bonds, and if such fiscal agent or depository is so appointed the authority shall provide for the collection of all revenues and for the receipt and disbursement thereof by the fiscal agent. The authority may, in its absolute discretion, fix the terms and conditions upon which the trustee or trustees or fiscal agent or depository shall receive, hold and disburse such revenues, and may prescribe the duties and powers of such fiscal agent, trustee or trustees or depository in the indenture or other proceedings for the issuance of the bonds.

SEC. 11.11. In the event the proceeds of the sale of the bonds or any revenues of the authority are deposited with the State Treasurer, such funds shall be kept separate and distinct from all other funds in the State Treasury and no moneys in the construction fund or the revenue fund may be loaned or in any way used other than pursuant to the provisions of this act.

SEC. 11.12. Any expenses incurred by the Department of Public Works in the making of surveys or the construction of projects pursuant to the provisions of this act at the instructions of the authority may be paid out of the construction fund and there is hereby made available for the payment of such expenses and appropriated out of the construction fund all amounts necessary to meet such expenses.

SEC. 11.13. All expenses incurred by the State Park Commission in the operation and maintenance of projects under the supervision of the authority pursuant to any agreement between the authority and the State Park Commission shall be payable out of the revenue fund and there is hereby made available and appropriated out of the revenue fund such amount as may be necessary to pay such expenses incurred pursuant to such agreement by the State Park Commission.

CHAPTER 12. GENERAL AUTHORITY

SEC. 12.1. The authority, and its officers and agents, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Public Works, the State Park Commission, the State Board of Forestry, and all other State officials and departments, may perform such acts and enter into such agreements with the authority, not inconsistent with law, as may be necessary or desirable in connection with the duties and powers conferred upon the authority by this act, in the matter of acquiring, constructing, completing, maintaining, operating, repairing or insuring or replacing any project acquired, constructed or completed under this act, for the safeguarding of funds and revenues required for the purposes of this act, and for the payment of the revenue bonds issued pursuant to this act.

CHAPTER 13. CONSTRUCTION AND INTERPRETATION

SEC. 13.1. This act shall be liberally construed to carry out the objects and purposes and the declared policy of the State of California as in this act set forth.

SEC. 13.2. The Legislature hereby declares that the acquisition, construction and completion of Winter and other recreational facilities in Mount San Jacinto State Park are essential due to the special and peculiar conditions relating to that park which are not common to any other State park in the State of California. No general law can be made applicable to the carrying out of the objects and purposes of this act, and the facts and circumstances relative to the improvement of the Mount San Jacinto State Park require the adoption of a special act and the creation of a special authority, and that act is intended to accomplish that purpose.

SEC. 13.3. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or invalid or unenforceable, such decision shall not affect the validity or enforceability of the remaining portions of the act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase hereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses and phrases may be declared unconstitutional, invalid or unenforceable.

SEC. 13.4. This act shall not operate to rescind or repeal any other act of the State of California providing for the issuance of revenue bonds or the creation of any other authority for any other purpose.

ARTHUR A. OHNIMUS, Chief Clerk of the Assembly

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, June 5, 1941

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Assembly on this day refused to sustain the Governor's veto to

Assembly Bill No. 2633

Copy of Governor's objections attached hereto

ARTHUR A. O'HINIMUS, Cl. of Clerk of the Assembly
By ROBERT J. FINNIE, Assistant Clerk

CONSIDERATION OF GOVERNOR'S VETO

Assembly Bill No. 2633—An act making an appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Assembly and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately.

Governor's Message Stating His Objections

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 2, 1941

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

GRIETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Assembly Bill No. 2633, entitled: "An act making an appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Assembly and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

"This bill appropriates $60,000 for contingent expenses of the Assembly to be expended for such purposes and in such manner as the Assembly shall by resolution direct, including expenses of committees, whether to meet and act during the session or after final adjournment."

There has already been appropriated for Assembly contingent expenses for this session of the Legislature the sum of $70,000, of which there is unexpended the sum of $37,001.73, as of May 29th, according to the records of the State Controller. The $60,000 appropriated by this bill, together with the amounts already appropriated, would total $130,000, which far exceeds any amounts ever appropriated at previous sessions of the Legislature for similar purposes.

The appropriations for the last regular session totaled $40,000, and the appropriations made for the expenses of the five special sessions of the Legislature, covering unprecedented amounts for numerous special investigating committees, totaled $64,618.80.

In my message regarding Assembly Bill No. 638 I stated:

"This additional amount of $25,000 which I have approved together with the amount remaining from previous appropriations, I know is ample to cover all necessary expenditures from the Assembly Contingent Fund. It is inconceivable that the normal contingent expenses that could be incurred by the Assembly during the remainder of this regular session could possibly exceed the sum of $25,000 more than the amount now in the fund, even though the session were to last another 60 days. If at a later date a still further appropriation to this fund should become necessary, I will willingly approve the same."

The thirty seven odd thousand dollars still remaining for Assembly contingent expenses is ample to cover any expenditures that should be made by this Legislature for such purposes.

Respectfully submitted,

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

The question being: Shall Assembly Bill No. 2633 become a law notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

The roll was called.

Any telegraph company which accepts a message in the name of any person, officer or corporation for true reason, to a public official to influence his vote or official action on any matter without specific authorization from the sender to use his or its name, is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars ($500). For any injury resulting from the transmission of such a message the telegraph company shall be liable to the person, firm or corporation injured for threefold the damage sustained, plus costs of suit and a reasonable sum for attorney's fees. Such suit may be brought in the county in which the plaintiff resides or in which the message was delivered."

REPORT

The following report was ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Committee Appointed Under Provisions of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 16

To the Senate and Assembly of the State of California

Your committee, with Colonel Archibald Young, Chairman of the Social Welfare Board of California, appointed under the provisions of the above numbered resolution, traveled to Washington, D. C., and in that city on June 2d and 3d conferred with the members of the California Congressional Delegation, Senator Hiram Johnson, and members and staff officials of the Federal Social Security Board concerning the controversy now existing concerning alleged nonconformity of California law and practices with the Federal Social Security Act as amended in 1939.

As a result of these conferences it is the conclusion and the finding of your committee:

First: That unless certain concessions hereinafter to be discussed are made by the State of California the present aged aid subvention to the State of California amounting to approximately $38,000,000 per annum will be discontinued by the Federal Social Security Board on July 1, 1941. In addition to this the Federal subvention for aid to the blind amounting to approximately $2,000,000 annually will also be discontinued on said date.

Second: That there are now pending in Congress certain bills, H. R. 3021, H. R. 4041, H. R. 4042, introduced by Congressman Jerry Voorhis of California, the effect of which, if enacted, would be to cause the Federal Social Security Board to recede from its present position, but there is no chance for passage of these bills prior to July 1, 1941, or any immediate date following.

Third: That a test case in the Federal courts on the interpretation of the Social Security Act by the Federal Social Security Board could not be brought to a successful conclusion in time to prevent the loss of these subventions to the State of California.

Fourth: That the minimum concessions by the State of California which will satisfy the Federal Social Security Board and prevent the loss of the Federal subventions are as follows:

(a) Income and Resources

Adoption of language similar to that contained in Assembly Bill No. 2630, Section 1, amended however from $45 to $40 per month. The principle herein involved would leave the maximum payment at the present rate of $40, and if greater need than $40 is shown in any individual case the income and resources allowed under the present law would not be deducted from the $40.

(b) Confidential Nature of Records

That the language contained in Section 4 of Assembly Bill No. 2630 would meet the Federal requirements found in Subsection 8 of Section 2 of the Social Security Act making such records available only for the purposes of administration of the act.

(c) Personnel Standards

That no legislation on this subject is necessary at this time, the Federal Social Security Board being satisfied with the present California law as interpreted by opinions of the Attorney General of California.

(d) Single State Agency

The language contained in the second paragraph of Section 6 of Assembly Bill No. 2630 is necessary to satisfy the requirements of the Social Security Board.

(e) Blind Aid

That similar amendments to the laws pertaining to blind aid must be made to Sections 3076 and 3884 of the Welfare and Institutions Code in order to preserve the present subvention.

In conclusion the committee desires to express its gratitude to Honorable Clarence F. Lea, the Chairman of the California Delegation, and all the members thereof, for the many courtesies extended to it.

FEDERAL SECURITY AGENCY, SOCIAL SECURITY BOARD

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3, 1941

Mr. Robert W. Keene, Chairman, Special Legislative Committee,
State Senate, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. KEENE: Pursuant to your request, as Chairman of the California Legislative Delegation, to a summary statement of the action discussed at the meeting of your delegation and the Social Security Board in Washington on June 2d, I am enclosing for your consideration the position of the Social Security Board as expressed at that meeting.

As you know, the Old Age Assistance Act for the Blind and Aid to Dependent Children, Title of the Social Security Act, was amended by the Congress in 1939 to provide that effective July 1, 1941, the State agency shall, in determining need, take into consideration any other income and resources of an individual claiming assistance.

Sections 2020 and 3084 of the California Welfare and Institutions Code, relating to old age assistance and aid to needy blind persons, respectively, except from consideration in determining need and income and resources to be granted, income from certain specified sources. It is estimated that something $15 per month for old age assistance and $200 per year for aid to needy blind.

It was indicated at the time of my attendance that these two sections of the Welfare and Institutions Code can be harmonized by adding in accord with the above cited amendments to the Social Security Act, and income was had as to possible sections of the California Welfare and Institutions Code in line for the development of Old Age Assistance and Aid to Needy Blind Program which will meet the requirements of the Federal Act under July 1, 1941. The alternatives which were discussed are as follows in the official copy of my letter of March 25, 1941, addressed to Hon. James A. McHugh, Chairman, that Committee.

As was pointed out during my attendance at the meeting, the alternative mentioned in that letter requires the meeting at the end of individuals having other income or resources it results in a certain amount of inequality of treatment of individuals in that it tends to provide a greater amount of the relief funds of individuals in excess of $400 in income above the minimum as that in possession of other income in possession.

It was also pointed out that Titles 1, 4 and 10 of the Social Security Act require that State public assistance plans must comply with the requirements or designation of a single State agency to administer the plan; "• • • or to supervise the administration of the plan; "• • •". As you know, the California plans provide for the supervision of that administrative staff for the State Department of Social Welfare.

The reports of the Committee of Congress which considered this legislation make it clear that a single State agency plan to effect in all public assistance of the State administered is supervised by a single State agency which is system with final administrative responsibility and uniformity in the uniform application of the plan throughout the State is required for Federal participation in such a plan.

Our discussion revealed that since the beginning of the State Federal Public Assistance Programs in California, the authority of the State Department of Social Welfare effectively to supervise the administration of the California public assistance plans has been in question and amount has varied to question whether the State agency possesses this authority or not in fact. In view of the evidence of past experience it is advisable that appropriate legislation be enacted affirmatively establishing this authority and providing adequate remedies essential to achieving compliance with standards established by the single State agency. Any failure to effectuate adequate compliance whether due to lack of authority or to other causes would make it necessary for this board to question the conformity of such administration with the requirements of the Federal act.

The Social Security Act was further amended in 1939 to provide that effective July 1, 1941, the State plan must provide safeguards which restrict the use or disclosure of information concerning applicants and recipients to purposes directly connected with the administration of the public assistance programs. Since the current statutory authority governing this aspect of the California program is inadequate it will be necessary, as was indicated in our discussion, that legislation be enacted to provide safeguards consistent with the above mentioned amendment to the Social Security Act.

In addition, the Social Security Act requires that effective January 1, 1940, the State shall establish and maintain personnel standards on a merit basis to govern the employment of all personnel engaged in the administration of the public assistance programs. Pursuant to this amendment the Social Security Board adopted standards providing, as a requisite to a merit system, adequate rules and regulations and the establishment and maintenance of classification and compensation plans for all positions included in the administration of the public assistance programs.

As the experience of the State has indicated during the past year, the authority of the State agency to establish and maintain a merit system to govern personnel engaged in the administration of the public assistance programs has on several occasions been questioned. As you will appreciate, the Social Security Board can not accept any plea on the part of the State of lack of authority and the State agency must possess the statutory powers essential for the effectuation of this phase of the State's program.

You will note from the attached copy of the board's standards that while certain exemptions are permitted it is intended that the personnel standards established by the State agency will be applicable to all State and county personnel engaged in the administration of the public assistance programs. Local civil service systems governing personnel in all agencies of the local government, and maintaining standards comparable to those established by the State agency and the board, have been found by the Social Security Board to be in keeping with the above mentioned amendment. However, it has been determined by the board, and the State of California has been so advised, that any local civil service system limited to the selection of personnel engaged only in the administration of the public assistance programs could not be found by the board to meet the requirements of the Social Security Act.

In summary, the provision of the Federal act pertaining to the administration or supervision of public assistance plans by a single State agency; amendments to the act pertaining to the consideration of income and resources in determining need, and to the protection of the confidential nature of public assistance information, and to the establishment and maintenance of personnel standards on a merit system basis, set up requirements for State plans by which the Social Security Board is governed in approving such plans. The authority of this board is derived from the Social Security Act, as amended, and is limited by the terms of the act. Adequate State legislation authorizing inclusion of these required provisions in the State plan is necessary and is prerequisite to the action of this board in approving State plans and in certifying grants in aid to the State.

Sincerely,

OSCAR M. POWELL, Executive Director

March 25, 1941

Hon. Jerry Voorhis, House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

DEAR MR. VOORHIS: Pursuant to our conversation of March 20th, we are submitting alternative possibilities, as we see them, for revision of Sections 2020 and 3084 of the California Welfare and Institutions Code relating respectively to old age assistance and aid to the blind, in order to bring those laws into conformity with the amendments to Titles I and II of the Social Security Act providing for the consideration of "any other income and resources."

For your convenience, we are quoting below Sections 2020 and 3084 of the Welfare and Institutions Code:

"2020. The amount of aid to which any applicant shall be entitled shall be, when added to the income of the applicant from all other sources, $35 per month.

"The value of the use and occupancy of premises owned and occupied by applicants shall not be deemed income. Net income from any of the following sources of a combined total value not exceeding $15 per month shall not be considered for any purpose:

"(a) Income from the applicant's labor or service; or rent from the premises owned by applicants;

"(b) The value of foodstuffs or other merchantable products produced by the applicant;

"(c) The value of firewood or water produced on the premises of the applicant or given to him by another;

"(d) The value of gifts or money, other than contributions by relatives legally responsible by law."

"3084. If the county board of supervisors is satisfied that the applicant is entitled to aid under the provisions of this chapter, it shall, without delay, issue an order therefor. The amount of aid to which any applicant shall be entitled shall be, when added to the income of the applicant from all other sources, $50 per month. Income from any of the following sources of a combined total value not exceeding $100 per annum shall not be considered for any purpose;

"(a) Income from applicant's labor or services;

"(b) The value of foodstuffs produced by the applicant or his family for his use or that of his family;

"(c) The value of firewood and or water produced on the premises of the applicant or given to him by another for the applicant's use.

"(d) The value of gifts other than regular contributions by relatives legally responsible under this act;

"(e) The value of the use and occupancy of premises owned and occupied by the applicant;

"(f) The net income from real and personal property owned by the applicant."

The provision of Section 2020 concerning being considered the value of the home and net income from certain sources of a value not exceeding $15 will, after July 1, 1941, be out of conformity with Federal requirements. Similarly, the provisions of Section 2084 exempting from institutional income from certain sources not exceeding $400 per year will be out of conformity. All the above, under Sections 2020 (7) and 2014 (18) of the Social Security Act, the State agency will not be precluded from taking into consideration all income and resources in determining individual need. The administrative provisions of Sections 2020 and 2084 would comply the State agency with no change.

We believe that Sections 2020 and 2084 can be amended to bring the statutes into conformity with Federal requirements without further Federal consideration of assistance. We should like to suggest the following first alternative:

1. Sections 2020 and 2084 would be amended to read somewhat as follows:

The amount of aid to which any applicant shall be entitled shall be determined in conformity with the rules and regulations of the State department giving due regard to his requirements and the conditions existing in his own and in the home and resources available to him from all other sources and shall be sufficient when added to the income and resources available to be available to him, to provide that he is a reasonably self-sufficient member of the family and well being."

Under such a provision, awards would be determined on a temporary basis which is considered by the Board to be the more satisfactory basis, and the method of determining need used by State Boards, including the budget test. The growth, consideration of the requirements of the individual applicant as well as of the income and resources, and provision for the granting of assistance in accordance with the individual need.

You will note that under this proposal an annual provision is made with respect to home ownership. This does not mean that a family could in this regard could be formulated. As a matter of fact, one State month and month, giving a person who is such a provision a temporary provision would be given as the cost of maintaining the home, which cost would be included in the grant of assistance.

2. The following language would be used in the State statute to continue the provision for a fixed allowance of $400 State assistance 2020: "The income and resources." This would also make it possible in those cases where the individual requirements are determined to be in excess of the fixed maximum, for the award to be made in an amount not to exceed $400, which when added to the applicant's income and resources would not exceed the individual's actual requirements.

The amount of aid to which any applicant shall be entitled shall be, when added to the income (including the value of currently used resources) of the applicant from all other sources, $400 per month; provided, however, that if in any case it is found the normal need of an applicant exceeds $400 per month, such applicant shall be entitled to receive, in no case, not to exceed $400 per month, which when added to the income (including the value of currently used resources) from all other sources, shall equal his "total need."

It should be clear that the Social Security Board has not recommended the placing of a monetary limitation on the amount of assistance. It should be noted, however, that under this proposal if the needs of an individual were determined to be $90 and if that individual had income and resources of a value of $35, he could receive a grant of assistance of $25, provided that the maximum needs of $400 per month were applied alike to a person having any income or resources. This is, therefore, not so restrictive as a rigid monetary limitation on the award together with income and resources.

3. The deletion of all but the first paragraph of Section 2020 and the first two sentences of Section 2084 would bring these sections into conformity with Federal requirements. This would provide for less liberal treatment than is now provided.

4. The deletion of all but the first paragraph of Section 2020 and all but the first two sentences of Section 2084, and the substitution of these sections of the sums of $55 and $83.33, respectively, for the amounts now specified would bring the sections into compliance. You are aware of course, that under such a substitution, all aged persons having income and resources of less than $25 per month and all blind persons having income and resources of less than $83.33 per month would be eligible for assistance. This would, no doubt, increase the cost of the programs.

If you have any questions on any of these alternatives, we shall be glad to discuss them with you further.

Sincerely,

OSCAR M. POWELL, Executive Director

Standards for a Merit System of Personnel Administration in State Employment Security and State Public Assistance Agencies

As part of its responsibility for the development of proper and efficient administration in State social security programs, the Social Security Board has from time to time formulated standards for the guidance of State agencies, indicating objective criteria of such administration. Proper and efficient administration requires clear definition of functions and assignment of responsibilities, the employment of the most competent available personnel, and the development of staff morale and individual efficiency.

Under the Social Security Act as amended, the Social Security Board has the responsibility of finding that State public assistance plans and Unemployment Compensation Laws approved by it provide after January 1, 1940, for necessary methods of administration, including methods relating to the establishment and maintenance of personnel standards on a merit basis. The board is interested in the development of effective merit systems and exercises no authority over the selection, tenure of office, or compensation of any individual employed in conformity with the provisions of such systems.

These standards have been formulated in the light of the experience of State agencies already operating under merit systems. They incorporate and when in operation will supersede personnel standards previously adopted by the Social Security Board and the United States Employment Service.¹ The board believes that continuing application of these standards will give reasonable assurance of a proper basis for personnel administration, will promote a career service, and will result in increased operating efficiency in the State agencies. In order to assist States in establishing and maintaining their merit systems under these standards, the board will make available technical consultative service.

Rules and regulations to effectuate a merit system in accordance with these minimum standards shall be adopted by the State agencies and submitted as a part of the public assistance plan, of the State Unemployment Compensation Law, and of the plan for the operation of State public employment offices, to be reviewed by the board under the Social Security Act or the Wagner Peyser Act. Any amendments to the rules and regulations shall be submitted in the same manner.

Jurisdiction

These standards are applicable to all personnel, both State and local, engaged in the administration of programs under Titles 1, 3, 4, and 10 of the Social Security Act or under the Wagner Peyser Act, except those hereinafter exempted. The agencies administering these programs are referred to as State agencies.

At the option of the State agency the following positions may be exempted from application of these standards: Members of the unemployment compensation and employment service advisory councils; members of unemployment compensation appeals tribunals and boards of review representing employer and employee interests; members of the State board, and the executive head of the single State agency administering public assistance; members of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission, and the executive head of the State department responsible for the administration of unemployment compensation and employment service functions; a confidential secretary to any of the foregoing exempted officials; attorneys serving as legal counsel; members of local representative public assistance boards paid only for attendance at meetings; State and local officials serving ex officio and performing incidental administrative duties in a social security program.

Merit-System Organization

If a State has a State-wide civil service system operating under standards substantially equivalent to those herein provided, such State civil service system should be applicable to the State social security agencies as defined above.

In the absence of a State civil service system with substantially equivalent standards, there will be established a merit system administered by an impartial body herein referred to as the Merit System Council, the members of which are appointed by the administrative agencies or by the Governor on recommendation of the administrative agencies, for stated overlapping terms, and no member of which is otherwise employed as an official or employee of any of the State agencies affected.

In the interests of economy and of efficient administration a joint merit system should serve all the State social security agencies as defined above unless, because of special circumstances, it is not feasible to establish such a joint system.

Prohibition of Discrimination

Disqualification of any person from taking an examination, from appointment to a position, from promotion, or from holding a position because of political or religious opinions or affiliations will be prohibited.

Limitation of Political Activity

Participation of any employee of the State agencies, except those hereinbefore exempted, in political activity will be prohibited except that an employee should have the right freely to express his views as a citizen and to cast his vote. Such prohibited political activity, and include in addition the restrictions prohibited in the rules of the United States Civil Service Commission.

Classification Plan

A classification plan for all positions in the agency, based upon investigation and analysis of the duties and responsibilities of each position, shall be established and maintained. The classification plan shall include an Appropriation title for each class of position, a description of the duties and responsibilities of positions in the class, and requirements of education, training, experience, and other qualifications suitable for the performance of the duties of the position.

Compensation Plan

A plan of compensation for all classes of positions in the agency will be established and maintained. Such plan will include salary schedules for all classes of positions in which the salary of a position is subject to the compensation and benefits of the work. The salary range for each class will include minimum, intermediate, and maximum rates of pay to provide for salary advancement within the class. In setting of such salary schedule, consideration will be given to the prevailing rates for comparable positions in other departments of the State and in other government agencies. The State administrative salaries shall follow plans for salary increases based upon quality and length of service. Salary lists and rules and regulations uniformly applicable to all positions of the State Government will be given consideration in the formulation of the compensation plan.

Recruitment and Appointment of Personnel

All positions in the State government except those heretofore exempted, will be filled by personnel selected on the basis of merit, and in accordance with standards and procedures set forth in rules and regulations for the merit system adopted by the State agency or the State civil service commission.

Regulations governing the administration of examinations will include the following provisions:

Examinations will be administered by a Merit System Supervisor, appointed upon the recommendation of the State Service Council. Appointing the supervisor will insure impartial and equitable selection of candidates to meet government needs, and insure compliance with the principles of the merit system.

Applicants admitted to examinations will meet the minimum requirements for the positions for which they apply, as set forth in the specifications for the positions.

Examinations for entrance to the service will be conducted on an open competitive basis, with adequate publicity and with a reasonable period for filing applications.

Examinations will be designed to determine the capacity of the applicant for the position for which he is competing and his general background and related knowledge, and will be based on merit. A practical written test will be included, except that where exceptional qualifications of a scientific or professional character are required and recognized, a written examination is impracticable, an unassisted examination may be used.

Examinations will also include a review of training and experience for the more responsible positions; an oral examination for positions requiring frequent contact with the public or which involve supervisory or administrative duties; and a performance test for positions involving the operation of office machines.

The Merit System Supervisor will prepare and maintain registers of eligibles in the order of their final scores and will maintain the registers, make certification of eligibility, and keep all examination records.

All positions, not specifically exempted herein, are to be filled from registers of eligibles, except for emergency and temporary appointments for limited periods. Appointments will be made by selection from a listed number at the highest available eligibles on the appropriate register.

In the absence of an appropriate register, provisional appointments may be made pending competitive examination process; such provisional appointee is certified by the Merit System Supervisor as meeting at least the minimum qualifications established for the class of position; and further provided, that no individual may receive successive provisional or emergency appointments.

Personnel selected from registers to fill permanent positions will serve a fixed probationary period. Personnel appointed will be based upon an evaluation in writing of the performance of the candidate during the probationary period.

An employee of an agency who is reemployed or appointed under a merit system with standards substantially comparable to those will not be required to take a new examination for the position to which he was appointed.

An employee of an agency in which an established merit system has been in operation may obtain status in his present position either through open competitive or qualifying examination as specified in the merit system rules and regulations. Such rules and regulations may permit an employee in the service of the agency on the date of the issuance of these standards to be automatically admitted to the examination covering the position he held on such date, and may permit him to be retained at the discretion of the State agency, providing he attains a passing grade in such examination.

Promotions

Whenever practicable a vacancy will be filled by promotion of a qualified permanent employee of the agency upon the basis of capacity, and quality and length of service.

Eligibility of an employee for promotion will be determined on recommendation of the agency and certification by the Merit System Supervisor that the employee meets the minimum requirements and is qualified for promotion to the class of position in question.

Furloughs and Separations

Regulations will be established by the agencies governing furloughs, suspensions, and separations, and governing leaves and the conditions for payment of salary at termination of services.

Employees who have completed the required probationary period of appointment and acquire permanent status will not be subject to removal except for cause, unless separated for reasons of curtailment of work or lack of funds. In the event of removal, permanent employees will have the right of appeal to an impartial body through an established procedure provided for in the merit system rules.

Service Ratings

A system of periodic service ratings for the evaluation of performance will be maintained. The manner in which such ratings are to be used in promotions, salary increases, and separations will be provided for by agency regulation.

Personnel Records and Reports

Such personnel records as are necessary for the proper maintenance of a merit system and effective personnel administration will be maintained by the State administrative agency. Periodic reports will be published by the Merit System Council.

Federal Security Agency, Social Security Board.

PROCEEDINGS UNDER CALL OF THE SENATE
COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Fletcher, ordered printed in the Journal:

In an address before the Young Men's Lyceum, Springfield, Ill., January 27, 1837, Abraham Lincoln said:

"We find ourselves in the peaceful possession of the fairest portion of the earth as regards extent of territory, fertility of soil, and salubrity of climate. We find ourselves under the government of a system of political institutions conducting more essentially to the ends of civil and religious liberty than any of which the history of former times tells us. We, when meeting the stage of existence, found ourselves the legal inheritance of these fundamental blessings. We toiled not in the acquirement or establishment of them; they are the legacy bequeathed us by a once hardy, brave and patriotic, but now lamented and departed, race of ancestors. Theirs was the task (and nobly they performed it) to possess themselves, and through themselves us, of this goodly land, and to uprear upon its hills and its valleys a political edifice of liberty and equal rights. 'Tis theirs only to transmit these—the former unprofaned by the foot of an invader, the latter undecayed by the lapse of time and untorn by usurpation—to the latest generation that fate shall permit the world to know. This task, gratitude to our fathers, justice to ourselves, duty to posterity, and love for our species in general, all imperatively require us faithfully to perform.

"How then shall we perform it? At what point shall we expect the approach of danger? By what means shall we fortify against it? Shall we expect some transatlantic military giant to step the ocean and crush us at a blow? Never! All the armies of Europe, Asia and Africa combined with all the treasure of the earth (our own excepted) in their military list, with a Bonaparte for a commander, could not by force take a drink from the Ohio or make a track on the Blue Ridge in a trial of a thousand years.

"At what point then is the approach of danger to be expected? I answer, if it ever reach us it must spring up amongst us; it cannot come from abroad. If destruction be our lot we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of freemen we must live through all time, or die by suicide."

APPOINTMENT OF MEMBERS OF THE CALIFORNIA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

June 10, 1941

MR. PRESIDENT—Senate Bill No. 227 provides that the President pro tempore of the Senate shall appoint two Members of the Senate as members of the California State Council of Defense.

I am informed that the act creating the Council of Defense will not become effective until 90 days after the final adjournment of the Legislature. However, the Governor has made his appointments under the act and, on June 6, 1941, he addressed a letter to me, stating that the council would commence functioning at once informally and that there would be an organization meeting on June 13, 1941, and that he would like to have me name two Members of the Senate who would become members of that body.

Acting upon his suggestion, I am appointing as members of that body Senator Irwin T. Quinn and Senator Ralph E. Swing. I know both of these gentlemen to be currently qualified for the position as Senator QUINN is a veteran of the last World War and Senator SWING was a lieutenant in a cavalry cavalry company in the Spanish-American War of 1898.

I don't suppose it is possible for me to give these appointees a military title but if it is possible, I would like to designate the Senator first named as Captain Quinn and the second as Colonel Swing.

Respectfully submitted.

W. P. RICH, President Pro Tempore
California State Senate

118. All applications and records concerning any individual made or kept by any public officer or agency under any provision of this code, including Chapter 1 of Part 2 of Division 2, and Chapter 1 of Division 3 in which relates to the Department of Social Welfare, or which gives it any authority, shall be confidential, and shall not be open to examination by anyone not in the employ of the office or agency or of the department except upon an order of a court of competent jurisdiction and except that they may be examined by a peace officer or other public officer or employee, or by the representative of a private agency devoted to social welfare activities, if it is shown that information is desired for a proper public purpose for any purpose not directly connected with the administration of such provision of this code.

Except for purposes directly connected with the administration of old-age assistance and aid to dependent children, no person shall publish, disclose, or use or permit or cause to be published, disclosed, or used any confidential information pertaining to an applicant or recipient. Nothing in this section shall prevent any county from establishing its own merit system and determining thereunder the personnel standards to be applicable to its employees, but as to those employees engaged in the administration of State and Federal funds granted to a county as agent of the State for the cited portions of this code, the State Department of Social Welfare shall have a supervisory power to insure compliance with the personnel standards it establishes to the end that this State shall at all times conform to the requirements of Federal law for the continued receipt of Federal grants-in-aid.

If, however, in any case it is found the actual need of an applicant exceeds forty dollars ($40) per month, such applicant shall be entitled to receive aid in an amount, not to exceed forty dollars ($40) per month, which when added to his income (including the value of currently used resources, but excepting casual income and inconsequential resources) from all other sources, shall equal his actual need.

SEC. 5. Section 2021 of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

2021. There is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated to every county within this State for maintaining or supporting aged persons who come within the provisions of this chapter aid not in excess of two hundred [ten dollars ($210)] forty dollars ($240) per annum for each such aged person maintained or supported by such county.

There is hereby further appropriated to every county within this State for the purpose of maintaining or supporting aged persons who come within the provisions of this chapter and who have no county residence as provided in this chapter, aid not in excess of four hundred [twenty] eighty dollars ($480) per annum for each such aged person.

Payments of aid shall be made in the manner provided in Sections 2187 to 2189, inclusive, of this code.

SEC. 6. Section 2025 of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 7. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety and shall, therefore, under the provision of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution take effect immediately and become operative July 1, 1941.

The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

In order to conform to the requirements of the Federal Social Security Act, Chapter 1 of Part 2 of Division 2 and Chapter 1 of Division 3 of the Welfare and Institutions Code of this State must provide (a) methods relating to the establishment and maintenance of personnel standards on a merit basis, (b) a designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the law and, (c) after July 1, 1941, (i) that, in determining need, the income and resources of the individual shall be considered and (c) that information concerning the persons arrested shall be used only for purposes of the laws and regulations. If these be not done, Chapter I of Part 1 of Division 1 and Chapter 1 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code of this State will not be supported by the Federal Social Security Board and the State will not be eligible for Federal financial assistance. This act makes the amount necessary to pay such fines. Unless this act takes effect immediately and provides the necessary means, Federal financial assistance will be refused the State. The effect would be the payment of one State and another incurring the complete cost of that program of public assistance. If Federal financial aid will threaten the solvency of the State, aid will not be available for those entitled thereto and the public peace, health and safety will be endangered."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Welfare and Institutions.

Under the existing law, work in course of public works or day on public work contracts is prohibited regardless of the payment of wages at a higher rate for overtime work, except in cases of extraordinary emergency caused by fire, flood or danger to life or property or except on work upon public Military or Naval defenses or works in time of war. Such restrictions are not applicable upon National defense projects or upon projects other than public works projects. Many projects of this State and of local governmental agencies, while not upon Military or Naval defenses, are directly connected with the Program of National Defense. Point of Order

Senator McBride arose to the following point of order: That the motion by Senator Kuehler to reconsider the vote whereby Assembly Bill No. 1026 had been passed was not in order, because Assembly Bill No. 1026 had been previously reconsidered.

The President ruled that the point of order was well taken on the ground that the motion to reconsider a bill which had been defeated, and the motion to reconsider the same bill after it had been passed, merely present the same question in positive and negative form, and under the Rule prohibiting the reconsideration of the same question a second time, a measure may not be reconsidered a second time unless it has been amended since the first reconsideration to present a substantially different question.

Bill ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Senate Resolution No. 138

WHEREAS, The State Board of Equalization, together with the Members of the Legislature, sponsored the Stewart Riley Tax Plan of 1931 when the State and county finances were in a state of chaos; and

WHEREAS, The revenues derived from the present Tax Laws created as a result of this plan make it apparent that serious tax problems are needed in California; and

WHEREAS, The revenues derived from the taxes have enabled the Public School System to continue unimpaired and education in California to maintain the enviable position which it occupies; and

WHEREAS, The State of California was in operation on a cash basis for the first time in many years and its budget was a magnificent one; and

WHEREAS, A huge war is being won by the State Board of Equalization, the Controller, and Members of the Legislature to the end that all taxpayers may be benefited by a substantial reduction in their tax burden; and

WHEREAS, The State Board of Equalization, together with the State Controller, has, or will, levy, assess, or collect in excess of four hundred sixty million dollars ($460,000,000) in taxes for the current biennium; and

WHEREAS, The cost of tax administration in this State in proportion to the amount of revenue collected is so low that it sets a standard which every other State in the Union is striving to equal; and

WHEREAS, It is self evident that this satisfactory result is due in no small part to the efforts and diligence of the State Board of Equalization and the Controller, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California That Fred E. Stewart, co-author of the Stewart Riley Plan, be commended for his far-sightedness and efforts in bringing the plan to the successful conclusion which was desired, and be it further

Resolved, That the State Board of Equalization and the Controller be complimented for the outstanding results obtained in the efficient administration of the revenue laws of this State; and be it further

Resolved, That they, and each of them, be urged to continue the tax policies which have proven so effective to the end that the State of California may enjoy the benefits to be derived from sound tax administration.

REPORT

The following report was ordered printed in the Journal:

Committee Report Pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 17Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

The committee appointed pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 17, and composed of the following persons: Senators Frank L. Gordon and John Harold Swan, and Assemblymen Earl D. Ingersoll, John E. Carr and S. L. Heisinger, to consider the matters contained in the resolution, part of which is as follows:

WHEREAS, A number of State office buildings have been constructed at Sacramento within recent years and, in addition thereto, the State finds it necessary to rent office space in order to provide adequate room for its officers and employees; and

WHEREAS, There is pending before the Legislature a bill making an appropriation for the construction of a Social Welfare Building; and

WHEREAS, The State has never undertaken a comprehensive review of governmental functions for the purpose of developing an orderly Building Program in Sacramento and has no official building plan properly related to the needs of the State and the trends of development of the City of Sacramento; and

WHEREAS, The existing Capitol in Sacramento is not only a fitting symbol of the dignity of State Government but is a distinguishing landmark and a primary center of interest in the city; and

WHEREAS, It is desirable that consideration be given to the relationship of the various State office buildings to each other in the interests of efficiency and economy; and

WHEREAS, Proper consideration in any State building program should be given to the economic relationship of the State office buildings to the business interests of the city; and

WHEREAS, Various plans have been proposed for the development and extension of the State office buildings, among which is the plan for the beautification of Capitol Avenue and the development of a plan for the creation of a mall along Capitol Avenue from Tower Bridge to the State Capitol; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, the Senate thereof concurring, That there is hereby created a Joint Legislative Committee on State Buildings at Sacramento, which committee shall study, ascertain, collate and appraise all facts and matters relating to the foregoing with particular reference to the study of a permanent plan for the development of the aforesaid mall as said plan has been developed and promoted by the City Planning Commission of the City of Sacramento and various civic bodies interested in the development of State buildings and the beautification of the City of Sacramento to the end that it may prepare and recommend to the Legislature a complete and coordinated program for State office building construction at Sacramento which will be for the best interests of the State and of the City of Sacramento; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall consist of three Members of the Assembly appointed by the Speaker and two Members of the Senate appointed by the Committee on Rules.

The committee realizing that no plan has ever been adopted for development of a building program of State buildings made necessary by the growth of State business, held hearings in the Capitol in Sacramento, on February 25 and 26, 1941, to consider the matters contained in the above resolution.

The committee had before it recommendations of the State Planning Board, the State Architect, and also recommendations by the Planning Commission of the City of Sacramento. These recommendations embraced maps and charts and numerous other documents, bringing to the attention of the committee the proposals relative to a permanent plan for erection of State buildings.

In considering the matter of a permanent plan of State buildings, reference was made to the following reports based upon surveys made upon previous occasions:

Report of Chas. Mulford Robinson, "The Improvement of Sacramento," November, 1908.

Report of Dr. Werner Hegemann, October 30, 1913.

Report of the State Capitol Planning Commission to the Governor, September 1, 1916.

Report of Dr. John Nolen, 1915.

Report of Harland Bartholomew & Associates, March 31, 1929.

These reports secured after considerable study, and at the expense of the city and State, appeared to have been largely ignored, and as a result, State buildings have been erected from time to time without a definite policy or plan.

The following persons representing State boards and Sacramento civic organizations appeared before the committee:

Mr. L. Deming Tilton, Administrative Officer of the State Planning Board.

Mr. H. H. Jaqueth, City Planning Commission and traffic engineer.

Mr. Anson Boyd, State Architect.

Dr. Willis Miller, Chief Planning Technician, State Planning Board.

Mr. George C. Conover, manager of Hale Bros., and Chamber of Commerce director.

Mr. Arthur S. Dudley, Secretary-treasurer, Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Fred Klaus, city engineer, and acting city manager.

Mr. Harry Wanzer, city councilman, and president, Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Roy Cothrin, managing director, Down Town Association.

Mr. Chris Jones, president, Jones, Brand & Hullin, and Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. John T. Skelton, president, Down Town Association.

Mr. Bart W. Cavanaugh, city civil service board.

Dr. R. B. Giffen, president, city planning commission.

Mr. Tilton, Administrative Officer of the State Planning Board, and Mr. Anson Boyd, State Architect, testified concerning the future development of State buildings in Sacramento. Mr. Boyd presented exhibits to the committee showing that sites had been considered for the erection of a Social Security Building which would have a right of way to the houses of all State functions relating to the administration of Social Security. Large plans for a new State Capitol, Social Welfare Department, and other buildings are being considered.

Mr. Boyd testified that the erection of a Social Security Building was being urgently requested by the Federal Government, but the present protection of valuable records and papers existing in the State Capitol and the State Planning Board in the Federal Social Security Administration, and the State Planning Board, and the State Architect, would be a structure capable of housing some 3,500 employees, and requiring a floor space of 250,000 square feet. These witnesses reported that the present State Capitol building was architecturally fine, that would give a permanent home to the State Planning Board and Social Security.

Both Mr. Tilton and Mr. Boyd presented exhibits to the committee, which exhibits showed that they had studied various sites for the erection of the Social Security Building, and also exhibits showing their studies of a Permanent Building Programmed State Housing in Sacramento.

In view of the fact that it was desirable to erect a large structure designed along lines reflecting the growth of the State Government in Social Security, Mr. Tilton reported that the State Planning Board had recommended the site in the blocks between 15th and 16th Streets and between N and N Street.

The proposed Social Security Building, which would house certain Federal functions, would, without doubt, be the largest building constructed under this plan. From a financial point of view, it is proposed that the State appropriate the sum of $1,500,000 for the purchase of the site and construction of the building, under a plan whereby the Federal Government, over a period of 10 years, would reimburse the State of California for the total amount appropriated for the purchase of the site and the erection of the building.

Mr. Boyd testified that from an architectural standpoint, a building of the contemplated size and architectural beauty required a commodious site and especially one that would permit of subsequent expansion of the Social Security Building.

It was proposed to close M Street between 15th and 16th, so that the Social Security Building could occupy a site larger than one entire city block. Furthermore, Mr. Tilton and Mr. Boyd, in contemplation of other exhibits showing the proposed extension of State buildings to Sacramento from N Street, and south from N Street between the block of 10th and 11th, indicated that any additional State buildings should be erected to the west of the present State Capitol, and that by erecting the Social Security Building upon the above site, it would automatically stop extension of State building beyond 16th Street.

Civic leaders and city officials evidenced their interest in the location of the Social Security Building by reason of traffic conditions that might result from the establishment of this building in an improper location, but all agreed that they would cooperate in any way possible in the erection of a Social Security Building upon whatever site was chosen by the State Planning Board and the State Architect in line with their studies.

In view of these facts and circumstances, the city officials present agreed to cooperate with the State in the closing of Capitol Avenue between 15th and 16th Streets, in order that the State could secure this additional ground area without cost for the Social Security Building.

Mr. Tilton was especially concerned in regard to the lack of planning in future development of State buildings in Sacramento, and pointed out the need of additional buildings by reason of the fact that present State buildings were inadequate to house all the State departments now located in Sacramento.

Mr. Tilton and Mr. Boyd testified that the planning authorities felt there was a definite need for a long range plan for future State building construction in Sacramento. They suggested the Capitol Avenue Mall Plan as the most logical plan to adopt for future development for more State buildings in Sacramento. This plan would also contemplate the erection of State buildings, as and when they were needed, of a factory type such as the State Planning Office, to the south of N Street, from 10th to 11th Streets. This permanent plan of building development was concurred in by the various city officials and city officials represented at the hearing.

Mr. Tilton pointed out in the committee that if the present grounds immediately east of the Capitol were improved, it would enhance the appearance of the Capitol. This would create an impressive view from both the Capitol and the Social Security Building at the east end of Capitol Park.

The various civic leaders and public officials present, who were primarily interested in the utility and beautification of State buildings and grounds have at heart the beautification of the City of Sacramento, as well as the utility and architectural designs of State buildings, agreed to cooperate in every way with any permanent plan established by the State Planning Commission, and recommended by this committee to the State Legislature.

This committee, recognizing the continual growth of the State of California, and the necessity of erecting additional State buildings in Sacramento, feels that it is vital to the welfare of the State that the Legislature establish a permanent policy governing future construction of State buildings in Sacramento. In considering this permanent plan, your committee is also convinced that it is extremely important that such a plan should take into consideration the wishes of the citizens of Sacramento, and the plans prepared for the orderly development and beautification of the city.

In an effort to accomplish this desirable result, both for the benefit of the State, and of the city, your committee is assured that the city and county officials of Sacramento, the Chamber of Commerce, and all public leaders of Sacramento, will give their wholehearted support and cooperation. Such cooperation will be necessary in order that transportation and traffic problems can be met and solved. The City Planning Commission, in order to facilitate execution of a Permanent State Building Plan, has assured your committee that certain zoning restrictions will be established in that area of the city covered by any proposed plan for additional State buildings.

Mr. Jacqueth, Secretary of the City Planning Commission, and Traffic Engineer, presented to the committee city plans calling for the removal of the car tracks on Capitol Avenue, the widening of Capitol Avenue, and a possible building "set back" plan. He also explained that the city is planning to extend 5th Street, south of Broadway to provide a wide arterial for traffic entering the downtown section from the area south of Broadway, and expressed his hope that the State could adopt a definite plan of State buildings in Sacramento, so that the City of Sacramento and its officials could adapt the city plan to a permanent State plan.

In connection with the matter of traffic, Mr. Tilton of the Planning Board, pointed out the very objectionable congestion and traffic hazards now surrounding the State Capitol. He recommended that the permanent plan include, if possible, the opening of 12th Street through the Capitol Park from I. to N Street by way of a subway under a widened terrace on the easterly side of the Capitol.

The committee and those appearing before it discussed also the remodeling of the present historic Capitol. In considering this particular problem, the committee noted the fact that certain bills have been introduced in the Legislature to either erect a new Capitol, or to enlarge it by additions. Your committee feels that California now has one of the most beautiful and imposing Capitol buildings in America. Any additions to the Capitol would destroy its symmetrical lines and beauty. The existing Capitol, because of its sturdy construction, will last for many years, and we feel that any exterior additions or alterations are unnecessary and impractical. We also feel that a new building in place of this structure is unneeded and would be a waste of public money.

In this connection, your committee is of the opinion that the present Capitol should be used primarily for legislative and executive purposes. There is not sufficient office space for members of the Legislature. Moreover, the executive offices require more space and a more convenient arrangement.

Provision should be made in the present Capitol for offices for the Lieutenant Governor, President pro tempore of the Senate, Speaker and Speaker pro tempore of the Assembly. Proper and suitable offices should be provided for all ranking legislative leaders.

It is recommended, therefore, that the Legislature instruct the State Planning Board and the State Architect to make a survey of the Capitol and ascertain if Government agencies now occupying space in this building could not be transferred to other quarters, so that there would be ample room for the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and officials of the Assembly and Senate, and their assistants, in order to expedite the work of the executive and legislative branches of State Government.

We also recommend that interior alteration of the Capitol be undertaken to carry out the above purposes, and in connection therewith, that an additional elevator be installed in the Assembly side of the Capitol for the convenience of the public and to relieve the congestion during legislative sessions.

Further, we recommend that larger and more commodious committee rooms be provided in order that the many citizens of California who appear before committees in connection with legislation may have better accommodations. It is also recommended that the State Architect undertake a study of the ventilation of the Assembly and Senate Chambers, as well as committee rooms, so that proper air conditioning may be installed.

At the present time the Department of Agriculture is housed in several buildings for which the State is required to pay considerable rental. This department is growing by leaps and bounds by reason of additional duties imposed by law upon the Director of Agriculture and the department. It is inconvenient and inefficient to have the various departments and divisions of any department scattered throughout the city. The Department of Agriculture is now desirous of constructing a new building in Sacramento so that all of its activities could be concentrated under one roof.

Mr. Jess Hession, Deputy Attorney General, appeared before the committee and testified that the Attorney General's Department desired additional room. He stated that if sufficient room could be provided, Attorney General Warren would move the greater part of his office staff from San Francisco to Sacramento. Mr. Hession also suggested that the upper floor of the Library and Courts Building be vacated by the departments that occupied that space, so that the entire floor could be used by the Attorney General.

The above are but two instances of the present need for space that will result in additional buildings in Sacramento and create the necessity for a Permanent Plan for State Buildings. They closely connect with the opinions of the State Planning Board and the State Architect concerning space and committee the urgent need for the development of the Capitol Avenue Mall area.

In this connection it should be noted that the State of California owns the garage property located on the southeast corner of 9th and L Streets. Space in this garage does not at the present time furnish sufficient room for parking of State cars. It was also pointed out to the committee that traffic hazards and congestion are caused by the parking of automobiles upon the streets surrounding present State office buildings. Moreover, considerable traffic congestion is created at certain times of the day by the thousands of employees going to and from State buildings by automobile.

In order to remove the problem of parking, traffic hazards and congestion, and as a means of advancing development of the Capitol Avenue Mall, your committee suggests the following plan: The Capitol Avenue Mall be built between 8th and 9th, L to N Streets. Your committee is impressed with the idea that if this policy is followed a public might arise in the State. In our actual committee would be given that the Capitol Avenue Mall would be ultimately developed. These properties could be held by the State, be put to a utilitarian use and additional State buildings erected thereon when and as needed.

During the discussion before the committee, it became evident that it would be desirable that this committee undertake studies of State Building Programs for buildings and townships where buildings are now either in San Francisco, Oakland, Fresno, Los Angeles and San Diego, since it is obvious that State buildings are necessary in those cities for the building of State business.

We recommend, therefore, that the resolution creating this committee be amended to give the committee power to continue its studies in the above named cities, and that your committee should be supplied with sufficient funds to carry into effect the full purpose of the resolution creating it.

In view of the above, and in accordance with sound city and State planning, your Committee makes the following definite recommendations:

1. That the Legislature adopt a permanent policy for a program of State building construction in the City of Sacramento, and other cities throughout the State where State buildings are necessary; that this plan be a definite plan binding as far as possible upon future State Administrations and Legislatures.

2. That the recommendations of the State Planning Board and the State Architect for the construction of a Social Security Building in the blocks between 15th and 16th Streets, and the alley L and M Streets to the alley M and N Streets, be approved, and that the Legislature immediately appropriate the sum of $1,500,000 for the purpose of purchasing the site and for the erection of said building; that the Legislature adopt such other legislation which may be necessary to provide for the reimbursement to the State for the money spent for said site and said building.

3. That future State buildings on N Street facing Capitol Park be deferred pending development of the Capitol Avenue Mall.

4. That no buildings of any nature be erected within the confines of Capitol Park proper.

5. That the State Architect undertake a study for the alteration of the present Capitol in accordance with the recommendations set forth in this report.

6. That the Capitol Avenue Mall be established as part of the State Building Program in Sacramento, and that future State buildings of suitable scale, type and use be constructed upon said Capitol Avenue Mall.

7. That as funds become available for the construction of a building for the Department of Agriculture, said building be constructed on the Capitol Avenue Mall.

8. That further study be given by the State Planning Board, the State Architect and city officials in the extension of 12th Street through Capitol Park in order to eliminate traffic congestion and parking around the Capitol.

9. That the State Planning Board and the State Architect cooperate in every way possible with city officials and civic leaders of the City of Sacramento to the end that the State Building Plan as proposed herein be carried out.

Respectfully submitted

Amendment No. 3

On page 2 of the printed bill, as amended, after line 36, insert

"SEC. 3. Any person having a conveyance of the whole or any portion of the lands described in any certificate of purchase, but to whom the certificate has never been surrendered, may protect his lands from forfeiture by paying such proportion of the interest delinquent upon all the lands in such certificate described as the acreage claimed by him bears to the aggregate acreage embraced in such certificate. He shall first, however, file with the State Lands Commission satisfactory evidence of his possessory right to such land. Upon such payment being made within the time prescribed by law such land shall be, and hereby is, excepted from the forfeiture prescribed by law. Said certificate of purchase shall become null and void only as to the remaining lands therein described. Should due compliance be made with all other provisions of law governing the issuance of patents, a patent shall issue in the name of the original purchaser of such excepted land, but shall be delivered to the person by whom such payment was made, and the title thereby granted shall inure to the benefit of such person, his heirs or assigns.

SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and as such shall take effect immediately. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Persons who have a conveyance of the whole or any portion of lands described in any certificate of purchase who desire to protect their lands from forfeiture have only a short time within which to act under the existing provisions of law providing for a moratorium on forfeitures and prescribing procedure for payment of delinquent interest. Unless this act takes effect immediately it will not become operative until a day subsequent to the last date for action to protect such lands from forfeiture which would result in hardship and suffering and would remove lands from the tax rolls. It is therefore necessary that this act take effect immediately in order that its provisions will be effective to accomplish the desired purpose."

CHAPTER 3. AID TO PARTIALLY SELF-SUPPORTING BLIND RESIDENTS

Article 1. General Provisions

3400. The purpose of this chapter is to provide a plan for this State whereby the blind residents of this State may be encouraged to take advantage of and to enlarge their economic opportunities, to the end that they may render themselves independent of public assistance and become entirely self-supporting.

To achieve this objective, resources and income beyond the necessities of bare decency and subsistence are required. This chapter, by allowing the retention of necessary income and resources by those of the blind showing a reasonable probability of being able and willing to undertake the acquisition of resources and income necessary for self-support, will encourage them in their efforts to become self-supporting.

3401. The provisions of this chapter shall be liberally construed to effect its objects and purposes.

3402. No person concerned with the administration of this chapter shall dictate how any applicant shall expend the aid granted to him.

3403. As used in this chapter, "blind persons" means any person who by reason of loss or impairment of sight is unable to provide himself fully with the necessities of life and who has not income and resources through his own means, as defined under this chapter, sufficient to provide a reasonable and decent standard of living.

3405. Any person who, in order to secure for himself or another the aid provided in this chapter, makes a false statement under oath, shall be deemed guilty of perjury. Whenever any person has, by means of false statement or representation or by impersonation or other fraudulent device obtained aid under this chapter, he shall make restitution and all actions necessary to secure restitution may be brought against him.

3406. Whenever any aid under this chapter is refunded to a county, the State shall be entitled to a share of the amount received, proportionate to the amount of State funds paid.

3407. All aid given under this chapter shall be absolutely inalienable by any assignment, sale, attachment, execution, or otherwise and in case of bankruptcy the aid shall not pass through any trustee or other person acting on behalf of creditors.

Article 2. State and County Aid

3420. There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated to every county in the State, maintaining, supporting, or caring for, as hereinafter provided in this chapter, any blind person, resident of such county, and not an inmate of any institution supported in whole or in part by the State or any of its political subdivisions, and not in excess of three hundred dollars ($300) per annum for each such blind person so maintained, supported and cared for, or aid not in excess of six hundred dollars ($600) per annum in the event such blind person has no county residence as provided in this chapter.

3421. It shall be the duty of each county to aid blind persons as provided in this chapter.

Article 3. Persons Eligible for Aid

3430. No person who has become blind while a resident of the State is entitled to aid under the provisions of this chapter, unless he is at least 16 years of age and unless, except as provided in Section 3432, he has been a resident of the county in which his application is filed for a period of six months immediately preceding the filing of his application.

3431. No person who became blind while he was a nonresident of the State, is entitled to aid under the provisions of this chapter, unless he is at least 16 years of age and unless, except as provided in Section 3432, he has been a resident of the county in which his application is filed, for a period of one year immediately preceding the filing of his application and a resident of the State for a period of 10 years immediately preceding the filing of his application.

3432. Any person otherwise eligible who has resided in the State for the required period and who has no county residence may file his application in the county in which he resides, and the aid, if granted to him, shall be paid entirely by the State until the first day of the first month beginning after the date upon which he gains such county residence or until the day upon which he gains county residence is the first day of the month in which event the county shall assume its share of the costs thereon.

3443. For the purposes of this chapter neither the residence nor domicile of the husband or wife shall be deemed the residence or domicile of the other, but each will have a separate residence or domicile dependent upon proof of the fact and not on legal presumption.

For the purposes of this chapter a minor child shall be deemed to have resided in the State during any period in which such child has been physically present in the State.

3444. No applicant shall receive aid under the provisions of this chapter while he is an inmate of any institution maintained or owned or in part by the State or any of its political subdivisions, but recipients of aid under the provisions of this chapter who are patients in a public hospital for a period not exceeding 30 days, and blind persons employed in a shop maintained by the State when such shop does not provide board and room to the employee shall not be considered inmates of public institutions. No applicant shall be denied the aid provided for in this chapter, however, because he is attending or intends to attend any public high school in this State, the University of California, or any other institution of higher learning in this State.

Any such inmate, however, may make an application for aid under this chapter and have his application investigated and acted upon without delay, in the same manner as applications of other persons are acted upon, when he is no longer an inmate, and, if he is otherwise qualified under the terms of this chapter, such application shall be approved. Payment of the aid granted shall commence within one month following such approval, and the condition that payment be made only by receipt of his first monthly payment, shall cease to be such condition.

If on the first day of the month a recipient of aid is eligible for aid though an inmate of an institution or hospital, he is entitled to receive aid for the month.

If a recipient of aid becomes ineligible for aid due to confinement in an institution or hospital, the amount of the aid of assistance awarded him shall not be provided that the aid shall be restored when the recipient ceases to be an inmate, without further order from the board of supervisors.

3445. No aid to needy blind shall be given under the provisions of this chapter to any individual who receives aid under the Old Age Security Law, which is Chapter 1, Division 2 of this code.

3446. No person who publicly solicits aid or is one of the State shall be eligible to receive aid under the provisions of this chapter. "Publicly solicits" shall be construed to mean either begging, carrying or exhibiting signs, placards, or notices for the securing of alms, or carrying receptacles, for the purpose of securing alms, or doing the same by proxy; or stationary or house to house begging; or any other means of publicly seeking alms.

3447. Aid shall not be received under the provisions of this chapter by any person who owns personal or real property, or both, the county assessed valuation of which, less all encumbrances thereon of record, is in excess of three thousand dollars ($3,000).

The term "personal property" shall not include a policy or policies of insurance which has or have been in effect at least five years prior to the date of application, if the value of the policy or policies at maturity is in an amount not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000).

3449. Free board and lodging supplied to an applicant, because of his necessity therefor, by a friend or relative who is not responsible for his support or who is financially unable to support him, shall not be a ground for refusing aid.

3450. Any person qualified for and receiving aid under the provisions of this chapter in any county of the State, who removes to another county in the State, shall be entitled to aid under the provisions of this chapter from the first day of the first month beginning after the date from which he ceases one year of residence in the county to which he has removed, unless the day upon which he attains one year of residence is the first day of the month in which event the transfer of costs shall take place upon this day, and such transfer shall not work a forfeiture during such one-year period of the aid previously awarded under this chapter.

For the purposes of this section, it is presumed that the period of time for the acquisition of one year's residence in the county to which the person has removed, shall start to run upon the date of removal from the county in which he has previously acquired residence. Any residence once acquired is presumed to continue unless terminated by a subsequent act of the recipient. The county to which such person has removed shall pay for the excessive medical or hospital care, or both, during the one-year period of residence under this section. The county providing such medical or hospital care, or both, may demand payment of the county granting the aid in an amount not in excess of the cost thereof and it shall be a proper charge and duty of the county granting the aid to pay such medical or hospital care, or both.

Any blind person who leaves his county for the purpose of attending an institution of learning located in the State shall be deemed, for the purposes of this chapter, not to have moved from his county.

If a recipient returns to the county granting aid to him, after an absence of less than one year, he shall not be deemed to have lost his residence therein.

Article 4. Administration and Procedure

3460. The administration of this chapter is vested in the State Department of Social Welfare and the counties to be performed in accordance with the provisions of this code applicable to aid to needy blind. Unless otherwise expressly provided in this chapter, all provisions of this code applicable to the powers and duties of the State Department of Social Welfare and the counties with respect to the needy blind shall apply to the powers and duties of the State Department of Social Welfare and the counties with respect to aid to the blind under this chapter.

3461. The State Department of Social Welfare through the Division of the Blind shall supervise the administration of the provisions of this chapter.

3462. The privilege of treatment and operations for the prevention of blindness or the restoration of sight available to the needy blind under Section 3051 of this code shall be available to the blind receiving aid under this chapter.

Article 5. Terms and Conditions of Aid

3470. Each applicant for aid under the provisions of this chapter shall file with the county in which he resides, an application, accompanied by an affidavit, signed by himself, stating, if known, his age, sex, counties of residence during the preceding 10 years, his financial resources and income, the name and address of his spouse, parent, or adult child, the degree of his blindness, how long he has been blind, what employment and education he has had, his general physical condition, and such other statistical data as the Department of Social Welfare requires.

The application shall forthwith be transmitted to the board of supervisors of the county.

3471. The county board of supervisors shall not grant any certificate of qualification for aid under the provisions of this chapter until it has been satisfied that the applicant is entitled to such aid by the evidence of two reputable citizens of the State that they knew that the applicant has the required residential qualifications to entitle him to the aid asked for, and by the evidence of a duly licensed and practicing physician skilled in the diseases of the eye that the applicant is blind. The physician shall describe the condition of the applicant's eyes and testify to the degree of his blindness. The evidence of each person shall be in writing, signed by him, and he shall be subject to cross-examination by the county board of supervisors or any other person appointed by the board of supervisors to conduct such investigation.

3472. If the county board of supervisors is satisfied that the applicant is entitled to aid under the provisions of this chapter, it shall, without delay, issue an order therefor. The amount of aid to which any applicant shall be entitled shall be, when added to the income of the applicant from all other sources, fifty dollars ($50) per month. Income from any of the following sources of a combined total value not exceeding four hundred dollars ($400) per annum shall not be considered for any purpose:

- (a) Income from applicant's labor or services;
- (b) The value of foodstuffs produced by the applicant or his family for his use or that of his family;
- (c) The value of firewood and/or water produced on the premises of the applicant or given to him by another for the applicant's use;
- (d) The value of gifts other than regular contributions by relatives legally responsible under this act;
- (e) The value of the use and occupancy of premises owned and occupied by the applicant;
- (f) The net income from real and personal property owned by the applicant.

Income in addition to the above specified shall be computed on the basis of net income.

3473. An applicant for aid under this chapter shall in addition prove that he is able to secure and willing to use resources and income he is permitted to retain under this chapter, for the purposes of achieving self-support.

The county shall determine whether the applicant has the qualifications necessary for aid under this chapter and may, despite his application, deny him aid under this chapter, and, if eligible thereunder, grant him aid to the needy blind under Chapter 1 of this part. Any applicant denied aid under this chapter may file an appeal with the State Social Welfare Board.

An applicant granted aid under this Chapter 3 shall not be eligible for aid under Chapter 1 of this part for a period of one year from the date upon which he filed his application for aid and an applicant granted aid under Chapter 1 of this part shall not be eligible for aid under this Chapter 3 for a period of one year from the date upon which he filed his application for aid under Chapter 1 of this part.

At least annually the county shall review the records of every applicant receiving aid under this chapter and shall determine whether he is eligible to aid under this chapter or should be the first recipient of the three current next period, be granted aid at expense under Chapter 1 of the Code. Any person placed by the county shall be subject to review by the State Social Welfare Board upon the appeal of the applicant.

3474. If any person receiving aid under the provisions of this chapter has residing within the State a spouse, parent, or adult child, pecuniarily able to support him, upon the failure of such kindred to perform their duty to support the blind person the board of supervisors may request the district attorney or other civil legal officer of the county to demand judicial aid of the kindred in the order of their responsibility for support.

Upon such request the district attorney, or other civil legal officer of the county, shall sue and sue on behalf of the county, to obtain recovery in the superior court of the county of the sums due and to be paid under this chapter. (1) to recover for the county any and all sums due and to be paid on aid under this chapter relative to persons pecuniarily able to pay aid. (2) to secure recovery respecting the payment to the county of any sums which may become due in the future for which the relative may be liable. The receipt of aid by the applicant under the provisions of this chapter shall not constitute any receipt or acknowledgment of such sums. The sums so received shall be paid over by the county to the settlement with the State.

Article 6. Fiscal Procedure

3480. From the sums appropriated in Section 3420 of this code the State Treasurer shall pay to each county an amount which shall be used exclusively for aid to the blind under this chapter, equal to one-half of the sums expended by the county as such aid under this chapter. The county shall certify that the State shall pay the county the sum of money so estimated and approved by the State Department of Social Welfare for the preceding period and shall have no receipt therefor.

3481. The method of computing and paying the amounts provided for in Section 3480 for each quarter shall be as follows:

(a) The Department of Social Welfare shall, prior to the beginning of each quarter, estimate the amount to be paid for such quarter to each county under Section 3480. This estimate shall be based on a report which shall be filed by each county containing (1) its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the county for such expenditures in such quarter, and if the amount is less than that portion of the total sum of such estimated expenditures which is required under this chapter to be paid by each such county, the source or sources from which the difference is expected to be derived, (2) records, showing the number of blind individuals receiving aid under the authority of this chapter in the county, and (3) such other information and investigation as the Department of Social Welfare may find necessary.

(b) The Department of Social Welfare shall then certify to the State Controller the amounts so estimated by it for each county, reduced or increased as the case may be, by any sum by which it finds that its estimate for any prior quarter was greater or less than the amount which should have been paid to the county under this chapter for such quarter, except to the extent that such sum has been applied to make the amount expended for any prior quarter greater or less than the amount estimated by the Department of Social Welfare for such prior quarter.

(c) The State Controller shall disburse and the necessary warrants, and prior to such disbursement, in the Department of Social Welfare, and the State Controller, the State Treasurer shall pay to the treasurer of each county the amount so certified. Upon the order of the Department of Social Welfare, the amount approved by the governor, may be paid in monthly installments and, if paid in monthly installments, all necessary adjustments for the prior quarter shall be made by additions or deductions from the allowance for the first month of each new quarter or in the manner prescribed by the State Department of Social Welfare.

3482. Reports of aid to blind paid out under this chapter shall be presented by the respective counties at times and in the form prescribed by the Department of Social Welfare. Such reports shall be audited by the Department of Social Welfare and the State Controller and when and in the amount approved, shall be allowed to said county or counties and county as a credit to apply against advances made under the terms of Section 3481.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Deane, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

SACRAMENTO, June 13, 1941

Sacramento, California

Gentlemen: To advise that the members of the Legislature may be informed as to the expenditures which may result from a transfer of Federal funds now contributed to the administrative budget of the State Department of Social Welfare, I wish to call your attention to the fact that approximately 70 per cent of such administrative budget comes from Federal aid. Some three times additional appropriations from the Federal Government as total as $1,586,677 might become necessary.

It has been the experience of other States that such loss of Federal funds may not be made up by retroactive grants from the Federal Government.

Enclosed for the Senate are three copies of a statement from the Department of Social Welfare showing the amount of Federal retroactive funds in relation to the total budget of the Department of Social Welfare for the administration of the categorical aids.

In addition to the loss of Federal administrative grants used for the support of the State Department of Social Welfare, the 58 counties of the State would stand to lose portion totaling $1,011,000 of the more income which otherwise would be available to them, in meeting the local cost of administering the three categorical aid programs. The loss of these Federal administrative funds would further complicate the fiscal picture in State and county budgets involved in the threatened withdrawal of Federal aid for old age pension.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE KILLION, Director of Finance

PROCEEDINGS UNDER CALL OF THE SENATE MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 12, 1941

To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS. I am herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 319, entitled, "An act to amend Section 651 of the Fish and Game Code, relating to salmon."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

The bill extends the open season on salmon in the Mokelumne River in District 1 from the present season of May 29th to October 31st to make the season May 29th to December 31st, thus increasing its length by two months.

The Division of Fish and Game reports that this will make it possible for fishermen to take salmon on the spawning grounds in this river during their spawning season.

The division further points out that at the present time the commission is trying to rehabilitate the salmon runs on both the San Joaquin and Sacramento River Systems in order to replace the loss that will occur or has occurred through blocking off of spawning beds by the large number of dams that have been put on various rivers and tributaries.

I believe that proper legislation in such matters should follow the advice of our trained experts in the field of conservation. Since the measure is reported as unfavorable for the proper conservation of this species, I am sure that the sportsmen of the State will be satisfied to abide by the present season.

Respectfully submitted.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 12, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 169, entitled "An act to amend Section 317 of the Agricultural Code, relating to slaughterhouses."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill provides that the owner of a slaughterhouse who feels that the building requirements of the department are unreasonable may protest to the director; that the protest shall be determined by an arbitration committee of three, one selected by the department, one by the owner and the third by the first two; and that the decision of the arbitration committee shall be final and binding upon the department and the owner. During the Fifty third Session of the Legislature, I returned without my signature Senate Bill No. 285 which similarly provided for such arbitration. The reasons then given are applicable to this bill and are here restated:

"The correspondence I have received from several small slaughterhouse operators indicates that this bill was introduced in response to their complaints that higher and more burdensome standards have been fixed for them in the administration of the present law than the average of sanitary and building standards required and actually in force in other slaughterhouse establishments. I agree that such discriminations would be inexcusable; in fact they would constitute a violation of duty on the part of officials charged with the enforcement of the present law. If any such violations have occurred, or if unreasonable standards or requirements are made, they can and will be corrected by administrative order. Complaints with reference thereto should be made to the Director of Agriculture.

The provisions of this bill, it seems to me, would defeat its purpose to establish uniformity in sanitary and building requirements for all establishments subject to regulation. It would permit the arbitrary fixing by arbitration committees of different standards and requirements in different localities and in individual plants than obtained in others.

The Legislature may deem it advisable to set up uniform standards more specifically than the present law provides. But this act would break down all standards. It would delegate to unofficial agencies powers which should be exercised only by duly qualified administration officers. It would be detrimental to the establishment of reasonable and uniform public health and sanitary regulations affecting the operations of slaughterhouses."

There now exists a further reason why this bill should not become law, which is that it would undoubtedly defeat the efforts of the Department of Agriculture and of the California meat packing industry to secure Federal recognition of California meat inspection so that meat packed in California plants under State inspection may be sold to Federal agencies and particularly to the Military and Naval authorities of the United States. At the present time these authorities will accept only Federal inspected meat. That the Legislature is fully cognizant of this situation is demonstrated by Senate Joint Resolution No. 4 adopted at the present session of the Legislature, memorializing the Congress and the President to take action to provide that meat inspected and passed under the California Meat Inspection Law may be sold to and purchased by the United States and its agencies. I doubt that the Legislature in enacting this bill realized that the destruction of the standards of the California meat inspection service made possible by this bill would defeat such purpose and thereby be disadvantageous to the California industry. Under the present law the standards are required to conform to the Federal standards as nearly as possible (Agricultural Code, Section 315). Under the law such standards would conform to the National Plans of the different arbitration boards.

For the reasons stated, I am returning the bill without my signature.

Respectfully submitted,

55. Each eligible individual who is unemployed in any week shall be paid with respect to such week, provided he is otherwise entitled thereto under this act, a benefit in an amount equal to his weekly benefit amount less the amount of wages, if any, [in excess of three dollars] payable to him for services rendered during such week. Such benefit if not a multiple of one dollar ($1) shall be computed to the next higher multiple of one dollar ($1). For the purposes of this section only "wages" shall be deemed to include any and all amounts payable as compensation for personal services, regardless of whether such personal services are or are not rendered in employment otherwise subject to this act.

SEC. 3. Section 56 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

56. An individual is not eligible for benefits for unemployment, and no such benefit shall be payable to him under any of the following conditions:

57. An unemployed individual shall be eligible to receive benefits with respect to any week only if the commission finds that:

(a) A claim for benefits with respect to such week has been made in accordance with such regulations as the commission may prescribe.

(b) He has registered for work, and thereafter continued to report, at a public employment office or such other place as the commission may approve.

(c) He is able to work and available for work; and for the purpose of this requirement no worker shall be deemed able to work unless he was both physically and mentally capable of performing any work of substantially the same kind or nature in so far as physical or mental requirements are concerned as work performed by such individual during a period or periods totaling one month or more out of the 12 months immediately preceding the week with respect to which he is applying for benefits.

(d) He has been unemployed for a waiting period of two weeks. Such weeks of unemployment need not be consecutive. No week shall be counted as a week of unemployment for the purposes of this subsection:

(1) Unless it occurs within the benefit year which includes the week with respect to which he claims payment of benefits; provided, that this requirement shall not interrupt the payment of benefits for consecutive weeks of unemployment; and provided further, that the week or the two consecutive weeks immediately preceding a benefit year, if part of one uninterrupted period of unemployment which continues into such benefit year, shall be deemed (for the purposes of this subsection only) to be within such benefit year as well as within the preceding benefit year.

(2) If benefits have been paid with respect thereto.

(3) Unless the individual was eligible for benefits with respect thereto in all respects, except for the requirements of this subsection (d) and Section 53.

(e) He has during his base year earned wages for employment by employers of not less than three hundred dollars ($300).

SEC. 5. Section 58 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

58. An individual shall not be eligible for benefits:

(a) For the week in which he has left his most recent work voluntarily without good cause attributable to his employer, if so found by the commission, and for [the week] 15 weeks which immediately follow such week.

(b) For the week in which he has been discharged for misconduct connected with his most recent work, if so found by the commission, and for not more than [five] 15 weeks which immediately follow such week, as determined by the commission in each case according to the seriousness of the misconduct.

(c) An individual shall be presumed to have been discharged for reasons other than misconduct in connection with his work and not to have voluntarily left his work without good cause unless his employer shall have given notice to the contrary to the commission in writing within five days after the termination of service, setting forth such facts as are necessary to establish a prima facie case in support thereof. If the employer files such notice, the question shall immediately be determined in the same manner as benefit claims.

(d) For the week in which he has wilfully made a false statement or representation or wilfully failed to report a material fact to obtain any benefits under the provisions of this act and for the [three] 20 next following weeks.

SEC. 6. Sections 2, 3, 4 and 5 of this act shall take effect on December 1, 1941.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Kenny:

Senate Resolution No. 148

Relative to memorializing the President and Congress against the passage of legislation to prohibit the filing of separate income tax returns by spouses in preference to community income.

WHEREAS, There is now pending before the Congress of the United States a bill to prohibit a wife from filing a separate income tax return on her share of community property income and making the credits and deductions thereon to which she is now legally entitled; and

WHEREAS, This represents a fundamental change in our Federal income tax policy, and in the State where community property laws are in effect, would contravene the well established principle that a wife has a vested right in community property equal to that of her husband; and

WHEREAS, The change contemplated would result in a disproportionate increase in the taxes of those persons affected throughout the country, including California, would constitute a very unusual increase and the increase imposed on taxpayers in non-community property States, and would result to the fact that the taxpayers of this State are carrying one of the heaviest per capita tax loads in the Nation; and

WHEREAS, To make this change at the present time would be to place an unreasonable burden upon the citizens of California who have been carrying their full share of the normal costs of Government and the National Defense Program; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the people of the State of California hereby register an emphatic protest against the passage of the bill now pending in Congress to which this resolution relates; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate forward a copy of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States.

Resolution read, and unanimously adopted.

JOHN P. PHILLIPS, Committee on Employment

The Functions of the Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment

Following resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, This Advisory Committee to the "Fact-Finding Committee" was created by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 26 among other things for the purpose of studying and reporting to the Legislature as to needed legislation that may be required to assist in the General Program of National Defense, and legislative measures that will enable the State to bring about and assure general employment in private enterprise of its able-bodied citizens; and

WHEREAS, Among other subjects considered by the Resolutions Committee at its meeting, the question of what legislative enactments, if any, will be needed, either in connection with preparedness plans or with changes in the unemployment situation, was considered; and

WHEREAS, After due deliberation, the committee concluded that the most effective results can be secured by making this committee a clearinghouse for suggestions and recommendations of various State and civic organizations, to supplement its own study and research; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this committee recommends that the purposes and objectives desired be disseminated to all civic leaders throughout the State, and that full publicity of the purposes and objectives of the committee be effected through all possible means; and be it further

Resolved, That all groups and civic bodies be requested to advise this committee of suggestions as they deem will be required to more effectively assist in the Program of National Defense, and the creation of employment, or such legislation as should be repealed to accomplish those objectives; and be it further

Resolved, That this committee, after study and investigation of any suggestions made, and its own investigation as to legislation which may be required, or any existing legislation which should be removed in order to effectuate the objectives heretofore mentioned, do make recommendations to the Legislature of the State of California at its next regular or special session.

RadioAction

At the meeting held January 3, 1941, the Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment passed the following resolution:

"Be it resolved, That a committee be appointed of network and independent station representatives and technicians to meet with duly appointed representatives of the Army and Navy, and of State, county and municipal governments for the purpose of surveying existing facilities and deciding upon a plan for coordinating those facilities both for gathering and disseminating information for broadcast purposes under any emergency situation; and be it further resolved that sufficient funds be appropriated by the Legislature to conduct the survey."

This resolution was passed upon the recommendation of the Radio Subcommittee, of which Mr. Richard F. Connor was chairman, upon the motion of Mr. Fox Case of the Columbia Broadcasting System, seconded by Mr. Arthur Westlund, President of the Northern California Broadcasters, Inc.

Work of the Radio Subcommittee

The Radio Subcommittee was appointed by Mr. Austin, Chairman of the Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment and is composed of the following members: Richard F. Connor, chairman; Fox Case, Alden Packard, Charles P. Scott, Mel Venter and Arthur Westlund. Admiral Osterhaus and Colonel Pirie of the main committee were also assigned to the Radio Subcommittee.

The subcommittee held a number of meetings in San Francisco and Los Angeles. The members made a careful study of radio in a Program of National Defense with special emphasis on the part to be played by commercial radio. They reviewed the existing facilities and studied methods for their coordination system, holding meetings with representatives of the Army and the Navy. Mr. Connor, chairman, attended a three-day convention of the National Association of Broadcasters held August 5-7, 1940, at which many of the same problems were discussed and reported on the conclusion of this group.

In addition two outstanding radio programs from coast to coast were conducted over Mutual Network telling of the work of the Legislative Advisory Committee and the needs of National defense. These broadcasts were presented "with the hope that young men everywhere will heed the appeals to join and take advantage of the educational facilities now being offered them to prepare through the schools, the Army and the Navy, as skilled tradesmen." These programs included brief talks by Mr. John C. Austin, chairman, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, president of the California Institute of Technology and members of the Legislative Advisory Committee, Colonel John Pirie, also a member, as well as talks by Commander R. Boulton of the Navy Recruiting Office in Los Angeles, Mr. R. A. McMullin of the Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council and Mr. Vierling Kersey, Superintendent of Schools of Los Angeles. As a result of these broadcasts Mr. Connor received a letter from the National Association of Broadcasters of Washington, D. C., expressing its appreciation of the splendid work of Mr. Connor and his Radio Committee in connection with National defense and stating that its coast-to-coast radio program was the first of its kind in the Nation.

Copies of the special reports filed by the Radio Committee are attached to the copy filed with the Chairman of the Legislative Fact-Finding Committee.

EmploymentDevelopment of Natural Resources of the Western States*Action

The following copy of a resolution was unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment held January 3, 1941, at the Palace Hotel, in San Francisco:

"WHEREAS, It has been brought to the attention of this committee that an organization known as Industrial West, Inc., has compiled a great deal of data covering agricultural, mineral and other natural resources of the eleven western States, plus an industrial survey, and

WHEREAS, This committee has made an investigation and study of the information now in the hands of the Industrial West, Inc., and believes it to be valuable to the State of California; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That this committee hereby recommends that the State Legislature take appropriate action whereby this information may be made available to those interested, and that a sum not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) be appropriated for the purchase of said information, with the understanding that the Industrial West, Inc., will immediately bring the report up to date and compile it in such form as will make it effective for research purposes."

Report on Natural Resources—California and the Tributary Pacific Slope Region (11 Western States)

A report primarily to the United States Government, but of general interest to the public, on the problems through which the Nation may be able to solve its economic problems through the utilization of its natural resources.

The Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Advisory Committee, appointed to investigate and report on the Utilization of Natural Resources on the Pacific Slope (11 western States), under the Industrial West, Inc., has the following report to submit:

At a Special Session of the State Legislature, September 21st last, there was created by Joint Resolution No. 26 an "Industrial Committee," consisting of three members: Messrs. F. G. Smith, Chief and General Manager, The Commercial, H. C. Matlin, Chief and General Manager, W. Malone, Consulting Engineer-in-Chief, The Industrial West, Inc. The Industrial Committee has expressed a desire to study and report on the problems of the Pacific Slope. In doing this report, the Industrial Committee was instructed:

Objectives

To so develop and utilize the natural resources and materials of California and the Pacific Slope Tributary Region as to make this Nation independent of foreign countries as to a major part of their raw materials. This objective should have in mind not alone the period of "strategic materials" for war purposes in times of emergency—but as a long range plan to carry on during the period following, when a natural depression, or let-down in production is an aftermath of wartime expansion. This is to be accomplished through such economic developments, to the effect also to increase our production.

Obtaining Objectives

It is obvious that in order to obtain the desired objective a great amount of research is necessary. This would take time—years—in three years—not money. Also as the time element is an important factor, the information making up a coordinated industrial survey must be had as early as is possible. Fortunately, this is available through the "factual inventory" which has been made during the past three years by The Industrial West, Inc., directed by George W. Malone, a consulting engineer. This report is contained in what is termed "The Industrial Survey-Encyclopedia of Western Resources" and includes the entire Pacific Slope Tributary Region (11 western States). This survey took two and one-half years to complete as of August 31, 1939.

If our industrial war should be interested particularly in the entire Pacific Slope Region, other than just the State of California. The answer is fourfold:

1. Raw materials are found in, and will be drawn from the other States for some of the most important new industries. It is necessary to know their location and extent.
2. To secure labor, as migrants and relievers would otherwise be drawn to California from this tributary area.
3. The cooperation of the other States is necessary in bringing about the adjustments affecting the feasibility of industry.
4. Ninety-five per cent of the economic problems of the Pacific Slope Area (11 western States) are common, and can be adjusted through such cooperation.

The subcommittee has reviewed in a general way the Industrial Survey—"Encyclopedia of Resources" and finds it very complete. It is, of course, not entirely cross-indexed, and much more work will have to be done to make it readily accessible and convenient, and to furnish sufficient copies for the use of the Legislature and committees. However, the material has all been collected, cataloged and coordinated into the necessary manuscript, maps, charts, et cetera, it only remains to complete the work. For the benefit of the committee there follows herewith a general outline of what this Industrial Survey and Report contains.

Scope

The Industrial Survey is a factual inventory of the available raw materials in the 11 western States, including the mineral, agricultural and forestry fields, together with their location, extent and availability.

A section of the Industrial Report is also devoted to each of the major "plant factors," in addition to the raw materials, affecting the feasibility of industry, including: Transportation: Railroads, highways, intercoastal shipping, inland waterways and airlines; Power: Where generated, location of transmission systems and cost; Trade Barriers: In the major groups and 157 commodities—amount shipped into and out of each State; Population Trends; Labor and Taxes. Sections are also devoted to some specific products having the earmarks of feasibility, such as the new method of electrolytic reduction of low-grade manganese, increased rayon production, et cetera.

The Industrial Survey and Report—Encyclopedia of Western Resources

This basic Industrial Report consists of 12 well-indexed sections, approximately 2,000 pages, including 200 graphs, charts and maps. This work will be up-to-date and sufficient copies furnished for the "Advisory" and "Fact-finding" Committees, and for the Legislature.

Advisers and Consultants

The Mining Bureaus, Schools of Mines, State Engineers, Railroad Commissions, Planning Boards and Directors of Agricultural Extension Service of the 11 western States acted as advisers and consultants in their respective fields in the preparation of the work, together with the United States Geological Survey, the Federal Bureau of Mines and the Federal Power Commission.

Object of Survey

The objective is a new approach to the Relief Unemployment and National defense problems. Through the creation of new permanent industries, based on the rare materials of the region, there will be furnished full time, top wage jobs, and many of the products in which this Nation's markets are now deficient, including many of the so-called "strategic" minerals, will be produced.

New opportunities for private investment will be made available. This will in turn create much additional taxable property needed by the Pacific Slope States to assist in carrying the load.

Forestry Products—location, extent and trends.

*New and Expanded Industries

Minerals—The seven leading strategic minerals of chrome, manganese, mercury (quicksilver), tungsten, antimony, nickel and tin, together with many minerals of lesser importance.

Agriculture—Vegetable oils, fiber flax, linseed oil, sugar (sugar beets), meats and other products.

Forestry—Rayon, newsprint and plastics, in addition to the regular lumber and other miscellaneous products.

It is stated by the Industrial Committee that the cost of completing and furnishing the required number of copies of the Basic Industrial Report (12 indexed sections) and the brief specific recommendations for new industries, together with an outline of the necessary adjustments in the basic work, will amount to $25,000. As stated previously already $150,000 has been expended in making the Survey and Report.

If the required funds are made available early in January, a preliminary report can be submitted at the beginning of the last half of the session, and the completed basic report and brief report of specific recommendations as outlined, presented prior to the adjourning of the session. Approximately four months time will be required.

The brief report pointing out the specific industries and products that are, or can be made feasible of production in California and the tributary area, together with the necessary adjustments, will be prepared and submitted to the "Fact-Finding Committee"—cross-indexed with the basic Industrial Report of 12 sections for reference to supporting data and information.

General Assumptions

In general the future profitable increased production of the Pacific Slope must be based on the products in which this Nation's markets are deficient. In such production the western States are entitled to an adjustment in the cost of production differentials, based on our domestic standards of living, as compared to foreign standards. But, naturally, this movement of adjustment must not unduly affect the cost to the consumer, other considerations, including relief and unemployment costs must more than offset such effect.

Some of the necessary adjustments include tariffs, subsidies, and quotas, which have been built up during the past 50 years by congressional and executive action. Increased production in other lines may be brought about through publicity and

The present survey (June 10, 1941) shows us generally better, with its available raw materials, manufacturing facilities, the 10 States of their products in which the Nation's resources are deficient, and points out the specific adjustments necessary in each case.

A specific example of the possibility of a new industry is given in the case of chromite, the mineral used.

Recommendations

In view of the increasing possibilities indicated by this industrial survey, the committee is of the opinion that it should be carried to completion. It then could be made more effective by the establishment of a permanent office. As the survey is discontinued, plans for more intensive cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Bureau of Mines, and the War Relocation Authority, made for the region. Every effort should be made to carry it out. It forms the foundation for a specific industrial program, and a basis for the relief and unemployment problems.

We therefore recommend to the full committee:

1. That a sum, not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) be appropriated for the purchase of the basic work, and the brief specific report, on chromite.
2. That the Legislatures and proper authorities of the other 10 States in the Pacific States continue to be informed of the survey.

NOTE: Arguments supporting recommendations will be given at the meeting of the Full Committee on June 14, 1941.

Specific Examples of a New Industry

Chromite

Chromite is one of the most important "strategic" minerals, and is used in the manufacturing of armor steel, tool steels, refractories, and in the chemical field. This mineral is extremely hard and abundant and battleship armor steel, on account of its strength, high weight, and resistance.

Over a 100,000 tons of this mineral are consumed from 50,000 tons in 1915, to an estimated 100,000 tons in 1940.

The United States is the largest consumer of this material in the world, and the smallest producer. We produced less than 1 per cent of our domestic consumption. The price for the first four years of the war, 1915 to 1918, was $10 per ton, except for the war years of 1916 and 1917 to 1918, when imports were threatened. The price averaged $14 per ton during the years 1918 and the domestic production jumped to 40 per cent of the Nation's consumption.

The latest price quoted in the Mineral Industry Journal was $34 to $36 per ton f.o.b. All this and 10 per cent. The American Chrome Company, price plus 20 per cent, could be invoked, and "stockpiled" on the Pacific Coast and the specifications properly written, there is little doubt that the United States could be made self-sufficient in this "strategic" mineral.

The Industrial Survey discloses that there are 265 deposits of this "strategic" mineral in five western States—most of them in California.

When full production is reached, an estimated minimum of 5,000 men would be directly employed in the mining and mining operations in this one raw material producing operation alone. As raw material producing industries form the base of the pyramid of employment—for every man directly employed in such an industry on a full time, top-wage job, the record shows that at least 10 persons are directly or indirectly supported in the processing and service industries. In this one industry, production of chromite, only one of the "strategic" minerals in the mineral field, an estimated 50,000 persons would ultimately gain their support.

This is cited as an example of the possibilities of the new approach to the relief—unemployment and National defense problems through new industries. The Nation gets satisfied through domestic production of a necessary mineral. The Pacific States gets a new industry. thereby creating employment, new private investments, and additional taxable property.

Housing

Acting on January 2, 1941)

A bill presented by Mr. H. H. Hendricks, attorney for the United States Housing Authority, which would authorize local housing authorities to undertake defense housing was introduced. It provided that after the emergency period the occupancy in the projects developed under this act will be limited to the enlisted personnel, and their families, of the armed forces and the Maritime Commission and their families or employees of the War and Navy Departments working at Naval reservations or Military posts and that any part of this bill that is in conflict with this provision be amended accordingly.

Federal Legislation

Louham Act (October, 1940) limits expenditure of Federal funds for defense housing to a finding of "necessity for National defense" by the President (upon recommendation of the Housing Coordinator), and would allow construction to be either temporary or permanent, etc., and built by any one of a number of Federal or State agencies including the United States Housing Authority.

Vocational Training for Defense*Action by Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment*

Following a statement made by Mr. J. C. Beswick of the State Department of Education that:

(1) The California Department of Education was carrying on the program created by Federal legislation (a digest of which is attached);

(2) Advisory boards have been set up by local boards of education composed of employer and employee educational representatives;

(3) There has been no additional tax burden on local school districts but costs are provided by State and Federal Governments—the State furnishes the services of the State Department of Education and the Federal Government has actually furnished approximately $300,000 for the program up to the present date, November 30, 1940;

(4) Persons furnished training are either employed or are registered with the State Employment Service;

(5) There are two types of instruction: (a) Supplemental instruction for workers already employed; (b) Refresher courses for persons who can profit by training;

(6) This program is designed for quick emergency training and does not conflict with long-time apprenticeship training; it was moved, seconded and carried that the Legislative Advisory Committee accept Dr. Dexter's invitation to serve as State Advisory Committee on Vocational Education for Defense.

Resolution

At the meeting held January 3, 1941, the following resolution was passed:

The Legislative Advisory Committee recommends to the State Board of Education that it coordinate the work of its State and local advisory boards on defense vocational training, with that of the State and local apprenticeship committees to the end that the most practical training be given, resulting in the greatest possible good to the defense program and to the future of the citizens of this country.

Apprenticeship Training

Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment

At a meeting held at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on October 28, 1940, the following resolution was passed:

Whereas the California Apprenticeship Council has been set up in conformity with the Federal and State legislations pertaining to apprentices in the various crafts and occupations;

Whereas the National Defense Commission has noted the need and necessity for further training of young men for immediate induction for National defense work;

Whereas the California Apprenticeship Council is laboring under inadequate financial resources to conduct the activities of training the industrial apprentice for National defense work;

Whereas the Apprenticeship Council of Industry and Labor has urged that it be urged that the training of apprentices be improved;

Resolved, That the Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment go on record as requesting the Governor of the State of California and the State Legislature of California to make an appropriation to the California Apprenticeship Training Council, so that an adequate personnel may be given to this Council to increase its efficiency in the interest of National Defense."

This resolution followed discussion to the effect that the maximum sum needed for this work was $25,000 per year or $50,000 for the biennium and that the adoption of this resolution would not affect the other major projects of training for defense industries.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20, 1940

Department of Industrial Relations

San Francisco, San Francisco

ATTENTION: AGENT J. M. GORDON, Secretary, California Apprenticeship Council

GENTLEMAN: Under date of February 14, 1940, we have received a request for further consideration of the Apprenticeship Law, as follows:

Regarding the bill, referred to you under date of January 16, 1940, we would ask that you give further thought to the fact that the questions asked therein are presented again conformably with the existing Apprentice Law. In other words, if an employer or group of employers desire to come under the provisions of the act, when

1. Is it mandatory for an employer, or group of employers, to join in the formation of a joint apprenticeship committee?"

In our opinion NS2333, under date of January 16, 1940, we advise you that the Apprenticeship Law is not mandatory in that it does not purport to require employers and employees or the organizations mentioned in the statute to form apprenticeship committees to indenture apprentices as provided, by the act. It is true, however, that if apprentices are to be indentured, they must be indentured as provided by the act, for there is no longer any other statute in California regulating or permitting indentured apprentices. As the statute is the measure of the power, if apprentices are to be indentured in this State, Sections 3070 and following of the Labor Code must be followed.

This does not mean, however, that it is not possible for the employer and employee to enter into a labor contract; that is, a helper may be employed by either formal written agreement or oral agreement; and while he might be referred to as an apprentice, he would not be recognized as a regularly indentured apprentice under the California law.

Very truly yours,
(Signed)

Statement As to Training of Apprentices and Others at Mare Island Navy Yard By H. W. Osterhaus

On Tuesday, November 26th, I saw the Industrial Manager of the Mare Island Navy Yard, Captain Crisp, U.S.N., and he gave me a very complete outline as to the steps the authorities there are taking to meet the need for additional training of men in defense work. These men are being trained primarily for work at Mare Island, as the work load at the Navy Yard has increased since the defense program was stepped up. About 15,000 men are now employed on the yard whereas normally from three to five thousand are working.

During normal times the Navy Yard carries an Apprentice School which averages about 100 boys. This school now has 300. By January 1st 100 more will be added. This number will be stepped up as rapidly as considered practicable until there are 800 in training. The usual time for training of an apprentice before he is given his "diploma" or certificate of training, is four years. Now the training period has been reduced to two years, although the certificate is not given apprentice at the end of that time. During the last two years of the four, the apprentice is paired off with the regular mechanic and does as much useful work as possible. He receives increased compensation commensurate with the work performed. At the end of the four years the apprentice will receive his certificate of graduation from the school. The instructors for these apprentices are all Navy Yard employees, good mechanics and men chosen for their ability to instruct.

By authority of the Navy Department, the Navy Yard is also training regular employees to be what may be termed as "Specialists." This course is for six months and the number eventually to be placed in training will be 1,000. These men are assigned as helpers to trained mechanics and learn one or two special jobs. The large number to be so trained eventually will be divided between the day and night shift. So far only day training is being used.

In addition to the shop training of these specialists, they have to spend one day a week in school—all day. A school is maintained on the yard for that purpose. The instructors at this school are Navy Yard employees, and the head of the school is a practical Navy machinist, or Lieutenant of the regular Navy.

In addition to the above, the City of Vallejo has inaugurated a night school at which any of the Navy Yard apprentices or other employees may attend to receive further instruction. Attendance at this school is purely voluntary.

When the Navy Yard tackled the problem of vastly expanding their apprentice school and the additional training of "specialists," I was informed that Mr. Beswick of the State Board of Education went into the matter with the industrial manager of the yard. Mr. Beswick offered to cooperate and do anything possible to aid the Naval authorities and spoke of a Federal appropriation which would be requested to further apprentice training work. However, when later the Navy Yard requested of the State board two men who had had training in vocational schools, the men were not forthcoming. The Yard was told they could not be supplied but that an effort to obtain one man would be made under certain considerations. Consequently the Naval authorities dropped the matter. The two men desired were not to be used as instructors, but simply to act in an administrative capacity to suggest schedules, curricula, etc. All instructors at the Navy Yard Schools are picked Yard mechanics. However, the Navy Yard was fortunate in obtaining a Naval Reserve Lieutenant whose name, I believe, is Owen, and who had graduated from one of the vocational schools in the Bay Area. He has been very valuable in working up courses and so forth. I looked through, in a general way, some of these courses are given those very comprehensive and thorough. Particular note is of the very high standards. No shortcuts are followed and the training is thorough in every respect. The apprentices are considered the backbone of the Union Steel companies.

The Navy Yard also has a school for the training of apprentices. Picked men from the machinists are given this training and the course is most thorough and comprehensive for anyone doing the kind of work he is trained to do.

Defense Council

RECOMMENDATION OF THE LEGISLATIVE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON DEFENSE AND EMPLOYMENT TO THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE FINDING COMMITTEE ON DEFENSE

At a meeting held in the Assembly on September 16, 1940, it was recommended that the Legislature create a "council of defense" with not more than thirty-three (33) members. (Including the Governor, the Governor's Council, the members of the Governor and the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly. These members are to be named by the Governor.)

It has been stated that the States are obliged to set up "defense councils" according to a Federal plan from the National Defense Advisory Committee but this is not the fact. It is also stated that the Federal plan of State councils is in operation. There appears in fact to be little or no uniformity of plan followed by the States in the establishment of such councils—a number of States apparently have no indication of establishing any such council at all and several others, if organization now existing having those that have established councils. For example:

Massachusetts has a Committee on Defense Safety composed of 150 representative citizens named by Governor Winthrop D. This committee will provide an active central organization to coordinate all defense activities and to deal with various problems affecting the progress of the war. This committee coordinates work of local committees set up in response to the Committee's appeal in every town and city in the State. The State Planning Board is a part of the committee. Massachusetts has also a Committee for National Industrial Defense composed of the President of the Associated Industries, the Chairman of the Department of Industrial Commission and the Director of the Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission to assist in speeding up production of defense materials. This latter group has conducted an extensive program. Massachusetts has the committee.

The State of Washington has a defense committee of 25 appointed by the Governor. The committee has no connection with the State Planning Board, has selected its own chairman and works through local councils.

Montana has no defense council, nor has Oklahoma. The latter has a program of vocational training and together with other midwestern States is working on location of defense industries.

Colorado has no defense committee but is considering creating one for home defense only.

Illinois has none except one set up by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Nevada has no committee and does not think it needs one.

In New York, Governor Lehman has appointed an advisory committee of 12 and has asked the long range Health Commission to work with defense committees appointed by local hospitals and universities.

Defense—Housing

On September 17, 1940, it was noted and carried that the Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense, having had time to spend in pressing for workers engaged in defense industries, recommends to the Legislative Committee that a bill be drafted for presentation at the next session of the Legislature to provide housing on a temporary basis for workers engaged in defense activities but that such a program not be connected with social housing.

This action was taken after consideration of a request that the committee recommend to the Legislature the enactment of changes in the present State Housing Law which would make it possible to bring a part of the long-time Permanent Housing Program of the United States Housing Authority. This could have been brought about by a change in the law which would make it legal for U.S.H.A. houses to be rented to higher income groups than is allowed at present, and by the removal of the requirement of such houses as part of such program.

It was the consensus of a majority of the committee that such a recommendation would result in a greatly postponed program of socialization of housing, a program not contemplated by Congress in its enactment of defense legislation, and that the continuing of a Social Housing Program and a program to meet a defense emergency are two very different things which should not be combined.

The committee's recommendation was based first, on the theory that real need for additional housing in any locality would be proved before any question of building temporary structures for houses would be considered. A determination of this sort is required by the Federal Act which provides, "That there is an acute shortage of housing which impedes the National Defense Program and that such necessary housing would not otherwise be provided."

It was also felt that efforts should be made to provide housing, whenever possible, through private capital, through F.H.A., or through loans from the R.F.C. before defense housing should be resorted to. These methods would probably meet the needs in most metropolitan areas where many low rental houses are still available for occupancy.

It was felt that all defense housing built by the Government should be temporary in its nature and not part of the U.S.H.A. Program which would build houses for from 30 to 60 years occupancy resulting in a vast number of Government-owned houses after the emergency is over, often in localities where they would not be needed. In this regard it is interesting to note that although the U.S.H.A. was given authority to take part in the Defense Housing Program under HR 9822, funds appropriated for this purpose by Congress (some $500,000,000), have not been given to this agency but to the Army and Navy for its own Housing Program and to the Public Buildings Administration.

As a result of hearings held on this subject, a bill by the U.S.H.A. to get required authority to put "Defense Housing" into the permanent housing program was defeated.

Home Guard for Local Home Defense

Following an explanation by Mr. Allen Griffin of the program hereinafter set forth, the Advisory Committee passed the following resolution: "That a Civilian Defense Plan be incorporated in the Defense Program under consideration at this special session of the Legislature." On January 3, 1941, the following resolution was passed:

"That this committee recommend that adequate legislation be enacted enabling and directing The Adjutant General to develop a plan for civilian defense and relief by setting up a coordinated program, of civilian non-Military defense to be used only in case of emergency and to enlarge his staff with non-Military personnel to a number deemed suitable by him to meet the needs of the situation of which not more than one would be a paid officer, to assist him in the development of such activities."

The following principles are proposed as essential to the efficient and economical organization of a Home Guard:

1. Its duty should be essentially limited to local Home Defense, for which its obligations should be specified. All defense problems requiring mobility over broad areas or requiring equipment, vehicles, or concentration of supplies for larger combat activity should be the function of regular Army, National Guard, or drafted troops trained for such combat defense purposes.

2. The Home Guard should operate under a plan—

a. That is easy of organization through civilian sources, among which are men of World War experience and subsequent executive experience who are capable of undertaking this task if authoritatively assigned to them;

b. That entails a minimum of expense to the Federal Government or to the State, requiring a minimum of equipment, arms, supplies and vehicles.

c. That is capable of expansion or contraction, according to the local defensive needs of the community or locality, according to the geographical location, nature of industries, composition of population, etc., of the locality.

d. That is capable of immediate mobilization in whole or in part to assume its duties actively.

e. That would enlist in its service as volunteers the substantial and dependable men of the community who would in all probability be exempted from Military duty because of age, dependents, employment in key industries, etc.

f. That could be trained and educated in its various duties without disrupting the ordinary economic life of the community; and that when an active service in the community would cause the least disruption of the economic life of its territory.

g. That would require the minimum of training and supervision by regular or reserve Army officers who can not be spared for this purpose. There are plenty of men qualified by Military and executive experience for this training and command, who are at present barred from the reserves because of their age.

3. The duties of a Home Guard should be as follows, depending of course upon the vulnerability of the territory in which it is formed:

a. Its members should be fully informed and educated as to all strategic points within their respective home defense districts, such as oil and gas supplies, water works, manufacturing establishments, bridges, docks, airports, tunnels; and be organized and trained to protect and defend such points from sabotage or enemy infiltration;

b. Its members should be fully informed and educated regarding all roads, trails, railroads, and other lines of communication within their districts;

c. It should be trained in first aid and in the topography of the respective home defense districts together with the attributes thereof in relation to Military service.

d. Special units should be formed to provide for and assist in the hospitalization and the evacuation of civilian population in their respective districts, according to a well considered plan.

e. It should cooperate with the Intelligence Section of the Regular Army and with the FBI with which it is to be trained to cooperate effectively due to the knowledge of its members of the people and pursuits of the people in its own district.

f. It should be prepared to assume duties in connection with the conscription of man power in time of National emergency if called upon;

g. It should train and arm a sufficient force to act as infantry or as automobile infantry in emergency to defend their respective home defense districts against any preliminary enemy activity or if called upon by the local officers in the event of serious disturbances during a war emergency;

h. It should be ready to render such other duties in connection with home defense as may be requested by the War or Army or National Guard in such matters and during the same, furnish such such information with respect to their respective home defense districts as the War Department General Staff may require.

i. It should have units prepared to provide preliminary, elementary drill and instruction of members of similar units in the area.

j. It should be trained, according to the vulnerability of its district, to direct the civilian population to bomb shelters and places of safety, etc., in the event of surprise attacks.

Discussion

A Sound Home Defense Plan for a Local Home Guard must be flexible enough to fulfill the conditions that might be required in such locality; and therefore its tables of organization should provide for such flexibility.

The size and the number and composition of Home Guard units would depend upon the vulnerability of the State and the districts to be protected. It is obvious, therefore, that the coastal States and border regions would require larger and more specialized organizations than most of the interior States. Some of the latter might require very little organization. It is apparent also that industrial areas would require far more organization than semi-industrial and agricultural regions. It is wasteful of energy and funds to provide more organization than is required according to the realistic needs of each area; but obviously the realistic needs of each area must be specifically known.

The Home Guard must, in order to be effective, enroll men of high calibre and should, therefore, be organized by the most responsible elements of the community. It is then capable of rapid expansion and efficient operation, and will be free either of political influence or of financial surrender activities. Its formation by well-informed and responsible men of such community means that it would be an organization entirely alert to the needs of the community. It could therefore render effective aid to the Intelligence Service.

There is little need for "drilling" activities in the training of those units that are not intended to fulfill the "duties" of the local Home Defense District. Men should be fitted to the jobs they are most capable of fulfilling efficiently. This will eliminate a lot of unnecessary and irksome "training" except where it is required.

Young men under the draft age, should NOT be incorporated in these units. Home defense activities should be in the hands of more stable and responsible persons who do not require the discipline that would have to be enforced with youths. There are sufficient number of men above the age of 40 to form responsible and effective organizations, as well as other men who would not be subject to the draft because of dependents, responsible positions, etc.

It is most advisable that these units be organized as a special component of the Organized Reserves of the United States Army. That would result in the volunteering of a better quality of men than under any other sponsorship.

Tests of the readiness of these organizations could be easily and economically conducted by calling a mobilization of "observers" at any time in any community for inspection by the proper military authorities.

A Home Guard of this type would prevent the dispersal of Regular Army, National Guard, or National Guard forces for "guard work" or local protection. Moreover, a Home Guard of this type would be more effective and more acceptable to local populations, as it would be made up of men who knew the territory, the people, the customs and habits, etc. This is essential if a Home Guard is to fulfill its functions.

In order to have enrollment of men qualified for these various functions, it is imperative that the system should be based on LOCAL Home Defense, and that these forces should not be shifted from base to base. This also is a matter of great economy. Under this system there would be no occasion for an elaborate service of supply, for armories, for expensive establishments, or for Government vehicles except in exceptional circumstances. The "motorized" infantry of such a Home Guard would use its own automobiles, private cars. There would be no need to equip such an organization except with uniforms to be worn only when on duty and with "obsolete" arms. For training and educational purposes, public school buildings, gymnasiums, public parks, etc., could be used.

Organization of geographical areas in a plan of this nature is suggested in House of Representatives Bill 10071.

In addition to its military and semi-military functions, the organization of a Home Guard along the lines proposed above would also have the following results:

1. It would serve in educating each community in the obligations of citizenship and would have a serious and desirable effect upon the less stable citizens and on aliens. In this respect it would serve the process of Americanization:

2. It would have a stabilizing influence in each community. People would feel assured that their local situation was well in hand. There would be less occasion for hysteria, which is a potential threat where populations have been shown to be as mercurial as they have been in some parts of the country ("Man From Mars" incident in New Jersey, etc.). It would add to assurance.

3. It would indicate the seriousness of responsible citizens in supporting the Defense Program of the Nation and would stimulate interest in and a greater knowledge of the Military establishment.

Recommendation re Granting a Certificate of Merit to Firms Which Make an Agreement with Their Employees Who Enter the Service of the United States

On July 26, 1940, it was moved that it be the judgment of this committee that it is not good public policy for any employer, including all governmental agencies, not to grant employees who may be called into this service their full rights, had at the time that they are called for service in public defense, and that private employers would be awarded a certificate reading substantially as follows in this connection: "In recognition of the patriotism of the John Jones Company in making an agreement with its employees, and with the State of California, that no member of its personnel who volunteers or who is called into service for National defense shall lose his status as an employee by reason of absence for such service, this certificate of merit is awarded by the Legislature of the State of California."

This matter is no longer voluntary under the Federal Conscription Act which was passed on September 16, 1940, a copy of which follows:

Conscription Bill (Public 783, 76th Congress, S. 4164)

Number to be determined by President with maximum number of 900,000 men at one time, unless in time of war.

4. Training period one year.

5. Persons inducted into land forces shall not be employed beyond limits of Western Hemisphere except in Territories of United States including Philippines.

Vacancy in employment caused by draft not to be filled by member of the Bund or the Communist Party.

Treasure Island

The Legislative Advisory Committee has been requested and has formed the use of Treasure Island and its buildings by the Navy or Army with the resultant saving to the taxpayers by having the temporary buildings put to a necessary use and recommended on July 26, 1940, that the demolition of the buildings be deferred until it was determined if such necessary protection.

On December 3, 1940, in Sacramento, the committee recommended that the State pass any necessary legislation to authorize the use of such property for defense purposes and thereby release such property for use by the Federal Government for defense purposes.

At the Special Session on December 2, 1940, the Legislature passed Assembly Bill No. 1, which in substance is as follows:

"An act to amend the title of 'An act granting certain tidelands and submerged lands of the State of California to the City and County of San Francisco for development and use as a public airport, regulating the management, use, lease and control thereof, authorizing the reclamation and certain improvements of said lands and the construction and maintenance of a bridge or causeway connecting said lands with Yerba Buena Island,' approved June 13, 1933, and to add a new section to the last-mentioned Section 5, thereby authorizing the City and County of San Francisco to permit the use of said lands, or any part thereof, by the United States of America for Military or Naval purposes, and providing that this act shall take effect immediately."

Miscellaneous Recommendations

Naval Militia

On information that there is reason to believe that a Naval Militia is considered a duplication of the Naval Reserve, the Advisory Committee recommends that no State Naval Militia be formed in California except upon the recommendation of the United States Navy.

Fifth Column Activities

On July 26th, the following motion was passed:

"That the Advisory Committee recommend to the State Legislature the passage of such legislation as will outlaw all political parties which do not subscribe to the principles of the American form of Government."

On September 21, 1940, the Legislature passed the following act:

"Section 1. Section 2540.3 is hereby added to the Elections Code, to read as follows:

2540.3. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this code, no party shall be recognized or qualified to participate in any primary election which uses or adopts as one part of its party designation the word 'Communist' or any derivative of the word 'Communist'.

SEC. 2. Section 2540.4 is hereby added to the Elections Code, to read as follows:

2540.4. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this code, no party shall be recognized or qualified to participate in any primary election which is directly or indirectly affiliated, by any means whatsoever, with the Communist Party of the United States, the Third Communist International, or any other foreign agency, political party, organization or government or which either directly or indirectly carries on, advocates, teaches, justifies, aids, or abets the overthrow by any unlawful means of, or which directly or indirectly carries on, advocates, teaches, justifies, aids, or abets a program of sabotage, force and violence, sedition or treason against the Government of the United States or of this State.

SEC. 3. Section 2540.9 is hereby added to the Elections Code, to read as follows:

2540.9. The Secretary of State shall, with the advice and consent of the Attorney General, determine which parties are qualified to participate in any primary election. Such determination shall be subject to review by the courts in accordance with law.

SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be enacted in the exercise of the police power of this State for the protection of the public peace, safety and general welfare of the residents of this State.

SEC. 5. If any provisions of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby."

The following report was adopted by Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment on September 17, 1940:

"Mobilization for Employment"

"In the report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment it was pointed out that 'The major factor in solving California's relief problem must be a mobilization for employment.' And that 'in this the State, which hitherto has done little or nothing, must become an aggressive leader. Business must be made to understand the choice between cooperation and taxation; between mobilization to meet an emergency as serious as war, and moral and financial bankruptcy.' It then comments on the plan developed in Pennsylvania and continues 'The committee recommends that the Legislature keep constantly in touch with the Pennsylvania mobilization.'"

It is the purpose, therefore, of this report (1) to give an account of the Pennsylvania Plan; (2) to report on the unemployment problem in California; and (3) to recommend a plan of mobilization for employment to be carried out in the State.

The Pennsylvania Plan

History. When the Pennsylvania Plan was introduced, relief costs in that State had risen from $7,500,000 for the year 1931-1932 to $132,000,000 for the year 1938-1939. By mid-September of 1939, more than 273,129 cases were on relief (828,195 persons were included in this number).

At this point the Joint State Government Commission, a nonpartisan board of State Legislators, agreed that the relief burden must be reduced and that employment was the soundest method.

This Legislative Commission and the Governor (Arthur H. James), and members of the Governor's Cabinet agreed the responsibility of any reemployment effort should rest upon those best fitted to know about the subject, to wit: The business men of the State. They, therefore, proceeded to take the following steps.

A subcommittee of the State Legislature called on Mr. Walter D. Fuller, President of the Curtis Publishing Company, and urged him to organize and head a re-employment movement. This was agreed to on the three following conditions:

1. That the 'grass roots' methods be applied and the solution found in the local knowledge and responsibility of unemployment, relief and taxation.

2. That business be encouraged and stimulated in every proper way so as to create jobs in private business in contrast to temporary expedients such as 'give-a-job' plans or high-pressure ballyhoo.

3. That no one be misled into expecting a miracle, but that the campaign be an honest and hopeful effort to do as much good as possible, in view of the business recession and other handicaps.

The following is a copy of a letter dated September 12, 1940, from Mr. Walter D. Fuller, explaining the exact organization of the Mobilization Plan:

"This is reply to your recent letter relative to the Pennsylvania Job Mobilization Movement.

The committee actually began its work at the act of the Legislature, nor did we have any money at the start. It was started by a special Labor Emergency Committee of the House and Senate," who asked me to find something to do that could be done about unemployment. The Government paid you, the Labor Emergency Committee in this connection.

A very large expenditure was then laid up and it became quickly evident that we were not going to do it. About $12,000 was raised among business men by a Finance Committee which I established. This paid the salaries of the director and of certain of his most active assistants, the only public relations committee, the publications, etc. It also covered my traveling expenses and a few other items of this nature.

We were able to get money from the Department of Public Assistance and a further loan from the Labor Department, which controls the money of the State. These public bills loaned to us and the Department of Public Assistance paid the bills for printed matter, office equipment, postage, etc. Altogether, about $41,000 of the State's money was spent, this money being part of the appropriations of these two departments, and in addition we spent the $12,000 which we raised. Since the money was loaned to the teachers, there were no regular salaries.

Thank you very much for the kind things you say about the Pennsylvania plan. It was done, I think, more so than any of us thought possible when we began.

Result of Pennsylvania Plan. Five months' work resulted in at least 100,000 new jobs in private industry. "That the effect on the relief situation of this movement, which benefited all types of unemployed, was great is indicated by the fact that at the end of the first four months of 1940 there were 51,548 fewer cases, or 154,240 fewer persons on the State's general assistance rolls than for the same period of 1939, and the monthly cost was $1,483,325 lower. The net reduction in relief expenditure during these four months in 1940 compared with the same period a year ago amounted to $4,720,000.

It was found that although there were more than a million unemployed in the State, 12,000 job opportunities could not be filled as no qualified workers were available through the State Unemployment Service. Sources indicated a definite shortage of skilled workers in Pennsylvania in approximately 300 occupations. A plan for training for the unemployed in a little known plan in use in Williamsport was brought to light and followed in other districts.

The Pennsylvania Committee found that the State was in great need of 'a more complete placement service in the local or county offices of the Department of Public Assistance to supplement the work of the State Employment Service.' They recommended too that such employees be given 'a merit rating on the basis of placements made.' 'And that stress should be placed on securing employment for the relief recipient rather than focusing major attention on the purely administrative detail of disbursing assistance funds.'

They also stressed vocational training, and because of the over-supply of teachers in that State, suggested that from three to six of the teachers colleges be turned into junior vocational colleges.

They recommended that the Department of Labor should inaugurate a field service to facilitate and expand the Pennsylvania Apprenticeship Council and to encourage the reopening of apprenticeship training opportunities in industry.

They asked for a complete retraining study of employables on relief and a study of so-called 'unemployables' to determine who among them might be rehabilitated for employment.

They advocated a State Employment Council composed of Secretaries of Labor, Commerce, Public Assistance and Public Instruction which council would have under it local councils made up of private citizens and representatives of public departments to serve as a clearinghouse for all matters relating to employment and relief.

The California Problem

"A plan such as that put into effect in Pennsylvania could be somewhat modified to meet present needs in California where the problems are in some respects simpler and in others far more complex than they were in Pennsylvania last November.

Due to the increased employment and industrial expansion going on at this time, the problem as it relates to industry would be far easier here today as natural jobs would not have to be created as they were in Pennsylvania. The program would, therefore, consist of an educational campaign among employers to employ persons on relief in this State wherever possible. This could be done by an explanation of the tax and social problems which will be created if, under this vast defense program which will require such heavy taxation, the relief costs are not reduced to a minimum, and if thousands of our citizens remain idle. It appears that industry in this State has been allergic to persons on relief—probably with good reasons when the slack eligibility rules allowed people to be supported with no effort made to get them to work and when relief costs always rose, no matter what industry did.

A program also would have to be instituted within the SRA, vigorously to place relief recipients in private employment, through the California State Employment Service and through other means. At present the SRA has little or no reemployment program, and while it is true that relief recipients are registered with the Employment Service, it is generally believed that they are not frequently offered the available jobs since the applicants who are more eager to get work are deemed better suited to employment. Out-of-state people, therefore, not yet eligible to relief, often get jobs instead of State residents.

There is no need in this report to prove that the relief problem in California is one which is in dire need of a solution. The very excellent and comprehensive report of the Legislative Fact-Finding Committee shows that the Legislature is keenly aware of the evils in the present system, many of which the Legislature has already taken steps to correct. It appears, however, that a program of this kind is greatly needed to shift the emphasis from relief to work and to introduce into the program a new philosophy of work and self-reliance.

The principal problem is one of how the securing of private employment can best be accomplished and in this regard I submit the following recommendations:

(1) That the Joint Legislative Committee appoint an outstanding California industrialist to head a mobilization for employment campaign and, with his approval, a group of competent men and women representing various activities such as organized labor, education, business, etc., to serve with him;

(2) That the SRA and the State Department of Employment be asked to cooperate in this plan and wherever necessary to assign certain workers to carry it out;

(3) That local committees be formed to develop the program to suit the local communities under supervision of the State group;

(4) That such State committee report its findings to this committee in December so that changes in the Employment Service and the SRA can be recommended to the Legislature in 1941."

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, June 14, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 393, entitled "An act to amend Section 5 of The Personal Income Tax Act of 1935, relating to rates of taxation."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

It has as its object reduction of the State income tax upon individuals having annual incomes in excess of $50,000. As a matter of fact, the effect of this legislation would be chiefly a transfer to the Federal Government of income taxes now paid to the State. There would be some net reduction in taxes paid by our wealthy citizens had their incomes rising and the community with the loss in solely needed State revenues.

Results computed show that the enactment of Senate Bill No. 294 into law would result in a loss of approximately $1,610,000 per year to State tax receipts, but of this amount $745,000 might be by the Federal Government in larger income tax payments under the present law. The net loss to the State would be approximately $865,000 per year. In such income tax paid by California taxpayers having no deductions in excess of $10,000 a year, then the State would suffer a $1,610,000 loss in revenue, but the Federal Government would gain more than $1,000,000.

This result derives from the fact that State income taxes are deductible in computing the amount of income (which under the Federal Code, is). If State taxes were reduced $1,610,000, the amount of deductions which could be taken in calculating the net Federal tax would also be reduced $1,610,000 and the Federal tax would be increased $1,610,000. It is estimated that out of every dollar the State might reduce its tax on the larger incomes, the Federal Government would take that dollar in its own, thereby saving the net of the public the dollar.

	Income taxes payable
	Present 1940 and Federal rates	Rates proposed in Senate Bill No. 294 percentage of rates
Total State income tax	$7,100	$4,750
Total Federal income tax	$15,72	10,497
Total State and Federal tax	$22,82	$15,247

Thus, a comparison shows that although the reduction of State taxes would be $1,600,000 per year, the total State and Federal taxes would be reduced to such an individual would be less than $500 under the provisions of this bill.

It is contended that the income tax in California is driving wealth out of this State. This contention is not borne out by analysis of returns filed in connection with the administration of the income tax. Of all California taxpayers, 99.99 per cent of the returns in 1935, of $2,000,000 and the State tax was over $10,000. death and other normal causes, only two taxpayers have failed to file a return as a California resident in subsequent years. Furthermore, it is contended that Santa Barbara County has been particularly affected by an exodus of wealthy taxpayers, but the fact is that of all counties over $10,000 in taxable income a year since 1935, only two have left the State. It is true that the number of large incomes in that county has diminished since 1937, but this has been due to economic causes rather than an exodus of taxpayers to other States.

The popular fallacy that income taxes in California are particularly excessive should be disposed of once and for all. Anyone who investigates the facts of the situation will discover that California provides more advantages to the taxes made possible. A man with $100,000 taxable income, living in a State that has no State income tax pays only $7,100.

In California pays in total to both the State and Federal Governments.

Moreover, the community property law of California offers a distinct advantage to California residents only available in seven other States. Where joint income is involved the privilege of filing separate tax returns has the effect of reducing both the Federal and State income taxes. Taxpayers who are husband and wife may divide their total income, file two returns, and reduce their income tax very materially; or by dividing the income they become subject to the much lower rates accessible on the smaller incomes. To illustrate: A married man with an income of $100,000 would pay a Federal tax of $29,572, whereas, by dividing the income equally between the husband and wife, under the California law, they would pay a total Federal tax of only $27,615, that is, almost $12,000 less than in a non-community property State. These factors must be taken into consideration in comparing California income taxes with those in effect elsewhere. Emphasis upon the fundamental tax advantages of California and a publication of the facts in this situation would be of greater advantage to the welfare of this State than a reduction in tax rates which is of minor benefit to the taxpayer but a very real deterrent to a return to a sound financial condition in our State Government.

As shown above, the California taxpayers would only receive reductions totaling $185,000 per year under the provisions of this bill, whereas, the State would lose a total of $1,610,000 per year, or $1,425,000 net loss in revenues. The biennial State Budget shows that the State is confronted with a deficit of approximately $47,000,000 as of June 30, 1941. Reduced State expenditures and the increased revenue due to the income tax reductions to date but at the end of this biennium this deficit may be entirely eliminated. The elimination of this deficit, however, depends upon the maintenance of the present tax system. Furthermore, we must, at this time, make every effort to place the State in a position to withstand the adjustments which must come inevitably when our present defense prosperity ends. Until such time as we know something of the future financial difficulties which may be in store for this State, we can ill afford to take any steps which would make such a substantial reduction in State revenue as that contemplated in Senate Bill No. 393.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, June 14, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 1183, entitled: "An act to add Section 45.5 to the Vehicle Code, relating to definition of implement of husbandry."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

The bill adds a new section to the Vehicle Code reading as follows:

"A trailer or semitrailer used for the transportation of liquefied petroleum gas for use by the owner or lessee of agricultural property in connection with his agricultural pursuits, shall be deemed to be an implement of husbandry."

Under Section 142 of the Vehicle Code implements of husbandry are exempt from registration and weight fees.

The bill is entirely too broad in providing the exemptions from these fees. It makes no distinction, based upon the ownership of the trailer or semitrailer, nor upon the extent of the use of the highways by such a vehicle. The bill is not limited to the situation where the owner or lessee of agricultural property also owns the vehicle and uses it entirely in connection with his agricultural operations upon his agricultural property and only incidentally uses the highway in going from one point on such property to another. Unless a bill were so limited in its application, an almost impossible problem of enforcement of the registration laws would be created. Under this bill there would be no way of determining whether or not a tank trailer or semitrailer found upon the highway hauling liquefied petroleum gas was required to be licensed unless the vehicle were followed to its destination and the intended use of the contents were determined.

I believe the bill in its present form would raise a serious constitutional question as the contention could be made that it is discriminatory and special legislation. It would seem difficult to justify the exemption of certain vehicles from registration and weight fees whose use of the highway might be identical with the use by similar vehicles, the only distinction being the use that might be made of the cargo after the transportation was completed.

This bill violates the fundamental idea of the present exemption of implements of husbandry, as that exemption is not intended to exempt vehicles which are engaged in the transportation of property over the public highways.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

Senate Resolution No. 151

Relative to the operating of a Senate Committee to Study State Building Needs.

WHEREAS When the need for improvement of certain of the State institutions is extremely pressing, it is imperative that it should be undertaken for the State to embark on the immediate future on any comprehensive building program in comparison with the construction program of the Federal Government during the existing National emergency; and

WHEREAS It further appears that the cost of a comprehensive building program should be paid from any source of expenditures expeditious under existing Revenue Laws; and

WHEREAS It seems at the time that no need for additional space to house the officers and the employees of the State has arisen in recent years, no comprehensive plan has yet been made for the entire collection of buildings adequate to meet that need; and

WHEREAS The report of the Subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Finance on a State Building Program, appearing on page 2407 of the Senate Journal for June 6, 1941, was received and read by the Senate upon a roll call vote; and

WHEREAS In that report the subcommittee recommended among other things, that an Interim Committee of the Senate be appointed to make a thorough investigation and to report to the Legislature when it next convenes on the need for and the cost of a plan adequate to care for all State agencies and institutions; and that when the report of such Interim committee has been prepared, a special session of the Legislature be called to cause legislation to carry into effect such of the recommendations as seem to it fit and proper; now, therefore, be it
